LITTLE MARY'S WISH.

BY MRS. L. M. JENNINGS.

"I've seen the first robin of Spring, mother dear,
And have heard the bird singing sweetly,
You said, 'Hear it and wish, and 'twould surely come true!'"

"I thought I would like to ask something for you,
But I couldn't think what there could be that you would wish you had all these beautiful things."

"Indeed, you've got papa and me."

"No I want for a mother, so long that I could have a mother's door,
And the other go up past the moon and the stars,
Till it looked against Heaven's white floor."

"Then I'd get you to put my pretty white dress,
And let me put my darling new shoes;
And I'd have some white roses to take up to God."

"The most beautiful dress I could choose."

"And you and dear papa would sit at the foot,
And like me, and tell me 'good bye';
Then I'd go up the ladder, far out of your sight,
Till I came to the door in the sky."

"Would it God keep his door fastened tight?
But one little crack I could see;
I would whisper, 'Please, God, let this little girl in.'
She's as tired as she can be!"

"She came all alone from the earth to the sky,
For she always has wanted to see
The gardens of Heaven, with their robes and flowers;
Please God, is there room there for me?"

"And then when an angel had opened the door,
God would say, 'Bring the little child
here!'"

"But he'd speak to me softly I'd not be afraid,
And he'd smile just like you, mother
dear!"

"And he'd put his little arms 'round your
dear little girl,
And I'd ask him to hold me down for you,
And papa and cousin and all that I love;
Oh dear, don't you wish 'twould come true?"

"The next spring time when the robins came home,
They sang over grass and flowers
That grew where the foot of the ladder stood Whose top reached the heavenly bowers."

"And the mother had dreamed the pale, still child,
For her heart to the summer land,
In a far, far away, where a broken rose Faded close to her precious hand."

"And now at the foot of the ladder they sit,
Looking upward with quiet tears,
Till the uttering word and the beckoning
Of the child at the top appear."
