SANITATION DOWN ON THE ISTHMUS

It is so Perfect and the Linen so Clean They Prove Fatal to Negroes.

TOO RICH FOR THEIR BLOOD.

Cannot be Induced to Eat Sufficient Wholesome Food to Keep in Health.

And the Canal Commission Spares no Expense to Make the Meals Es-thetic and Attractive.

Washington, July 15.—Perfect sanitation and clean linens are proving fatal to the West Indian negroes employed on the Panama canal. Although Col. Gorgas and his assistants have banished yellow fever and other tropical fevers which made the canal zone one large burying ground for the French canal builders, they have found that sanitary precautions taken in the quarters occupied by workmen make the Jamaican negroes especially susceptible to pneumonia and other throat and lung troubles.

West Indians are not accustomed to an abundance of fresh air and well ventilated, cleanly quarters. Living for generations in small huts where large families crowd into rooms tightly closed against the night air, the negroes from Jamaica and other tropical islands have developed lungs with cramped capacity and especially susceptible to changes of temperature.

The officers in charge have found that the West Indian laborers cannot be induced to eat sufficient wholesome food to keep them in good health, even when supplies are furnished to them at cost price, and meals are made attractive at great expense to the canal commission. Chief Engineer Stevens of the canal commission, Gov. Magoon and other men identified with the work on the isthmus have agreed that lack of lung capacity and insufficient nourishment, rather than laziness are responsible for the inability of the West Indians to perform an amount of work equal to that done by white laborers from Spain. The negroes are paid only 50 cents a day, while the white men from Spain and Cuba are paid twice that amount.

The Spaniards have been found to be thrifty and cleanly in their habits. They take their families to the isthmus and maintain homes in which wholesome conditions prevail and good food is served. Most of the Spaniards now employed on the isthmus went there from Cuba, but they are natives of Spain who had obtained employment in Cuba. It is expected that Spain will grant the commission permission to take large numbers of Spanish laborers to the isthmus.

To abandon negro labor, according to the commission, would be practically impossible. But Chairman Shonts and other members of the commission feel that it is unsafe to depend on anyone else for labor and because of the unsatisfactory results with negro labor, are not only turning to the Spaniards but will probably try Chinese labor later, as it is not believed that sufficient Spaniards can be had to meet the demands when the canal work becomes more advanced.

A STANFORD CIRCULAR.

Announces Work in University Will Continue as Usual in All Departments.

Stanford University, Cal., July 15.—A circular has been issued by the university, announcing that the work of the university will continue as usual in all departments for the coming term.

The buildings of the inner quadrangle were severely injured by the disaster of April 18. The work of restoration of the outer quadrangle is being pushed as rapidly as possible, and it is believed that the buildings necessary for the actual work of the university will be ready for use by Aug. 23, the date of the entrance examinations for the new term.

For the restoration of the quadrangle, the university has received a grant of $200,000 from the state of California.

Alfred Beit Dead.

Was South African Financier, Controlling Output of Gold There.

London, July 15.—Alfred Beit, the well known South African financier, died today. He had been in bad health for some time.

Mr. Beit was born in 1853 at Hamburg. He was a life governor of the De Beers consolidated mines, a partner in the firm of De Beers, Beit & Co., and a director of the Rand Mines, Rhodesia railways, the Transvaal land and gold mining company, the Transvaal land and gold mining company, the Transvaal land and gold mining company.

Two special trains from the south, carrying Elks to the Denver convention, are held here on account of the wreck, and will be released for some time until the track can be cleared.

President Begins Week With His Busiest Day.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 15.—President Roosevelt begins this week with the busiest day he has had at Sagamore Hill this season. First, he will consider the question of establishing a national park in the Adirondacks.

Early in 1903 Mr. Beit had an apoplectic stroke while at Johannesburg, and it appears that he never fully regained his health. Since that time he had lived in London.

Mr. Beit, who is said to have been the richest man in London, and who controlled the output of gold in South Africa as at one time alleged to be forming a "gold trust" in which the names of prominent American financiers were mentioned. He gave large sums of money to the Red Cross and other institutions and recently donated $50,000 to found a university at Hamburg.

as to exactly how the difficulties will be adjusted.

