

DESERT EVENING NEWS

WEATHER REPORT.

Observations taken at 6 a. m. today, for previous 24 hours:

Salt Lake City, Utah—Barometer, 30.7; highest, current temperature, 45; lowest, 27; maximum temperature, 45; minimum temperature, 27; dew point, 27; mean temperature, 36; which is 6 deg. above normal.

Accumulated excess of temperature since first of month, 17 deg. Accumulated deficiency of precipitation since first of month, 1.6 inch. Accumulated deficiency of precipitation since January 1st, 4.6 inches.

FORECASTS TILL 6 P. M. TUESDAY.

Local forecast for Salt Lake City and vicinity: Partly cloudy and colder tonight; fair Tuesday. Forecast for Utah, made at San Francisco: Cloudy tonight and Tuesday; colder tonight.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

Areas of low pressure is central north of the Dakotas, while a ridge of high pressure extends from the Rio Grande Valley northward to Oregon. Precipitation has fallen over Washington, Oregon, Northern California, Idaho, Nevada, southwestern Montana, Oklahoma and northern Illinois. The cold front reaching this morning was a gradual junction with a temperature of 35 deg. and the warmest, Galveston, with 45 deg.

L. H. MURDOCH, Section Director.

TEMPERATURE TODAY.

10 a. m., 45; 12 noon, 44; 2 p. m., 47; 3 p. m., 45.

SEMI-WEEKLY NEWS...

CIRCULATION TODAY,

12,695

January 1, 1900, 10,280.

(Issued Mondays and Thursdays.)
The largest circulation of any paper between Denver and the coast.

OUR AIM:

20,000 by the 20th Century!

NEW NAME ADDED TO THE NEWS SUBSCRIPTION LISTS

From January 1, 1900, to Saturday, December 16, 1900, (after deducting all copies discounted):

Daily, 1,350.
Saturday, 2,700.
Semi-Weekly, 9,300.

Total, - - - 13,440

To-day's Metals.

SILVER, Bar, 64.
LEAD, $4.00.
CASTING COPPER 15 3-4 cents a lb.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

Sunday School Union meeting tonight. Judge Hiles has adjourned court until Friday.

The meeting of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce has been postponed until after the holidays.

The regents of the University have decided that all students attending that institution must be vaccinated or excluded from school after the holiday vacation.

To change and keep the dam closed. The funeral of Captain H. E. Barstow was held from O'Donnell's undertaking parlors this afternoon. The remains were interred at Mt. Olivet.

A farewell social will be given in the third ward meeting house this evening, December 17th, in honor of Elder O. H. Hyton, who leaves on a mission to the Southern States on the 20th.

Hon. Sam P. Davis, the State comptroller of Nevada, is spending a few days in the city for the purpose of ascertaining what steps are being taken in Utah by way of reforming the tax system of the State.

The regular monthly meeting of the First Ladies' union will be held in the Fourteenth ward Relief Society hall, corner west of the meeting house, this evening, at 7:30 o'clock. A full attendance is desired. J. W. Beck, Secretary.

The B. C. Morris Floral company is in the field with a varied collection of artistic new century calendars which it is distributing among its friends, a number of which have been received by the "News."

Captain C. W. Penrose, Twenty-third Infantry, has gone East on sick leave. His place is taken by First Lieutenant T. F. Schley. Lieutenant Schley is serving in the Philippine Islands and has been ordered to this post with his wife.

The health commissioner, assisted by Dr. Fisher, vaccinated fifty-seven persons free of charge in his office at the city and county building this forenoon. The majority of the patients were school children, but a few adults also took advantage of the gratis work.

A large audience gathered at the Methodist church last evening to hear Dr. T. C. Liff's farewell sermon. The speaker was very fervent and said that he left Utah absolutely free from sin and that he would never return to the State. He leaves for Ohio on Tuesday where he will spend the holidays with his children.

The department at Washington has granted the local postoffice several more carriers, and for that reason there will be four districts in Salt Lake instead of three. The new carriers are: Arthur Lewis, R. W. Anderson, T. A. Lewis, and J. A. Hall. On January 1st the following three will be added to the force: A. C. Matheson, D. S. Hartell and S. C. Adams.

It has been suggested that the proposed school meeting on New Year's day, that was originated by the national Red Cross Society, be made a union meeting in which all creeds shall join.

MORE ABOUT P. O. CONWAY.

Levitating Stock Broker Appears in Honolulu as Tourist.

BOUND FOR THE ANTIPODES.

The Most Remarkable Feature of the Affair is that He Seems to Have an Ample Supply of Cash.

