FRAGMENTS.

THE curtain rises at 8:30 at the Theatre to-night.

THE "Pair of Kids" matinee at the Theatre to-morrow afternoon commences at 2 o'clock.

SHERIFF GROESBECK left this morning on a short trip to Montana, to attend to his interests in that region.

THE champion broadsword contest on Washington Square to-morrow afternoon will doubtless draw a large crowd.

GOVERNOR WEST went to Provo this morning, in company with Hons. D. C. Young, Jno. C. Cannon, H. J. Grant and Judge Dunsberry.

This suit of A. W. Street vs. W. S. McCormick, in the Third District Court, has been continued for the term upon payment of $80 costs by plaintiff.

In the Third District Court to-day, in the case of James Thrift vs. Brooklyn Lead Mining Company, the motion for a new trial by defendant was denied, by the court, on the ground that the verdict was supported by the law and the evidence.

The suit of Louisa M. Graham vs. J. D. Graham was on trial in the Third District Court to-day. Mrs. Graham is applying for a divorce on the ground of adultery on the part of her husband with a disreputable woman named Wilson.

Last Saturday a little boy and girl were playing in front of the house at Laramie, Wyoming, when they picked up a cartridge and proceeded to smash it with a hatchet. The cartridge exploded, and a piece struck the little girl in the cheek and lodged in her left temple, inflicting a dangerous wound.

A PACKED JURY at Beaver, to-day, convicted George Hales of libel, when the evidence showed that the defendant was neither editor or publisher of the paper which contained the alleged libel, and was in no way responsible for the publication. Mr. Hales is a "Mormon."

SALLIE DAVIS, who was found guilty of drunkenness yesterday, and had sentence suspended under a promise of leaving town by four o'clock yesterday afternoon, engaged in a drunken row last night in company with one Maggie Hill and Austin O'Toole. The parties were arrested, the penalty inflicted on the Davis woman amounting to $70, and the Hill woman to $25. O'Toole was discharged.

LOCAL NEWS.

THE Sword Contest.—The paraphernalia to be used by Messrs. Ross and McGuire in the sword contest to-morrow, has been on exhibition to-day, and attracts large numbers of spectators. The well-known ability of the contestants and the novelty of the entertainment is likely to draw a large crowd to Washington Square to-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Narrow Escape.—A seven-year-old girl narrowly escaped death at Butte, Montana, on Monday last. She was attending school, and one of her companions gave her a watch crystal, which she put in her mouth. The little glass was of coarse broken into a thousand pieces, and, in her fright some of the particles got into her throat. A surgeon was immediately called and extracted all the pieces he could with his instruments, but was unable to state whether the little one had swallowed any of the glass. One of the pieces taken from the throat was of a V shape and as sharp as a razor. At last account the little girl was all right and seemingly as well as if nothing had happened.

First District Court.—In the First District Court yesterday, Mrs. Susan Parry, of Ogden, was arraigned on a charge of perjury, and took the statutory oath to plead. Her former indictment against the lady was quashed because of its being defective.

George C. Woods, of Woods' Cross, entered a plea of guilty to the charge of polygamy, and will be sentenced on May 20th.

John Bergen pleaded not guilty to an indictment charging polygamy with Matilda Lundstedt. In the evidence it was shown that Augusta Bergen, alleged to have been the defendant's legal wife, had not been formally divorced from a former husband, and the case was re-submitted to the grand jury, who will report on Monday, when Bergen will be arraigned on a new indictment.

Nineteenth Ward Primary.—The Primary Association of the 19th Ward held their annual meeting on Wednesday, the 19th. There were present as visitors, Bishop Watson, President R. G. Horne, Mrs. Ellen Clawson, President of Primary State Association and Counselor Mrs. Louisa Wells, Mrs. A. Rogers, President of Primary Association of Farmington, with several Sisters of the Ward and a goodly number of the parents of the little ones. After the opening exercises a short, but very good program was carried out by the members of the Association. We have no space to report its details.

President Mrs. Clawson, Mrs. Wells, Mrs. Rogers, Mrs. Whipple and other ladies made remarks encouraging and instructive to the children. Bishop Watson made a few remarks, complimenting the children and encouraging the officers of the association to continue in the good work they were so well performing. After singing benediction was pronounced by Master Fred. Derbridge. After meeting Bishop Watson set apart Miss Ella Nebeker as president of the association, and Miss Elizabeth Bowman as Counselor.