The suggestion of Guatemala revolutionists that they will be willing to accept any president for that country who may be agreed upon by President Diaz and President Roosevelt, is not considered seriously by the state department. Revolutionists have no international standing and it would be impossible in the present state of Mexico and the United States to recognize the insurgents in any way unless they should completely overthrow the government of Guatemala.

President Roosevelt's activity in the Central American dispute has been misunderstood in some quarters according to state department officials. It would be highly improper, it is stated, for the president to offer his services as an arbitrator and he has not done so. He merely suggested by the warning republics that he will exert his good offices to assist them in settling their difficulties.

EARTHQUAKE IN EL PASO.

Buildings Rocked and People Rushed Into the Streets.

El Paso, Tex., July 15.—A distinct earthquake shock was felt here at 11:59 a. m. today. Buildings rocked and swayed and many people fled to the streets. The thermometers and instruments in the weather bureau in the federal building swung back and forth for several minutes. No damage was done.

MURDER OR SUICIDE?

Man and Wife Found With Throats Cut And Shot Through Head.

Chicago, July 15.—Edward E. Kloss and wife, who conducted a small grocery store, were found dead today in the rooms above the store. The throats of Kloss and his wife had been cut, and both had been shot through the head and blood was spattered on the floor and on the furniture.

A revolver was beside the body of Kloss and the police believe he committed the crime.

Later the police found a letter written by Kloss, in which he said that he and his wife were tired of living and had decided to take their lives.

HARTIE DIVORCE CASE TRIED IN DISGRACEFUL WAY

Pittsburg, July 15.—The taking of testimony in the Hartie divorce case, which was to have been resumed today, was again postponed.

Without the letters, he said, the defense could not proceed and he therefore asked for an adjournment. Judge Fraser said the request was reasonable and granted the adjournment, ordering the plaintiffs' counsel to relinquish the exhibits to the defense.

The judges then delivered a severe lecture to the counsel.

"This case," said he, "is not being tried open and above board. It is a disgrace the way counsel have acted, and I have been thinking about keeping everybody out of the courtroom. I read in the papers Saturday that counsel would give up the letters when they got good and ready. Every day a new sensation is promised. There has been entirely too much said in the newspapers about this case. Counsel had better be a little more careful in the future. One side is as bad as the other."

ELK TRAIN WRECKED.

Engineer Killed But no Passengers Injured.

Trinidad, Colo., July 15.—Passenger train No. 7 on the Colorado & Southern railway, carrying 100 passengers, was wrecked three miles north of Fort Collins Junction at an early hour this morning.

Engineer Martin J. Cullen was killed, and Fireman Charles T. Garroll badly hurt. That the whole train was not carried into the deep ravine, resulting in serious loss of life, is probably due to the fact that it was running slowly on account of the recent heavy rains.

The train ran into a landslide while rounding a curve, and the engine rolled over the outer quadrangle of the university as rapidly as possible, and it is believed that the buildings necessary for the actual work of the university will be ready for use by Aug. 23, the date of the entrance examinations for the new term.

For the restoration of the quadrangle, the university has received a grant of $200,000 from the state of California.

MRS. THAW VISITS HER SON IN TOMBS

Had to Observe Prison Rules. Compelled to Talk to Him Through Bars.

FIRST SHE WAS SEARCHED.

When She Was Gone Wife Spent a Few Minutes With Her Husband.

New York, July 15.—Mrs. William Thaw of Pittsburg paid a visit to her son, Harry K. Thaw, in the Tombs prison today, where he is a prisoner, accused of the murder of Stanford White.

Mrs. Thaw, who arrived from Europe Saturday and was unable to visit her son on Sunday, went to the prison, accompanied by Josiah C. Thaw and A. H. Peabody of Thaw's counsel, Mrs. Thaw's arrival at the Tombs was preceded by that of Harry Thaw's wife, Evelyn, on the latter, upon ascertaining that Mrs. William Thaw had not yet visited the Tombs, declared that she desired her husband's mother to have the first opportunity of seeing the prisoner. The younger Mrs. Thaw then retired to the consulting room to await Mrs. Thaw's arrival.

Before Mrs. William Thaw reached the prison, her son's new counsel, Clifford W. Harbridge, called on Francis J. Lantry, the commissioner of corrections, and endeavored to make arrangements so that Mrs. Thaw could meet her son in the consulting room at the Tombs instead of talking with him through the bars of the cell, but Mr. Lantry instructed the warden that he could make no such arrangement to the prison rules in Mrs. Thaw's case.

