

WALL STREET SETTLES DOWN

To a Period of Listlessness After One of the Most Novel Panics.

INSTIGATED BY MAGNATES.

Plenty of Ground for Suspicion That Recent Plunge Was Aggravated By Railroad Financiers.

Special Correspondence.

New York, March 24.—Wall street seems to have settled down to a period of listlessness after one of the most novel panics ever known in its history. The fact that the financial district went through a crash, when security values slumped off a full billion of dollars in a few days, without a single failure being recorded is something that never before has been paralleled.

Some of the market leaders expect to see any bull movement this spring even from the present comparative low range of values. The railroad situation and the agitation that has been in progress for months, from one end of the country to the other, against corporations and corporate influences, form a combination of circumstances likely to be too great to permit of any decided upward tendency in securities values. Neither is it expected that there will be any extensive bear raid on values in the near future. Few, if any, stock exchange houses have been able to make their expenses during the past winter, so small has been the general volume of the public's business, and little change is expected for some months to come.

Of course, some of the interests that have been raising the market, apparently for the sole purpose of demonstrating to President Roosevelt and his administration, as well as to the legation in the various states, that the anti-corporation agitation has knocked the bottom out of security prices, may raid again, but it is doubtful. The actions of the big financial interests were properly shielded and their object was too well known to make it worth while for them to indulge in any further demonstration along this line. On the other hand, the admittedly vast amount of money that will have to be spent in the next few years on railroad developments and improvements will, it is believed, check any decided upward tendency in prices.

Summed up, after the strangest sort of a panic, Wall street apparently is going into a semi-comatose state from which few of the market leaders expect to see it emerge until fall at least.

MAGNATES RESPONSIBLE.

There is plenty of ground for suspicion that the recent tumultuous scenes on the stock exchange were aggravated, if indeed they were not actually instigated, by the financiers in control of the railroad properties. The railroads must use vast sums of money in the near future, and they must be able to get this money on fairly easy terms, which they realize they cannot do unless there is some change in the attitude of the public. The railroads are most trying, but it is largely due to the neglect of the men in control of the properties. During the past few years, they have gathered the fruits of their prosperity and too freely did they indulge in market manipulation. Their abuses of the public, coming to light coincidentally with high money rates in the world's markets, has brought the subject home to these magnates in a way that is most unpleasant. They have been used to running things with a high hand and they do not like being obliged to cater to the general public at this time.

There is no doubt but the anti-corporation attitude of the national and state administrations may be carried further than is necessary, and may work an injustice in some cases. In the long run, however, the effect will be for the general improvement of business conditions and the sooner the men in control of the railroads realize this, the better it will be for their properties and themselves.

The fact that the recent panic was

WEAK, PALE, THIN

DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS RESTORED MRS. ROBBINS TO HEALTH.

They also Cured Her Daughter of Anemia and Saved Her From Consumption.

Mrs. Josie Robbins, of 1121 Clear Street, Decatur, Ill., is enthusiastic over the merits of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. "I have been weak, pale, thin, and tired," states Mrs. Robbins, "I was threatened with nervous prostration, complicated with heart trouble. I consulted my family physician who said it was heart trouble and he gave me three or four different kinds of medicine but I felt no benefit from them. I was very weak, pale, thin, and tired. I was unable to do my work, and my feet were swollen. I got numb and dizzy, my tongue seemed at times to be paralyzed so that I couldn't speak distinctly. My extremities, when in this numb state, felt as if some one was sticking needles into me all over their surface. Through my shoulders at times I had such pain that I couldn't sleep. Many times I awoke with a sensation of smothering.

When the physician's remedies failed to benefit me I began to look for something that would. My sister Mrs. McDaniel of Decatur recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to me and I at once purchased some. I was greatly encouraged when I saw how they acted on my nervous condition and continued using them until cured. I am now able to attend to my duties and have not consulted a physician since.

I also gave them to my daughter who had always been weak and who at this time seemed to lack vitality. Her cheeks were colorless and she was thin and spiritless. She had an anemia and we feared consumption, because every time she went out doors it was at all cold or damp she would take cold and cough. But Dr. Williams' Pink Pills brought color back to her cheeks and strength to her body.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Failureless is of itself an indication that it was a manufactured panic, in which many big men were willing to see their securities depreciate in order to make an impression which apparently they have not succeeded in making. Under the hand of the modern manipulator, the stock exchange has lost much of its significance as a barometer of general business conditions.

SHIPPING DISASTERS.

According to data obtained from the leading shipping interests headquartered here, the first part of 1907, has been one of the most unfortunate for ship owners, underwriters and sailors than the same period for many years past. Marine disasters have come fast upon one another and the casualty list is positively grievous.

