The Relief Society Woman's Mercantile Association.

Is opening a store for the sale of home manufactures in the building lately occupied by the Woman's Centennial Territorial Fair, known as the Old Constitution Building, opposite Z. C. M. I. store.

We are now ready to receive home-made useful and ornamental articles of all kinds, which we will sell on commission.

Many of our citizens have felt the want of a place devoted exclusively to Utah productions, and now that we are, in accordance with the wishes of President Young, uniting our humble efforts in this direction, we confidently trust that we shall not only have the support of all branches of the Relief Society throughout the valleys of the mountains, but also of our brethren and all others who feel an interest in the future welfare and prosperity of Utah.

Commencing as we do without capital, we wish it distinctly understood that at present we can only sell on commission.

Soriculture.—There will be a meeting of the Deseret Silk Association held in the Freeman's Hall, to-morrow, Nov. 1st, commencing at two p. m.

H. SIMPSON, Sec'y.

The New Appointees.—It will be seen by a dispatch that Hon. Barbour Lewis has been appointed Register of the U. S. land office in this city, vice O. A. Patton suspended. The vacancy in the register's office created by the suspension of Valentine M. C. Silva, has been filled by the appointment to that office of Hon. M. M. Kane, who during the last few months held the office of Secretary of the Territory.

Salmon Fry.—Hon. A. P. Rockwood states that he has received numerous letters of inquiry concerning the salmon fry, in answer to which he requests us to say something like the following:—

The distribution of fry is now in progress.

They can be sent by rail, provided that there is no delay in transit. If there is delay of more than an hour, there should be somebody at the depot to attend to them, or they will suffer and be likely to die. They need no attention while in active transit, as the motion of the cars agitates and aerates the water, and causes it to be more healthful for them.

The water most suitable for the fry to be put into is that of springs of moderate temperature, from 50 to 60 degrees F., rather than from 80 to 40 degrees.

If the fry have to be put into cold water, they should be gradually lowered into it. The temperature of the water with the fry in, and the temperature of the public stream into which they are to be placed, should be compared before the fry are removed from the tank. If the water of the stream is more than six or eight degrees colder than the water in the tank, some of the stream water should be dipped up and put into the tank, a little at a time for a few hours, until the water in the tank is gradually reduced to the temperature of that in the stream, and the fry have become used to it. Then they can be placed in the stream.

A Call.—Yesterday we received a call from Mr. Paul J. Salisbury, brother to a member of the editorial staff of the New York Sun, to which journal he contributes occasional correspondence. Mr. S. was lately in the Indian country, being in the Red Cloud agency at the time of the disaster to Custer and his command. He states that the consternation and fear that seized upon the whites in that region when the news of the affair was received is beyond description.

He informed us he had seen Sitting Bull, whom he describes as rather tall, very powerfully built, and remarkably intelligent. Mr. S. is an admirer of Red Cloud especially, who, he says, possesses remarkable oratorical powers, being a fluent and forcible speaker. Spotted Tail is more cultivated, and more imbued with the ideas of modern civilization, than Red Cloud.

Mr. S. has also been in the Indian Territory, and he is of opinion that if the policy of removing the Black Hills tribes to that part of the country be adhered to, the purpose in this move on the part of the Government must be to create a war among the Indians themselves, in the hope that the result will be of the "Kilkenny cat" description. Anyhow he says he is certain that if that plan should be carried out the population of the Indian Territory would resist it fiercely, and a bloody conflict would be inevitable.

If this opinion regarding the intention or motive of the Government be correct, it speaks badly for the humanity of the administration.

lation; in fact the policy of inducing a bloody war among any people is most revolting to think of, and should the Government take such a course it would incur a very heavy responsibility.

Departure of Missionaries.—Tomorrow morning Elders Henry Grow, of this city, James Straw, of Springfield, and J. E. Brinton, of Big Cottonwood, purpose leaving this city for Philadelphia. They have all been appointed to labor in the Pennsylvania, Delaware and Maryland Missionary District, over which Elder Grow has been selected to preside. The latter is a native of the first named State, and will visit among his relatives there, whom he has not seen for over thirty years.