ANOTHER ACT OF THE JUDICIAL FARE.

JUSTICE DRAGGED IN THE MIRE.

BEAVER, Utah, May 21, 1886.

Editor Despatch News:

In the case of the People vs. Hales, for libel, as most of the jurors were on the case against Measer, or had heard the testimony, an open venire was issued for sixteen additional jurors and placed in the hands of Deputy Sheriff Gleason, who was to select a jury. Deputy Gleason did not wait to see whether a jury could be obtained from the three hundred qualified jurors in Beaver, but went to Milford and Star to get a packed jury. The deputies here managed to get a packed jury which was running when Gleason arrived with his summons. There were fifteen men that had traveled forty or fifty miles who were charged and received their pay. This unnecessary expense will cost over $200, but Gleason makes his fees for service, and the Judge approved the Marshal's bill for services. The case was held over for another day, and the packed jury was only out thirty minutes, and returned just now with a verdict of guilty.

AN ADDRESS BY THE GOVERNOR.

IN AID OF A CHARITABLE INSTITUTION.

Last evening, at the benefit entertainment of the "Orphan's Home," Governor Caleb W. West delivered the following address:

Ladies and Gentlemen:—I esteem it a high privilege and honor to meet you here upon this occasion, to enjoy the charming and agreeable entertainment that is furnished us by these noble ladies and gentlemen in aid of such a noble charity.

The people of this community are greatly interested in the orphan's home, and the enterprise of the husbandman under the smile of the beautiful Giver of all good who holds in store in these mountains the reservoirs that irrigate the fields, so that the husbandman needs merely to till the ground with his plow to have it lauged with the harvest. Your business enterprises are blessed with prosperity, your manufactures, and every industry that I hear from, or that I see, is blessed with plenty and abundance, and through these choice blessings you have made beautiful homes, feeding in these mountains, receiving the smiles of God's sunlight, and in these homes the children of the poor and all the exquisite pleasures and joys that cluster around the home altar. You have the smiling face of wife and children to bless you, to comfort you in your sorrows, to sweeten the homelife, and in this simple word "home" in all the blended harmonies beneath the skies, there do they all combine to give expression to the ineffable and exquisite happiness that is contained in the word home.

One of our own land, animated by poetic fire, has sung a song that has echoed around the world, and in the sentiments that his poetic heart gave utterance to there was so much sweetness, there was so much expression of this charm, that while he sang a home, a last home of rest in a far distant land, that song he had sung called attention to his name and he was called from that distant shore to sleep in his own home land. (Applause.)

Now, think, why I am here to-night? Why do you call me here? How came you to be here? Why are we here? In your mind the great God who rules with sympathy and love to do his will, who will give strength and courage to the weak, who will uphold the arms that are engaged in the noble work. (Applause.)

Now in the world there are hospitals and charitable institutions of many and various kinds. Here in your own city the proudest buildings that you have are those that are devoted to the relief of the unfortunate, and while that is true, do you think that these hospitals that are in our midst are for temporary relief? They are to relieve some of the diseases that are of a temporary nature. In character they are humane, they are the homes of the old and infirm. They are to assuage some sorrow. They wipe away many a tear. They smooth many rough places to the weak and the unfortunate who have sought their hospitable walls. But it is but for a time. But, remember, this work begins at the beginning. It takes from the infant that is too heavy for her mother to bear. Remember, it relieves the heart of the mother and gives to her the child that she has longed for. Remember, also, that this is the beginning of a work that is not for a day, nor for a year, it is a life work, and it gives them the care, the love, the protection of a home, and influences them to paths of virtue and rectitude to make of them citizens, good, worthy and virtuous, rather than to leave them upon the streets to be the victims of temptation, and to be the victims of influences that surround them, to cause them to grow up criminals, the violators of the sacred laws of society, become lawbreakers, criminals, the violators of the sacred laws of home, of love and of propriety. (Applause.)

Ladies and gentlemen, I am afraid that I have already talked too long, and I am sure that you are all simply come expecting to say that as I know you feel that I was with the people in this community in this noble work, and that, so far as I could, I would give aid and encouragement to it.