The mother reached the prison shortly before noon. In the meantime a large crowd had gathered about the entrance to the prison. When her cab stopped at the door the bystanders pressed forward so closely that the police found difficulty in making a lane through them to permit Mrs. Thaw to pass into the prison.

Mrs. Thaw was met at the door by the prison warden, who told her in an apologetic way that it would be necessary for her to comply with the prison rules that all visitors must be searched. Mrs. Thaw then retired to the room of the Tombs matron, where the warden was waiting. The warden, Josiah C. Thaw and A. H. Peabody, escorted her to the corridor in which Harry Thaw's cell is located and then withdrew after she had thanked them. Mrs. Thaw then made her way along to cell No. 220 and greeted her son for the first time since he was shot Stanford White.

As Mrs. Thaw reached the cell of her son, it was seen that her daughter-in-law had left the consulting room and gone to the cell of her husband. When the young wife saw the mother approaching she slowly backed away from the cell to a spot some 15 feet down the corridor. There was no sign of recognition between the two. On the mother's arrival at the cell, Keeper John Smith saw the mother, who was feeble, and opened the door of Thaw's cell to get the stool on which she might sit during the interview with her son. The mother, not knowing the rules of the prison, rushed forward and clung to the bars of the cell, and then, in her instant both her arms were clasped around the neck of her son, while he, with bent head, clasped his mother to his breast. Tears streamed from the eyes of both mother and son. Then ensued a few minutes' silence, broken only by the mother's cry of "My boy, my boy."

Keeper Smith stood with his back turned for a short time and then informed Mrs. Thaw that the prison rules allowed visitors to talk to prisoners only with bare separating them. The mother stepped out of the cell, while Smith shut the door and turned the key once more on Thaw.

A small stool was then placed in front of the cell and Mrs. Thaw took her seat on it and continued talking to her son for about half an hour. She then kissed her son through the iron bars and was taken down stairs, where she was joined by Josiah Thaw, who had been waiting for her in the consulting room.

The largest crowd since Thaw was first taken to the Tombs had assembled in the street outside and the police made a narrow way for the mother to reach her carriage. Her driver was compelled to force a way through the crowd which fairly blocked the street. Mrs. Thaw was driven to the office of Clifford W. Harbridge.

While the elder Mrs. Thaw was in conversation with her son, his wife, Evelyn, remained seated in the corridor about 15 feet away from the cell, where she could see mother and son without being seen.

After her visit to the Tombs Mrs. William Thaw was driven to the office of Louis Deland, where she took part in a conference with William M. K. Olcott, her son Josiah C. Thaw, her daughter, Mrs. George Carnegie, and Louis L. Deland. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw was not present.

The object of the conference was said to be, first, to induce Olcott to again take the main hand in handling the defense, and, second, to buttress the plans for having Harry Thaw tried by a jury commission. It was regarded as almost certain that Mr. Olcott would agree to re-enter the case in deference to the personal plea of Mrs. Thaw.

Mrs. Harry K. Thaw returned to the Tombs later, accompanied by Mr. Harbridge, and called on her husband. The attorney remained only a short time, but Mrs. Thaw remained at the cell about an hour. Thaw today declined an invitation by the warden to exercise in the prison yard. He said to the warden:

"It seems to be cooler in here, and if it does not make any difference, I would not care to be mixed up with that company."

CAMPAGNING IN RUSSIA.

Different Parliamentary Groups Sending Members Into the Country.

St. Petersburg, July 15.—The different groups in parliament are systematically sending members into the country, campaigning in favor of the prestige of parliament. From the very beginning by factly understanding no roll calls have been taken at the sessions of the lower house, so the government will have no records of the votes with which to act on the upper hand.

Representatives in parliament of the various regulations of the empire are uniting irrespective of party affiliation for the advancement of their local interests. This movement shows plainly a drift towards decent realization in the disintegration of the vast empire, once the grip of the central authority is broken.

REGISTRATION FOR SHOSHONE LANDS

Begins Today at Shoshone, Lander, Thermopolis and Worland, Wyoming.

40,000 PEOPLE WANT HOMES.

Will Close July 31—Drawing Begins Aug. 4, Continuing Until Aug. 15.