The question as to the whereabouts of Porter J. Conway, the stock broker, whom many Salt Lake people will remember, is now settled, if the Honolulu papers can be depended upon. Last week a letter was published in this city from L. D. Millet, stating that Conway had sailed from San Francisco on the steamer Mariposa, and when recognized by Millet, denied being Conway, and thereafter concealed himself. He then appeared in Honolulu in the garb of a tourist, who could afford a well selected wardrobe.

A copy of the Pacific Commercial Advertiser of Honolulu, dated December 5th, that has been received in this city, contains an article, headed, "Embezzler in Honolulu." It gives a lengthy account of Conway's nefarious enterprises, which the Salt Lake public is already familiar with. The following account of his brief career in Honolulu is clipped from the Advertiser:

"Porter J. Conway of Salt Lake City, Utah, forger, embezzler and defaulter, and now a fugitive from justice, arrived in Honolulu last Friday night on the Mariposa under the name of George Clarkson, and is a stop-over passenger en route for Sydney, New South Wales."

"Yesterday afternoon Conway was recognized at the King street gate to the capitol grounds by A. P. Taylor, a reporter for the Advertiser, who knew Conway in Salt Lake City. The recognition was apparently mutual. Conway has not changed much in appearance in the last few years, with the exception that his face is now clean shaven. He formerly wore a heavy brown mustache. His hair, once auburn, is now streaked with gray. He was attired in a suit of white cloth, pattern leather shoes, a fuzzy light gray fedora hat and carried a camera. He was to all intents an easygoing tourist and was leisurely surveying the grounds and the building when confronted by the reporter."

"United States Marshal Ray was made acquainted with the presence of Conway in Honolulu when he had a conference with United States District Attorney Baird, but the latter came to the conclusion that, without proper papers, Conway could not be arrested. The complaint of the district attorney until official notice came to him of Conway's being a defaulter. He said that he had not seen Conway since he had jurisdiction over a fugitive from justice whenever that certain State had laws relating to criminals who had been convicted in the State in which criminals were fugitives from justice."

"High Sheriff Brown was asked whether he had any advice from Salt Lake relative to Conway. He replied that he had not, but he knew that such a man had arrived here on the Mariposa under the assumed name of George Clarkson. The press of the vessel had told the high sheriff that the man's name was not Clarkson but Conway—P. J. Conway. The high sheriff added the press of the vessel had defaulted and the police were advised to keep a lookout for him."

"On December 6th the Advertiser published additional information about the fugitive, a part of which follows: "Embezzler Porter J. Conway of Salt Lake City, Utah, who is now in Honolulu on his way to Sydney, Australia, registered at the Hawaiian hotel November 25th as 'George Clarkson, Boston, Mass.' stopping there a day only, and then moved to room 10 of the building, where he is now staying."

"News came by the Doric of fresh forgeries which had been discovered since Conway shook the dust of Zion off his feet. Conway got away with $14,000 and the other $900, making his total known defalcations about $25,000."

"The Salt Lake papers were of the opinion that Conway got away with but very little cash. From these fresh discoveries this opinion has changed, and it is believed that he is traveling with a goodly sum of money. Conway's appearance certainly proves that his wardrobe is in good shape and well stocked with the latest fashions. He appeared on the streets yesterday in dark cheviot coat and trousers, with patent leather shoes and fuzzy gray hat, and the ever-present camera showed that he was not to take snapshots at the sight of some line of advice relative to Conway from the San Francisco police authorities. The purser of the Mariposa told the high sheriff that all came to the city from San Francisco were being watched by the detectives, and he is at a loss to understand how Conway got aboard without being recognized."

"The fact that Conway took the name of Clarkson is thought by the high sheriff to be due to the fact that Conway's effects are labeled 'P. J. Conway' and the attempted deception in the choice of the name of 'Clarkson.'"

A. P. Taylor writes: 'Can't hold him. The time Conway is safely on his way to the antipodes.'

AFTER FORTY YEARS.

Remarkable Reunion of Members of the Horgan Family.

On Thursday last there arrived in this city from British Columbia one of the surviving three brothers of the Horgan family, who left Scotland some forty years ago. His name is David Horgan, and he is uncle, or great uncle, of the two brothers who are now in this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this city and about as many more in Mantle by that name. The four brothers separated in their native land, Scotland, about the year 1860, two of them landing in New York, going thence to Iowa, and later to Canada, finally locating in British Columbia, while Walter, the eldest, came direct to Salt Lake City about the year 1863, and located in the Eleventh ward, where he died June 18th, 1871. David Horgan, at his next of kin, the twenty-five residents of this