MEASURE AMENDED TO DEATH.

Joseph Acted as State's Attorney-Merrill Makes Speech of the Day -New Bills.

Eather than appear wantonly cruel, the members of the house spent something like two hours yesterday afternoon discussing and amending H. B. No. 20 by Cromar, before voting to consign it to the silent tomb. The bill had for its object the inspection of steam bollers and the appointment of a state inspector at a salary of $2,000 per year. It also had a selfsupporting clause by which owners of boilers would be required to pay the sum of $5 for each inspection, which money would be covered into the state treasury. This feature of the measure Mr. Cromar pushed hard, but few of his colleagues could see the point, inas-much as the bill carried with it an ap-

The author opened the debate. The author opened the debate. He said he had introduced the bill at the soliditation of people in all parts of the state, who felt that such a measure was needed for the protection of both is and property. He said there were between 200 and 1,000 bollers in the state which, if the bill passed, would be preferred about once a year, thus sits which, if the bill plassed, would be inspected about once a year, thus readering them reasonably safe. The readering them reasonably safe. The sail, showed that in two years such a law, instead of being an expense to the state, had netted the sum of $1,233.

EXAMINED BY JOSEPH,

The attorney for the state," Mr. Jo-"The attorney for the state, MF, Jo-seph, then took the wilness for cross-examination. He wanted to know whether Park City, Eureka, Bingham and other like towns could not appoint their own boller inspectors under the they own boller inspectors under the provisions of the law passed the day before. The witness said he supposed they could if they chose, but that his bill, expressly exempted cities which had boller inspectors of their own. Mr. Joseph then went on to state that it was Joseph then went on to state that it was a physical impossibility for one imspec-tor to examine all the boilers in the state in one year, while it was ridicu-lous to suppose that Salt Lake City would appoint such an inspector if the state had a man expressly for this

MERRILL AGAINST IT.

The speech of the day was made by Warnil, who figured it out that it would take the inspector at least three years to inspect all the bollers in the state. He thought the bill was unnecessary and uncalled for. There seemed to be a craze for inspectors and it would not surprise him if in the near future there for a "stomach inspector whose duty it would be to keep people from overeating, as seemed to be the case with the legislators only a few days ago. Mr. Merrill pleaded for economy. Already, he said, the appro-priations colled for will amount to nearly two and a half millions, while the research of the same of hearly two and a half millions, while the revenues of the state will not exceed $1,600,000 At this point Roberts moved an At this point Roberts moved an amendment, making the inspector's sal-sry $1,500 rather than $2,000. He did this, he said, to give the bill a better chance, as he believed $2,000 was too much. Merrill moved an amendment to strike out the mileage clause, but this was lost, and the motion by Rob-erts carried.

ARRAIGN OFFICEHOLDERS.

Charge is Made That Many of Them Will Not Pay Their Bills.

The Butchers & Grocers' association planned at last night's meeting for securing new legislation and a grand ball. The association is desirous of laws that will be likely to protect its members, instead of discriminating against them as in favor of the state, county and city office holders, as they say; and and city office holders, as they say, and last evening, when it was announced that there was difficulty to approaching the Legislature, J. M. Mariot arose to declare that "A great many of our public officials are simply hiding under the cloak of their office. They won't pay until they are compelled to. I, for one, am willing to go to any reasonable /expense for protection, rather than have to submit to this highway robbery. Think of it! They come to us and we Think of it! They come to us and we either have to trust them or lose their trade. Then, if they so desire, and many of them do, we can whistle for our money. The law protects them and we have no recourse whatever." The address of the evening was made by George C. Lambert, on "Credit Giving," and his talk was attentively lis-tened to and referred to by his listen-rs as very profitable. The association chose a board of di-ectors, consisting of J. M. Marriot, A. . Lees, Lorenzo Jensen, C. J. Foulger, Lees, Lorenzo Jensen, C. J. Fouger, G. Bates, Austin Hudson and John Eckman.

It was decided to give a ball on the night of March 1, In Jenning's hall, and the following committee of arrange-ments was chosen: F. H. Wright, Lo-ronzo Jensen, R. Papworth, Albert Milan, F. C. Allen, J. W. Harrison and John Burt. John Burt.

TALKS TO CITY TEACHERS.

Thomas on Exclusion of Religion from Schools-Cummings Also Speaks.

