EDITORIAL NOTES.

—Backstone, at seventy-four, resumes the management at the Haymarket Theatre, London, in October.
—The Omaha Bee of Sept. 26 terms "Utah peaches the best fruit of the kind that has been seen on this market."

—The New York Herald says, "Miss Dargen has made a profound impression at the Brooklyn Theatre, especially in 'East Lynne,' in which her emotional powers are remarkable. The play may be false, but the acting is natural."
—It is said the American potato bug has made its first European appearance in Sweden, where it has devastated a number of crops this season.

—Stanton, the English bicyclist, has just defeated the French champion, Camille Thulleit, by some eighteen yards in a fifty-mile race, in 3h. 14m. 8s., though the weather was windy and showery.

—The New York Herald says, "Americans should not feel so badly about the outrages of the Bashibazouks in Europe, when on their own continent, within a hundred miles of a much vaunted transcontinental railway, there are white women and children constantly carried into barbarous slavery."

—An exchange says of Mrs. Livermore, "She has a terrible way of squeaking a speaker she doesn't want to hear. She evidently believes in one-man power, and that she is the man."

—"Professor Huxley declined an offer of $10,000 to lecture during October." There are several professors hereabout who would not object to having a refusal of that kind.

—The French government proposes to punish every wine dealer in that country who "doctors" his wine.

THE WATER IN THE CREEKS AND DITCHES.

When the water can be taken fresh from the pebbly mountain streams uncontaminated by the excretion of cities, towns and settlements, it is usually admirably suitable for domestic use. Such transverse streams as City Creek, Emigration, Mill Creek, the Cottonwood, or American Fork, particularly near and in the mountains, are peculiarly inviting to the thirsty soul. It is only in the time of freshets, whether annual or occasional, that the water in such creeks is objectionable. Then it is muddy enough for a few hours or days, or even weeks during the spring floods, and is not fit for either drinking or cooking until it is either strained or settled clear. Even in the torrid heat of the summer the mountain-streams, before they have run far into the valleys, are cool, clear, inviting and refreshing, and those who live on their banks usually have no need of other waterworks. But in the larger settlements and cities the case is different. There are so many drains of impure and deleterious substances or liquids into the creeks and water ditches that the water is often rendered very unclean and unhealthful, and consequently exceedingly unfit for domestic use, without filtering, and even then some of it is so badly contaminated as with difficulty to be made sweet again until distilled by the heat of the sun and re-furnished to the "earth and the creeks in the form of rain or snow. Take this city for instance. The mountain streams are divided into a multitude of lesser streams and water ditches, and distributed over the city, so that nearly every street has one or more streams, large or small. In the time of Spring floods the water in the ditches, without exception, is excessively muddy, and entirely unfit for almost all kinds of domestic use. The same condition, in a degree, prevails with every rainstorm, so that the few wells are then very extensively patronized of necessity. Owing to the presence of various impurities, cast in or allowed to drain in by the residents, the water in many of the ditches in this city, at all seasons of the year, is unacceptable for use inside the house, and is exceedingly repulsive to the eye, nose, and palate, and positively unfit for drinking or culinary purposes. It must be very unhealthful to use it, as well as offensive and demoralizing to the pure instincts of the cleanly housewife. Such water, even if taken up and filtered before using, can hardly be accepted with any kind of relish or satisfaction, and it is high time the people who are dependent upon the unclean water in these unclean ditches did something towards procuring for themselves a pure water supply from other sources than these. Some have done so, and have dug themselves wells, which, in those instances where the water is good, and the wells are properly protected from impurities of drainage, etc., answer the purpose satisfactorily, though they are not so handy as other means of providing a permanent water supply.

THE COUNTY CONVENTION.

TO-MORROW is the day for the County Convention of delegates who favor the "People's Ticket" for the election of a delegate to Congress who shall be of the people and for the people, and shall truly represent them in the councils of the nation, and defend and promote their best interests. The business of the County Convention will be to elect the right sort of men to attend the Territorial Convention to nominate a suitable candidate for the choice of the people as delegate to Congress in the ensuing November election.

COLFAX SMILING AROUND.