Theatre.—There was a full house at the Theatre last evening to witness the illusions of Prof. Baldwin and Clara Baldwin, which were certainly of a most remarkable kind, deceiving the quickest eyes as to the modus operandi.

This evening it is announced that the Process and Clara will again appear, performing the cabinet tricks with the doors open, and explaining them familiarly. They will also give a number of other tricks and manifestations, explaining them to the audience, so that they can be readily understood.

Young vs. Young.—This case came up before Judge Schaeffer at one o'clock this afternoon, on a motion by defendant's attorneys for a stay of proceedings. The first ground of the motion is that appeals had been taken from the several orders, from that directing the payment of the alimony pendente lite, and from that directing the sequestration of defendant's property. The second ground is that the sequestration which holds the property of the defendant is irresponsible.

Messrs. Williams, Shooks and Rawlins, of attorneys for the defendant, presented the argument in support of the motion being opened by Mr. Shooks. Messrs. McBride and Hagan appeared on the other side.

Overruled.—The motion for a stay of the proceedings, in the case of Young vs. Young, on the order for the sequestration and sale of certain property of the defendant, for the payment of alimony pendente lite, was overruled, this afternoon, by Judge Schaeffer.

The Wells, Fargo & Co. Robbery.—On the 15th of last month, Wells, Fargo & Co.'s messenger on the train running from Ogden to Salt Lake, reported that on the way to the latter place his car was boarded by several men, who bound and gagged him, then opened the safe and abstracted therefrom ten thousand dollars in coin, and a lot of railway bonds worth about twelve thousand dollars. The story told by the messenger was doubted, and he was placed under arrest, on a charge of having robbed the safe. After a hearing he was held to answer before the grand jury. Since then two other parties have been arrested, and charged with complicity in the robbery. One of these is a Spaniard, and the other is George Rose, who was a special officer in the Chinese quarters of this city several years ago. Rose was brought prominently before the public by reason of having been attacked and killed by the notorious Charlie Mortimer, who was afterwards hanged in Sacramento, for the murder of a woman named Smith. Day before yesterday the police authorities here received a telegram from the officers in charge of the robbery case, to arrest Clem B. Lee, for having taken part in the robbery. On the afternoon of the day the dispatch was received, Lee was arrested by Detectives Meagher and John Coffey. To-day Lee will be taken to Salt Lake City Penitentiary. Lee has already served a term in the Nevada penitentiary for stage robbery. —San Francisco Call.

Our Country Contemporaries.

Ogden Junction, Oct. 28.

Symptoms of this bathos disease have appeared in two more places. One in the immediate neighborhood of the Third District Court-house, and the other at Mount Fort. It is premature to say decidedly that these are cases of small-pox, but they both have that appearance.

Promo Enquirer, Oct. 28.

Patton has been going it with a high hand for some time past, as our reports and remarks in this paper have told our readers; and he has excited ill-feelings from the citizens for patents, notwithstanding he denied it so impudently and blackguardly. Several men in Provo and vicinity have shown their indignation at his conduct by placing a notice in the old localities are of so trifling a nature, as to be hardly worth mentioning. He considers the disease rapidly decreasing.

Mr. George Horrocks, who is sick with the prevailing complaint, yesterday, in coughing burst a blood vessel, and vomited a great deal of blood. The rupture was stopped, however, and to-day he is doing well.

Two or three days ago Moses Lacy, who is not unknown in this city, while switching cars at Rock Springs, slipped to the ground and broke one of his ankles.

Judge F. D. Richards, this morning, received from Hon. A. P. Rockwood 2,000 salmon fry for the Ogden and Weber rivers. The people of Weber county should appreciate this courtesy. If we can get our rivers well stocked with salmon, our material wealth will be considerably increased, and a nutritious and extremely palatable article of diet will be added to our food supplies. However, unless more care is taken to prevent seining, our streams will soon be de-

Correspondence.

The Arizona Mission.

SUNSET CROSSING, ARIZONA, October 5, 1876.