The city teachers met at the Lafayette yesterday afternoon, and listened to spley talks from two members of the board of education, Messrs. Mat. Thomas and Byron Cummings. After the singing of "America" by the teacher body, the superintendent introduced Mr. Thom-as, who spoke of his high regard for the local teaching corps, and of his confidence in the devotion of those, whom he had as, who spoke of his high regard for the local teaching corps, and of his confidence in the devotion of those, whom he had the pleasure to address. In a rather reminizent mood, he traced his own de-velopment and his apprecation for his own city and its institutions, and prided himself in the thought, that the Sait Lake ("ity schools had recently been the recipi-ents of such distinction. Speaking of the religious phase of school work, the gen-tieman insisted upon perfect and absolute relegation of the question of the religious status of any one conencted with the sys-tem. He further deplored the late un-pleasantness which had been experienced in connection with the schools, at the re-cent election; this misrepresentation of facts he generously attributed to lack of information on the part of those who felt concerned about the condition of the schools. As a faher, he hoped that the teacher, into whose hands his children should be placed, would guard carefully and fealously their individuality, and would perform that part of the work con-nected with their education which he, ow-ing to business demands upon his time, would be unable to attend to. Again re-ferring to the right of religious liberty, he held that the very men who were in-strumental in producing the Magina Char-ta of this country were inspired, and that the present age has that great boon as an heritage, one which must be sacredly guarded. In conclusion, Mr. Thomas de-sired that the ours feel his implicit faith in their fidelity to their cause, and ex-pressed the hope that that same confi-dence would be reciprocated in his be-half. Prof. Cummings suggested to the teach-ers the importance of holding up to the surdents of the grades. The High School There would be reciprocated in his be-half. Prof. Cummings suggested to the teach-ers the importance of holding up to the students of the grades, the High School; to the high school, the University, and that inspiration should be given the boys and girls in their endeavors to excel. The successes of students, even in their pur-sults in after-life, are to be attributed, in part at least, to that inspiration, which emanated from the leacher. No soul is so hopeless, no one so lacking in enno-bling ideals, that he must be considered of no consequence. The conclusion was a strong plea in behalf, of great interest h ong ideals, that he must be considere of no consequence. The conclusion was strong plea in behalf of great interest i the welfare of the individual pupil, white the teacher must exercise, even should n laurels crown their efforts and no ap plauding world recognize their services. ap ----

Suit Against the Campbell Building Company is Dismissed.

Judge Lewis has dismissed upon stipulation the cases of Herman Scheurger against the Campbell Building company and E. A. Wedgwood against the same company, they having been settled out of court. In the first named case plaintiff brought suit to recover certain stone cutting machinery, valued at $325, used at the new Federal building and which had been seized by defendant for breach of contract on the part of Carl Fin-delsen, who had the stone contract. The last named action was brought to recover the motor and other applances valued at $250, used in connection with the other machinery. In both in-stances the property had been mori-gaged to plaintiffs. The defendant claimed that Findelsen had contracted Thompson opposed the bill, principally because it failed to designate the qualibecause it failed to designate the quali-fications of the inspector, save in a gen-eral way. Hone favored the bill. He said he had five boilers in operation, for which he would willingly pay $5 each per year for inspec-tion. Pancake recalled the explosion at Park City a year ago, at which time no lives were loat because the miners to lives were lost because the miners were off shift. He favored the measure because owners of boilers were not able because owners of bollers were not able to pay competent men to handle them. Wilson cited the explosion of a saw mill boller, at which time one or two persons were killed. He favored the measure at risk of being charged with playing to the labor sentiment. Edward was also in favor of the bill.

AMENDED TO DEATH.

The discussion had gone on for some The discussion had gone on for some time when Joseph offered a number of amendments, among them that no boll-er operator should be under 21 years of age, and that he should pay the sum of §5 for examination, which, Mr. Jo-seph figured, would give the state about $0,00 per year. Christensen said that with the amendments he was more against the measure than ever, as it would work a hardenip on the farmers, some of whom entrusted the care of bollers to their wives. Saved by Dynamite.

Sometimes, a flaming city is saved by dynamiting a space that the fire can't cross. Sometimes, a cough hangs on so long, you feel as if nothing but dyna-mite would cure it. Z. T. Gray, of Cal-houn, Ga., writes: "My wife had a very aggravated cough, which kept her awake nights. Two physicians could not help her: so she took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which eased her cough, gave her sleep, and finally cured her." Strictly scientific cure for bronchitis and La Grippe. At Z. C. M. I. Drug Dept. Price 50c and $1.00; guaranteed. Trial bottle free. Sometimes, a flaming city is saved by bottle free.