A SOUTH BEND, Ind., correspondent of the New York Herald, under date of Sept. 17, represents Mr. Charles H. Murray as saying of a quondam political notability:
"Colfax could do no good for the republicans by being here. He has degenerated fearfully and his chief ambition now is to preside over a ward or hose company meeting, where ten or twenty men come together. He is fast losing his head and is thought very lightly of. He lives well, however, and is delighted that people pay for his cigars and give him his meals for nothing, never dreaming that they do it from the sentiment attaching to the fact that he was once Vice-President of the United States. Colfax has come to be a regular bumfester and spends most of his time knocking about the country. He left here lately because, as he said to Mr. A. B. Wade, the postmaster, there was no use remaining, as the democrats would surely carry the State, so he went to the Philadelphia Exhibition, a convenient retreat for most of the alarmed republicans."

The Plague in Savannah—Business Houses are Closed—Horrible Suffering.

NEW YORK, 29.—Alex. Sinlot, telegraph operator at Savannah, writes on the 27th instant as follows:

"This is a sad place. Every place of business is closed, and the streets are deserted. There is not a house in the city that has not been infected with the plague. The people think of nothing else, and as a consequence, one hears nothing but tales of the sick and dying and their horrible suffering. They all look upon me with wonder, and are expecting me to go under all the time. I was the only passenger on the Savannah train when we changed cars at Millen. I cannot say when I will be able to leave here. There seems to be no hope of the fever subsiding until frost."

In Favor of the Democrats.

The Tribune's staff correspondent at Indianapolis, after exhaustive travels throughout the state, and a close observation on the subject, writes: "I must admit, looking at the relative strength of the two parties, as shown in former contests, and at the condition of the present struggle, the greenback movement, and the apparent solidity and energy of the democratic masses, that the chances seem to be in their favor."

Russian Rubles to be Converted into American Gold.

The World's Washington special says the Treasury Department learns that 100,000 pounds of Russian rubles, amounting to $180,000 of United States money, have arrived in New York, and will be deposited at the assay office, there to be converted into American gold coin. Other importations are expected. Orders have been given by the proper authority to make the payment of this gold within twenty-four hours after its receipt at the assay office.

Thorough Break Up of Hallett's Point.

General Newton announces that the reef at Hallett's Point has been swept, and a summary of the facts is as follows: From 180 feet distant from the shore, the line of the huge bottom slopes gradually from eight feet of the depth at low water to twenty feet outside the reef at high water. The water less than twenty feet of depth at low water was found. The divers have been examining the reef and report a thorough break up.

An Encouraging Day.

PHILADELPHIA, 29.—Including the free admissions to the Exhibition yesterday, the number exceeded 250,000. This number exceeds, by more than 50,000, the largest single day's attendance at any international fair ever held. The cash receipts are more than twice as great as those of any former day at this or any other fair.

Decline in Reading R. R. Stock.

A fall of Reading railroad stock on Wednesday, from 44 to 32½, entailed heavy loss on many holders, and today's transactions are still more disastrous. Wednesday's market closed at 32½. Yesterday was a holiday, but the stock opened this morning at 31, and sold down to 23½, and at 12.30, was 27. It is believed the decline will cripple or ruin many stockholders.

Word from the "Pandora."

The admiral has a letter from Allan Young, commander of the steamer Pandora, making a voyage to Smith's Sound to bring England dispatches deposited there by the Arctic expedition, under Capt. Nares, announcing his arrival at Upernivik on the 15th of July. He reports all well on board, and says he will proceed northward July 15th. The winds during the summer had been from southward, and I were, therefore, not calculated to clear the ice from Melville Bay, but as far as visible from Upernivik the sea is clear. There was no news of the Arctic expedition.

TURKEY.

Another Battle.

BELGRADE, 29.—The Serbian forces, under Gen. Tchernayeff and Popovich, simultaneously attacked the Turks on Thursday morning, and drove them beyond Teschitz. During the engagement the Serbian artillery fired seven caissons of gunpowder in the Turkish ranks, and the explosion caused fearful havoc among the Turks. Gen. Harvatovitch made a flank movement, and occupied the heights in the rear of the Turkish position. It is stated that the Turkish army is now threatened on three sides, namely, Gen. Tchernayeff, with the bulk of the Serbian army, threatens their front; Gen. Popovich their left wing, and Gen. Harvatovitch their rear. The fighting lasted till eight last night, and was resumed this morning.