Numerically speaking, the loss of vessels has been greatest among the vessels of the Atlantic seaboard. To this was added the wrecking of the Joy line steamship Larchmont off Watch Hill, and the loss of the Hamburg American steamship Berlin at the Hook of Holland. Then there was the big steamship Dakota wrecked on a Japanese reef, the loss of two Hamburg American steamships at Kingston, the sinking of the American steamship Hugonia near New Orleans, the accident to the Canadian steamer St. Lawrence at the mouth of the River Ems, and an enormous list of smaller vessels either totally lost or badly damaged.

In this connection it is interesting to note that an agitation has been started for the repeal of the antiquated Federal statute of 1851 which limits the liability of the owners of a wrecked vessel to an amount which shall in no case exceed the value of the wrecked vessel. Under this statute the ship can be held liable for only $142,250 damages for all the deaths and injuries caused in the Larchmont wreck. A few years ago, when the steamer St. Louis went down in the sound, with a death list of 1,000, the company could be held liable for only $5,000, which was the price for which the wreck sold. There is no way of touching the marine insurance money which the corporations owning the steamships are able to collect. There seems to be little doubt but that this law, which is a relic of barbarism, will be repealed at the next session of Congress.

Lewis Nixon, the shipbuilder, has let it be known that he shortly will build an engine which will drive a ship across the Atlantic in four days.

This engine will be manufactured at a new plant which the shipbuilder is about to establish at Tutuville, Staten Island.

According to Mr. Nixon, patents have been taken out and plans for the new engine have been made, as well as arrangements to place this engine in one of the largest types of steamships afloat. Mr. Nixon firmly believes that four-day steamships are ahead of the ship on which the trial will be made, will be fitted with five propellers of 6,000 horsepower each. The engine will be of the standard type gas engine, using as fuel a gas made from crude petroleum. Each of the six engines will be double acting and reversible.

The big plant at which Mr. Nixon will build these engines will cover four acres and employ 1,000 men.

SPRING RUSH.

The trans-Atlantic steamship companies are preparing for an unprecedented spring and summer rush to Europe. The advance bookings of the big lines already are made up and most of the choice accommodations on the leading vessels have been taken for months ahead. This increase in travel of course is in keeping with the progress of national prosperity which further is indicated by the large number of motor cars for which steamship accommodations also have been booked.

A clear indication of the early tide of European travel is shown by the fact that the North German Lloyd boats, since the first of the year, have carried 220 more first class passengers, 1,600 more second class passengers, and 7,000 more steerage passengers than for the same period of the year before. By counterbalancing this, however, there has been a falling off in the travel from Europe to this country.

All of the big trans-Atlantic lines have been overhauling their fleets for this year's business and the White Star line will be increased by the addition of the new Adriatic. The new ship will make its first voyage from New York on May 22.

CURIOSITY OF MAN.

The curiosity of man long has been an expensive proposition, but it seldom has been shown in a more striking way than by the fact that the New York Central railroad has been compelled to spend $25,000 to protect men from the results of their own curiosity. The $25,000 was spent in placing hoods over the third rail along the suburban stations of that part of the central lines where electric service has been installed.

Ever since the recent electrification of the suburban section of the road, it appears that commuters have spent much of their spare time, while waiting for trains, in poking their umbrellas at the third rail to see what would happen. Impromptu fireworks were one frequent result and an umbrella holder, spectator and train car were another. Fortunately for the curious, none of them happened to have the latest device of steel framed and steel handled umbrellas, or else there would have been some funerals.

As it happened, there was enough trouble, and the railroad officials proceeded to have the rail in front of each station platform so that it will be impossible for now on for any of the inquisitive to investigate with an umbrella or anything else larger than a hatpin.

REALTY CAMPAIGN.

Apparently New York is moving into a new era of real estate speculation, owing to the additional subways about to be undertaken. This real estate movement promises a more radical transformation in Manhattan than was accomplished by the construction of the first subway and many believe that a general readjustment of the city's population is about to begin.

From the wonderful success of the first subway, real estate men have learned much. At that time they were cautious and uncertain in their operations to discount the project, but now they can proceed from absolute knowledge. As soon as contracts are let for the new subways, and all of the route details further settled, a vast estate campaign will be undertaken.

CHEAP LODGING HOUSES.

The knell of the cheap lodging houses has been sounded by the board of health, which has just put in force stringent new sanitary regulations which undoubtedly will force these cheap houses to close their doors. Some of the lodging houses in fact already have been closed.