Now, then, in closing, remember this, that now this people have a chance to make a way upon the sea of God's love that will never return, that in eternity and that the wave so modest and calm, freighted with human souls, will be carried to that upper, brighter world.

Fish and Game.—A correspondent asks: "Did the last session of the Legislature make it a misdemeanor to catch trout between the 15th day of March and the 1st day of July of each year, or does the law remain as formerly—between the 1st day of March and the 15th day of June?"

The last Legislature did not change the law so far as the point in question is concerned. For the information of those interested, we insert the particular section (4), which covers it:

Sec. 4. Every person who at any time takes or kills any fish, except with hook and line, or with seine, or as heretofore provided, or who shall catch, kill any trout in any way between the 15th day of March and the 1st day of June of each year, is guilty of a misdemeanor. Provided, that no person shall be liable under this section for more than 200 yards long and 12 feet wide, with meshes not less than one and a half inches square for fifty yards in the centre, and meshes not less than two inches square in the wings or ends thereof, may be used in the Utah Lake River and Utah Lake only, on or between the first day of October of each year and the first day of June following. Provided, further, that nothing in this act shall be construed as to prevent any person from taking fish from the public waters of the territory for the purpose of stocking private ponds, or to prohibit any person from catching or killing trout in any private pond or taking fish therefrom.

Another I of them.—What are claimed to be remedies for diphtheria are now remarkably plentiful. In the midst of so many, perhaps some may be found to be generally effective. We publish them as sent with this idea so long as it appears that their constitutions are not necessarily injurious—without an opinion as to their merit. Here is one that came to hand by mail this morning:

"Give a thorough enema of lobelia; then frequently gargle and bathe the throat with a solution of a liquid made by putting two teaspoonfuls of finely pulverized lobelia seeds and the same amount of cayenne pepper in one quart of good clean vinegar. Shake up well and frequently. It is better than any other remedy I have used. I never knew a patient die with diphtheria after giving lobelia a fair chance to kill the poison. You must have good lobelia. The process renders it inert. It is one of the best medicines in skillful hands I ever had. Any knowledge of But its modus operandi on the system is but little understood; therefore it is 'under the weather'."

Dr. F. Meeks.

Theatre To-night.—"A Pair of Kids," by Ezra F. Kendall and the C. D. Hens Comedy Company, has proved one of the most enjoyable and popular attractions secured by Manager Dyer at the Standard Theatre during the present season. A more successful carnival of merriment has seldom been produced on the local stage. The hearty and rippling laughter pervading the well-packed house throughout the entire performance bore ample evidence of the patronage awaiting this contagious comedy during its current season at the Standard.

Golden Wedding.—The fifth anniversary of the marriage of Brother Horne and Sister M. Isabella Horne occurred on Sunday, May 9th. On that occasion and next day there was an assemblage of many of the descendants and friends of the estimable pair at their home in the Fourteenth Ward, of this city, and a most enjoyable time was experienced by all present. Brother Horne received the congratulations of his friends, many of whom were unable to be present. Brother Horne was presented by his children with an elegant gold watch, while Sister Horne was the recipient from the same source of a beautiful gold chain and a pair of diamond spectacles. Their grandchildren also presented to Brother Horne a very pretty gold locket and to Sister Horne a gold ring set with three stones. Besides these a number of valued tokens were received from friends outside of the family. We were with the hosts of warm friends of Brother and Sister Horne in wishing them continued life, peace and prosperity.

From the "Old Country."—The following is an extract from a letter, dated at Leicester, England, May 1st, from E. S.:

"Since my arrival in England and my last to you from Queensdown, I have had the pleasure of visiting in company with President D. H. Wells, the Newcastle-on-Tyne Conference; also the Manchester Conference, and the Birmingham Conference. I have been very much interested in the people up to the point of the 'Mormons.' The 'Templars' Hall was three times well filled and during the evening it was crowded with people. A little uneasiness was manifested, good order prevailed and many were enlightened. Fourteen persons, leaving Salt Lake City at two o'clock p. m. d.