Shoshone, Wyo., July 15.—Today the registration for lands in the Shoshone or Wind river Indian reservation began at this place and also at Lander, Thermopolis and Worland. Large crowds are arriving, and officials of the general land office estimate that fully 40,000 people will register for homes. The registration began at 9 o'clock today and will close at 6 p. m. on July 31. The drawing will begin on Aug. 4 and will continue until Aug. 15 when the reservation will be formally opened.

There are about 1,000,000 acres in the tract to be opened and according to surveys made by the state under permit from the department of the interior from 245,000 to 300,000 acres will be capable of reclamation by irrigation.

The plan adopted by the state promises to make the opening of the Shoshone reservation the most successful of recent western Indian land openings. The state engineer has prepared a complete series of maps and specifications for a comprehensive irrigation system and the water rights to the lands which are vested in the state, will be conferred upon the company which will contract to furnish water to the settlers at the lowest cost per acre, the entire system to eventually become the property of the settlers. It is estimated that water in this manner can be put upon over 250,000 acres of land at a smaller cost to the settler than if he built his own dam and ditches.

The bids will be opened Aug. 1, and it is expected that the company getting the contract will immediately start operations on a sufficiently large scale to enable many of the settlers to move on their lands and obtain employment this winter. There are about 4,000 agricultural claims on the reservation and government reports show valuable minerals in Owl Creek mountains.

HONDURAS WILL DISARM IF GUATEMALA WILL.

Washington, July 15.—Honduras is willing to disarm and submit its grievances to arbitration as soon as Guatemala and Salvador agree to do likewise. A dispatch announcing Honduras' willingness to arbitrate was received today by the state department from Philip K. Brown, the American charge, who is looking after the affairs of the United States in Honduras and Guatemala during the absence of Leslie Combs, the American minister to those countries, who was on his way to the United States when the war broke out and has not yet been able to get back to his post at Guatemala city.

Mr. Merry, the American minister at Salvador, advised the department today that he is still negotiating with the Salvadoran authorities trying to get them to agree to disarm and meet Guatemala halfway in the demands for a settlement of the difficulties.

SALISBURY WRECK.

Railway Accepts Full Responsibility And Legal Consequences.

Salisbury, England, July 15.—At the resumption here today of the coroner's inquiry into the cause of the railroad wreck of the Plymouth express, July 1, resulting in the loss of 27 lives, counsel for the London & Southwestern railway, announced that the railway accepted full responsibility for the accident and all the legal consequences resulting from it, and that the railway would arrange for a settlement of the difficulties.

There is no improvement in the condition of Robert S. Critchell of Chicago, who was seriously injured in the wreck. The Plymouth express, a fast train of the express was due to the high speed at which the train was running.

GAMBLING IN SIAM.

The Government is Working a Systematic Crusade Against It.

Washington, July 15.—Under the leadership of its general counselor Prof. E. H. Strobel, formerly of the Harvard law school, the government of Siam has made a systematic crusade against gambling which has long notoriously flourished in the kingdom. Following decisions in the past to abolish all gambling places outside of Bangkok, the red book of foreign regulations just issued by the United States government, the Siam government has abolished all gambling places in Bangkok. The Siam government has also taken steps to suppress the gambling in the provinces of Ayutthaya, Nakhon Phanom, and Nakhon Phanom. Villavert was killed during the fight and four other men were killed. The provincial treasurer was arrested and held prisoner at Casuarina, awaiting orders from the insular authorities. Villavert was a brother of the ladron captured some time ago.

EVELYN THAW'S MOTHER TALKS

Statement That She Introduced Her to White Absolutely False.

GIRL'S LIFE AMONG ARTISTS.

They Were Perfect Gentlemen and She Never Posed in the Nude Altogether.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 15.—"At the age of 16 Evelyn went with me to New York, where she had been heralded as 'the girl with the Christ-child face.' So declared Mrs. Charles J. Holman, the mother of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, in the first interview given by her since the Architect White tragedy. Mrs. Holman spoke of her daughter's life experiences with maternal tenderness, declaring that at the proper time all that has 'upset the plans of three families' will be righted.

"Any statement or suggestion to the effect that it was I who introduced Evelyn to Mr. White is false; utterly false," declared Mrs. Holman with all the emphasis at her command.

"God knows all," she continued, "and He will guide me through these trying moments. I have thought more than once of that 25th day of December, Christmas, 1894, when that sweet, pure, and lovely child was born.