These vile refuges, where the dirtiest and most unclean habits could find a night shelter for ten cents each is to learn as to the relative standing and reliability of the leading manufacturers of medicinal agents, as the most eminent physicians are the most careful as to the uniform quality and perfect purity of remedies prescribed by them, and it is well known to physicians and the Well-Informed generally that the California Fig Syrup Co., by reason of its correct methods and perfect equipment and the ethical character of its product has attained to the high standing in scientific and commercial circles which is accorded to successful and reliable houses only, and, therefore, that the name of the Company has become a guarantee of the excellence of its remedy.

TRUTH AND QUALITY

appeal to the Well-Informed in every walk of life and are essential to permanent success and creditable standing, therefore we wish to call the attention of all who would enjoy good health, with its blessings, to the fact that it involves the question of right living with all the term implies. With proper knowledge of what is best each hour of recreation, of enjoyment, of contemplation and of effort may be made to contribute to that end and the use of medicines dispensed with generally to great advantage, but as in many instances a simple, wholesome remedy may be invaluable if taken at the proper time, the California Fig Syrup Co. feels that it is alike important to present truthfully the subject and to supply the one perfect laxative remedy which has won the approval of physicians and the world-wide acceptance of the Well-Informed because of the excellence of the combination, known to all, and the original method of manufacture, which is known to the California Fig Syrup Co. only.

This valuable remedy has been long and favorably known under the name of—Syrup of Figs—and has attained to world-wide acceptance as the most excellent of family laxatives, and as its pure laxative principles, obtained from Senna, are well known to physicians and the Well-Informed of the world to be the best of natural laxatives, we have adopted the more elaborate name of—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as more fully descriptive of the remedy, but doubtless it will always be called for by the shorter name of Syrup of Figs—and to get its beneficial effects always note, when purchasing, the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package, whether you simply call for—Syrup of Figs—or by the full name—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—is the one laxative remedy manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. and the same heretofore known by the name—Syrup of Figs—which has given satisfaction to millions. The genuine is for sale by all leading druggists throughout the United States in original packages of one size only, the regular price of which is fifty cents per bottle.

Every bottle is sold under the general guarantee of the Company, filed with the Secretary of Agriculture, at Washington, D. C., that the remedy is not adulterated or misbranded within the meaning of the Food and Drugs Act, June 30th, 1906.

for years have been breeding places of disease, and the drastic action of the board of health is welcomed by all physicians and charitable institutions.

Under the new rules, all lodging houses in the city are required to change the sheets and pillow cases on the different cots each day. In addition to this, the number of cubic feet of air space for each person has been raised from 400 to 600 in each of the dormitories.

Hot and cold running water must be available at all hours on each floor and shower baths must be provided. Thus it can readily be seen that the lodging houses must either raise their tariff of charges from ten cents or go out of business.

Health Hints.

Never get cold feet especially in winter. For palpitation of the heart, quit reading market quotations. A good way to treat appendicitis is to cut out the surgeon.

Avoid late hours; when the clock strikes 11 it is time to go to bed. Maladies which fail to respond to any other treatment should be treated with silent contempt. Remember that care killed a cat, and the man who has more than nine lives can't afford to worry.

Nose-bleed is frequently caused by not minding your own business. It may be cured by calling the police and driving into the nearest drug store.

If you are fat, get thin; if you are thin, get fat. Nature never meant you to be satisfied with your weight.

A bee sting is good for rheumatism, and therefore those who have hives are seldom troubled with sciatica at the same time. Drink plenty of water, some of the clearer varieties being preferable; that which you get from the milk-man may contain bacilli.

DESIGN FOR A NEW GARIBOLDI MONUMENT.

The structure shown in the cut is to be erected at Rosebank, on Staten Island, in memory of Garibaldi, the famous Italian patriot and at one time citizen of the United States. While an exile in America, Garibaldi lived for two years at the house of a Rosebank candle maker and worked at the trade. The house was presented to the Italian colony on the island on condition that it should be taken to some other site. The building will be removed, and the handsome structure herewith pictured will be raised over it.

For hay fever, take large doses of poison ivy in rapid succession until relieved. Those who have tried this sterling remedy have never complained of the same trouble afterward.

Physicians say that laughter is an aid to the digestion. Therefore, be mirthful; the more the merrier. Young men should grin and young girls should giggle as much as possible. You may be thought silly, and this will occasion some concern on the part of your friends, but they will not be surprised.

Walk four miles every morning, as soon as you are dressed—not before. Returning, breakfast upon a small dish of evaporated bran and skimmed milk, and a cup of imitation coffee with condensed cream. This is a wonderful food reducer, and is sold to stimulate the digestive apparatus immeasurably. It will make you a child again, and so whets the appetite that within 30 seconds you will feel as if you had never eaten a thing in your life.—Thomas Speed Slossy, in Bohemian.