Bro. A. E. Macdonald:
Dear Sir:—We arrived here safe and had a first-rate time, no accidents of any kind happened. The wagons stood the trip first-rate, the cattle in proportion and looked well. We have forty-five miles to go yet to the place of destination, and expect to have the mill running in three weeks. Brother Smith says there is plenty of fine grass for the stock. The mill will be set so as to be convenient to all the camps, and about the same distance from each. Bro. Tinney has been out in the timber with a party of men for some time, making arrangements to set the mill. His health is somewhat improved.

The camps are all sending back for provisions to the different wards. They think they will raise sufficient for seed and no more. What grain they have raised is No. 1. The corn is better than I ever saw. Dicks, large fine ears. We have had no frost yet. The weather is fine, the camp are all in fine health, and all feel well. If you should have an opportunity of sending me anything in the shape of clothing, you will please send in care of Lot Smith, and in regard to provisions, I suppose the mission has to furnish the timber. Tinney and myself. We find we have to have help this year. I think next year we shall be able to take care of ourselves. I remain yours in the gospel,
JOHN A. MCCONNELL.

ST. GEORGE, Oct. 21.

Editor Deseret News:

The foregoing letter reached here on the 22nd inst., via Denver, Col. Elder McConnell accompanied W. J. Tinney with the steam saw mill from Mt. Timpano. We crossed the mill at Lee's Ferry last month, twelve men from the camp with ox-teams being there to receive it, according to Pres. Young's instructions.

We thought the news items might interest those of your readers able to take part in the Southern mission.

Yours truly,
A. E. MACDONALD.

Trip to the Pahreah.
JOHNSON, Kane Co., Utah,
October 11, 1876.

Editor Deseret News:

I took a trip to the Pahreah a few days since, for the first time, so I thought I would write a few lines concerning the country between here and there. Perhaps it will be of interest to some of my friends who may read your paper.

In the vicinity of eight miles east of here is what we call the Navaho Wells, at which place a small stone house was erected by Brother J. E. Tinney and company some thirty years ago. They also improved the water capacity by digging deeper and walling up the wells. There is no chance for stock to range at this place, on account of the water having to be dipped up. Stock cannot get at it themselves. The direct route to the Pahreah is not by the Wells, but travelers frequently go that way to water their teams.

From four to six miles northeast of the Wells, over a rolling country, with here and there nice patches of grass, then sage and rabbit brush, greasewood, Spanish rush, cedars, pinons, and various kinds of other brush and trees too numerous to mention, is what is known as the Pahreah. Deriving its name from the fact of there being a great quantity of petrified wood, which shows the grain of the wood well, a great many pieces look as if they had been sawed up and split. The petrifications are of all sizes, from the minutest particle to a foot and a half long, and a foot through, with every color from a milk white to a coal black, that you can think of. It lies on low clay hills of a light bluish color.

Some miles further is what is called the Hun-Kutchey Pass, on the north side of the road, with the Buckskin Wash on the south, the former being a pass through the hills, the latter a wash through the Buckskin Mountain, connecting with each other.

Eight or nine miles further you come to a place where the hills are going down, down, among the hills and hollows, not being able to imagine where the road goes a quarter of a mile ahead. In fact, seeing nothing but red, white and yellow hills, with a few scrubby cedars and pines, no grass, with scarcely any brush of any kind. So or about four miles, where if you are on the look out you can catch a glimpse of the town, about half a mile off, as you are rounding a point of rock. Then comes the creek, with the town on the other side. When I was there it was storming. There was a flood coming down. I could not cross. I had the pleasure of getting across with the town from the opposite side of the creek. There is another town, down the creek about ten miles. It is impossible to go down there while the flood is coming. With five miles the creek is crossed twenty odd times. After each flood crossings have to be worked. Every time a horse or mule has to be placed of their farming land, crop and all, takes itself down the creek at a furious rate. It is remarkable how the "Mormons" can make places in such out of the way places, and under such unfavorable circumstances. The hand of Providence must be in it.

Places in such out of the way places, and under such unfavorable circumstances. The hand of Providence must be in it.

We are having our equinoctial storm now. It has been storming with but little abating, since the 11th instant, being at present cold and disagreeable. Yours truly,
ELMER W. JOHNSON.

On the Channel, where the voyage proceeds, there is a small boat, which they charged so much for, too. —Paris Times.
