EVENING NEWS Wednesday, - - January 21, 1880. Correspondence. Battalion History. BEAVER, U. T., Jan. 12, 1880.

ditors Descret News:

As there seems to be a general dealer, especially among the "boys" and their friends, which includes and their friends, which includes nearly everybody, to know how the Battalion history is progressing, and when it will be published, and what my facilities are for facts, etc., I desire to make the following statement through your widely cir-culated and valuable journal. When I started in, like many others without experience in such matters, I supposed a few weeks would be sufficient to obtain all the facts that were to be obtained the facts that were to be obtained and get them into shape. But I found that one year at least was necessary to awaken sufficient in-terest to obtain all of the facts neterest to obtain all of the facts ne-cessary to make much of a begin-ning. Of course a few responded to my first call and I might, like a treachrous gun lock, have gone off half cocked, and had a large pamphlet or small book before the public months ago, and this would for the time have pleased many of my friends. But my taste did not run that way: I wanted a good his. my friends. But my taste did not run that way; I wanted a good his-tory or none and hence kept up quite a noise, and for a poor man spent s, good deal of money to obtain facts and even then, many at first, off cers and soldiers, either did no t think enough of the enterprise or my ability to prosecute it to extend the common courtesy to answer my letters, although stamps were enclosed for the purpose. Those obstacles, however, are mainly overcome. So far as any of the general authorities of the Church have been concerned they have given me all of the aid and encour-agement I could ask. Whilst I may not, even now, have all of the agement I could ask. Whilst I may not, even now, have all of the important facts, I have them sub-stantially; and as I did not create many of the facts, but have been a mere instrument in collecting them, I may not be charged with egotism when I give my view, that the work when published under proper direction, will far exceed the most sanguine hopes of even the Battalien, and I do not think there will be anything of impor-tance but what "the boys," with one voice, will say, "That's so." As one among many incidents wherein I have had to dive, like a mining prospector, I will just men-tion the trouble I had in getting the roll of officers and men. First I received from the historian and through Hider George Reyn-olds, a copy was found in the his-torian's office. I think about 480 names, all told. Discovering as I thought that the number was too small, in the absence of our Dele-cation at Washington Theore the