"Look," she continued, taking a photograph from the wall, "Here is Evelyn when she first appeared in the 'Wild Rose' company. Look at the coat she wears. Some people will be surprised to know how it is made. When Mr. Nesbit died he left an overcoat that I thought would come in handy some day. I read that it was made by a man named J. B. and as I think of that darling child I think how I sewed love into every stitch.

"Harry Thaw's mother speaks well of Evelyn—well, why shouldn't she—a beautiful, loving and bright girl. Her papers attribute so much to poor Evelyn—why, I read a story the other day to the effect that the child was a co-respondent in the Lederer case. It is a fabrication, every word of it. George Lederer watched over Evelyn like a father. He often told me of her beauty and that he would make a great actress out of her. She was a student and studious and wanted to be a great actress.

"Actresses raved over Evelyn and many flattering offers were made her to pose, but," continued Mrs. Holman, "her voice rose to add emphasis, 'she never, never posed in the nude. I found those Bohemians were in every way gentlemen. They were ready to sacrifice all to get a canvas for the child that was born on Christmas day. Florence herself is a clever artist—exceptionally fine with colors, when Mr. Nesbit died, he left me with a very large house on my hands in the east end. Finally I secured an offer to go to Philadelphia to take employment, that was in 1900. It was in that city that Evelyn met Mrs. Darrah, who was a well known artist then, and Evelyn promised to pose for her. That was the first time she served as a model.

"Will you state," Mrs. Holman was asked, "how your daughter managed to escape your control?" "No," she replied, "I cannot at this time. I escorted her to the stage door after her first appearance. I was ill with headache, I would send her brother, who was also eager to help his sister, whom he thought the world of.

"Evelyn never went about at night alone—never. If she went out to dine, of course, as a mother should, I was always there to chaperone her. Some times Mr. Lederer would escort Evelyn out for he was so kind and generous to her, and always so good towards us both.

"One night, I now remember, she oversteered the appointed hour to return home and I said to her: 'Well, I thought you would return at a reasonable hour. The engine is waiting, baggage and mail cars were thrown over and two passenger cars derailed. No one was seriously injured, the Spokane dispatcher reports.

GEN. KOZLOV MURDERED IN MISTAKE FOR TREPOFF.

St. Petersburg, July 15.—Additional details of the assassination of Gen. Kozlov, the Russian minister at Madrid, at Petersburg on Saturday, prove beyond question that the minister believed he was killing Gen. Trepoft. The tragedy occurred at 9:20 in the evening in the presence of several thousand people who were listening to the music in the English park near the Alexander palace, where the imperial family and Gen. Trepoft reside. A young man, dressed in the clothes of a workman, seeing Gen. Kozlov, who resembles Gen. Trepoft, gazed long and earnestly at the general's face and then took a photograph from his pocket, and in comparison with Kozlov's features, as if to make sure of his identity. The man then drew a pistol and fired four shots point blank at Kozlov, the first of which struck him in the chest and the second in the back. The assassin started to flee, but Prince Andriusoff seized him and turned him over to the police, who, through the park, to the police station.

"Lynch him," but the prisoner was conducted safely to police headquarters. When he was searched, a small photograph was found in his pocket, having no doubt regarding the identity of the person he intended to kill. The assassin refused to give his name although he openly avowed that he was a member of the social revolutionary organization, and the police have not yet been able to find out his name.

Gen. Kozlov was not involved in military. He married a granddaughter of the famous field marshal, Count Alexander Suvoroff.

FRENCH LICK SPRINGS.

Judge Buskirk Sustains Third Section of Defendants' Demurrer.

Paoli, Ind., July 15.—Judge Thomas B. Buskirk, in the Orange county court, today sustained the third section of the demurrer of the French Lick Springs and West Baden hotel companies against the petition in quo warranto of the state for a temporary receiver and temporary injunction against gambling at the resorts.

In this third section the hotel companies set up that the allegations of the state in its complaint do not state facts sufficient to constitute a case of action against them. He overruled the two sections of the demurrer in which they assert that the prosecuting attorney was not the proper relator for the state in such proceedings, and the state has not the legal capacity to sue.

Atty.-Gen. Miller served notice of appeal to the supreme court. Should the supreme court reverse this decision, the state's information will be sent back to Judge Buskirk's court for trial. Should the supreme court affirm the decision, the case will be thrown out of court.