There are many good warm-hearted Saints in these conferences, although they are very poor and work is very hard. A conference of our own dollar bill from their friends in Utah would bless them. While on our way from Salt Lake City, we crossed Marshall Pass, and while riding on the railroad under the Mersey River, an arm of the Atlantic, we were about 150 feet under sea level. An elevator took about two hours to take us 150 feet into an open railway station, and then up the train for over a mile and then up the elevator to the street.

Fatal R. R. Accident.—The following account of a fatal accident on the Northern Pacific Railway, near Bozeman, Montana, on Tuesday, is given in a special dispatch to the Butte Mercury:

"Bozeman, M. T., May 18.—News reached here late this morning of an accident on the Northern Pacific Railway. The east-bound passenger had passed Fort Belknap, and was about along at the regular rate of speed. The train was composed of the baggage, mail, two coaches, a sleeping car, and a Pullman. The first intimation the passengers had of the train leaving the rails was at the time the baggage car struck the first passenger coach and the general jumping of the train upon the sleeping car. When the train was brought to a standstill, about having run for an eighth of a mile, it was discovered that the sleeper had broken loose from its coupling and had rolled over the bank, but aside from this no other damage was apparent. A brakeman named Fitzgerald, of Bozeman, was killed outright. He was on the sleeper platform and was crushed to a pulp by falling beneath the car. G. Stull, of the same place, was injured about the head. Mr. Harris, traveling agent of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad, had been on the train, and was also suffering from internal injuries. Several other passengers were more or less injured. The wounded were placed in charge of the surgeon at Fort Belknap. The cause assigned is that the rails, when put down, were placed too near to allow for expansion, and that when they became heated the ends of the rails expanded and the rails naturally bowed, leaving the bare for the train to fall on.

The Drowned Man.—Since the conclusion was reached that Charles Holt, who disappeared on Monday last, had been drowned in Jordan river, Mr. Cyrus H. Gold and others have kept up a diligent search for the body. Tuesday and Wednesday morning, when it was reported as having been seen of it, and yesterday afternoon something was reported as having been observed floating down the river near the Longford bridge. The searchers made a trip of about ten miles down stream to look for the body. At about 10 o'clock this morning, however, while Mr. Gold was out working in his garden he noticed a dark object in the river, about three quarters of a mile below where the body was reported to have been seen. Closer inspection revealed the fact that it was a human body, the back of the head being above the water. Assistance was summoned, and the lifeless corpse of Charles Holt was taken from the stream where he had met his death. The body was taken out near the Sixth Ward bridge, and the news was conveyed to the sorrow-stricken family of the deceased.

This morning Coroner Taylor was notified and an inquest was held over the body. The body being taken to Johnson, Wm. Bell and Wm. Gedge. Mrs. Mary Hill, Samuel Johnson and Mr. Lovelace were examined as witnesses. From their testimony it was learned that Mr. Holt was last seen alive at about 5:30 p. m. on Monday. At that time he was on horseback, driving a cow. The animal ran around Mr. Holt's house and the lady went out to stop her, but desisted when Holt told her the cow would harm. This was near the river bend and half an hour later the horse Holt had been riding was seen to come out of the river riders. Mrs. Hill supposed at the time that Holt had crossed the river in safety and had turned his horse loose to come home. There were some slight bruises on the head when the body was found, but these were such as could easily have been received in the river, and presented no appearance of any serious injury having been inflicted as a cause of the death. It seems probable that when the cow went into the stream, Holt followed on horseback and was dismounted by the animal's struggles. He probably held on to the bridle which came off the horse, as the animal had no bridle on when it came out of the river.

The body had evidently been imbedded in the sand of the river bed a portion of the time, and was comparatively well preserved. The face was discolored, and the body slightly swollen. After the inquest it was placed in the hands of Sexton Taylor for interment.

The deceased was 30 years of age on the 16th of last January. He was born in Bedfordshire, England, and leaves a wife and one child, having formerly married a wife and child. He was employed as a railway hand in England, where the father and brother of his present wife were killed in a railroad accident. After coming to Utah he worked for a time at the Utah Central depot, and has also engaged in herding. He bore an excellent character and was highly respected. The bereaved family are deeply distressed over the sad occurrence, in which they have the sympathy of the entire community. They have no relatives living here.

There was a fair-sized audience at the Theatre last evening at the "Orphan's Home" and Day Nursery benefit, and the programme was rendered in excellent style.
