

SERVED NOTICE ON THE SMELTERS

County Board of Health Today Orders the Nuisance to be Abated.

FIVE BIG PLANTS NOTIFIED.

In the Meantime Expert is in New York Preparing Plans to Bandle Problem.

From today the five big smelting companies of this valley are more definitely maintaining a public nuisance and are under orders from legal authorities to abate the same immediately.

This morning the county board of health served the notice to abate upon the United States Smelting company, the Utah Consolidated Mining company, the Bingham Copper and Gold Mining company, the American Smelting and Refining company, and the Bingham Consolidated Mining company.

The text of the notice follows: Gentlemen—You are hereby notified that at a meeting of the county board of health of Salt Lake county, Utah, held Feb. 16, 1905, the smoke and fumes arising from your smelter were declared to be a public nuisance and the same were ordered abated.

You are hereby directed to abate said nuisance immediately.

JOHN C. MACKAY,
Chairman County Board of Health.
J. U. DEBOLD,
Clerk County Board of Health.

As the board of health has stated that it has no authority to force the smelters to close, the only practicable method of following up this action is to arrest the smelter managers for maintaining a nuisance in defiance to law.

The smelters themselves have not been idle since the agitation against them began, and their experts Franz Meyer, now in New York, is stated to be preparing plans by which the problem can be handled, which within several months should bring the end of the conflict in interests between the farmers and the smelters.

Chairman C. F. Miller of the protesting land owners, says that while he is glad that the county board of health has made legal their assertions in regard to the nuisance, there is still a disposition on the part of the committee to drop the injunction proceedings now under preparation by Judge W. H. King and his associates in the case. If the present status is allowed to continue more than a certain length of time it will be too late to secure action through an injunction, and for that reason it is intended to press the suit to the limit. Another action before the state board of health will be pressed in the hope of securing their decision against the fumes.

SURPRISED THE DOMINIE.

Friends of Dead Man Make an Unusual Request at His Hands.

The joke is on the pastor of one of Salt Lake's most prominent evangelical churches. It seems that he was called upon to conduct the funeral of a Greek who was buried in Mt. Olivet cemetery, and responded to the call just as he does to many other similar demands, where information as to the virtues of the deceased, and as to special or unusual observances peculiar to nationalities have to be gleaned on the spur of the moment.

The good dominie was therefore very much astonished when informed at the grave that he would be required to place a flask of whisky in one hand of the deceased, and pour another flask over the calm and unresponsive countenance and in fact full length of the person of the deceased, as he lay in his last final container. However, it seemed to be a case of the dominie do, and when you are with the descendants of Porci-as and Aristides, why do as they do, to the best of his ability, though it did warily "go against his grain," and he poured out the posthumous oblation handful, as well as his unskilled hand could. But before finishing, he had come to the conclusion that he would make a mighty unhandy and unreliable barkeeper. In fact, he wouldn't do it at all. However, the Greeks were satisfied, and that was the main thing.
It is not only at Greek funerals that whisky holds an honored place, for the Celestials consider it indispensable.

The funeral of Richard Mackintosh was held in this city.

Judging from some of the post mortem functions that have been held in this city among the cult of the Yellow Dragon, and as for other peculiar observances and rites attendant thereon, there are a number that awaken the recollections of the American observer rather than his spiritual emotions. At a big Chinese funeral held in this city some years ago, an American band was hired to alternate with the Chinese orchestra at the funeral; and the American musicians "favored" the audience with such charmingly appropriate selections as "Some day I'll wander back again," and several oaks walks, while at the grave, "Down went McDinty to the bottom of the sea," was a selection that particularly pleased the Asiatic ear.

AMUSEMENTS.

With all of the sanctity of age and the sparkle and effervescence of youth that rare and delightful old comedy, "The Rivals," written by Sheridan 145 years ago, and brought up to date by the immortal Joseph Jefferson in the last generation, was played to two brilliant audiences in the Salt Lake Theater yesterday afternoon and evening. If the mantle of Mr. Jefferson has not fallen directly upon his gifted son, certain it is that they have inherited in no small measure the ability that has made him the most beloved actor of America that lives today. The latter has five sons, three of whom are on the stage at the present time, Thomas, William and Joseph. It is the two last named who are now presenting "The Rivals." Thomas, it will be remembered, was seen here in "My Van Winkle." This is the first visit to Salt Lake of Joseph, Jr., and William has not been here since 1892, when he appeared in this city with his father in "The Rivals." Its last local presentation, playing the same part he now portrays with such marked cleverness.

The Jefferson brothers have surrounded themselves with a thoroughly finished company. As Sir Anthony, Ver-ner Clarges is most capable, while Captain Absolute, by Harold M. Shaw, is very cleverly done. The Mrs. Malap-propr of Folliott Paget, the woman with the wonderful vocabulary, was a superb bit of acting, while Blanche Bender made a coquettish and decidedly winsome Lydia Langslet. Mr. William Jefferson's Bob Acres is a characterization of the highest order and a perfect reproduction of his honored and distinguished father. The Sir Lancelot O'Trigger of Joseph, Jr., demonstrated him to be an artist of exceptional versatility and fineness of execution and delineation.
As for the play itself, it is one of the brightest and most wholesome comedies on the stage today, and although it has done its duty for two continents before millions of people in the past century and a half, it is as modern and up-to-date as most contemporaneous productions of like order. It will be seen at the Salt Lake Theater for the last time tonight.

At the Grand theater the Black Patti Troupers concluded their engagement last night, and this evening "Over Niagara Falls" begins its run for the remainder of the week, beginning tomorrow night.

William Collier's laugh talked of new comedy. "The Dictator" will be seen at the Salt Lake Theater for the remainder of the week, beginning tomorrow night.

HAD TO HIDE IT

A mother wrote us recently that she had to keep Scott's Emulsion under lock and key —her children used to drink it whenever her back was turned. Strange that children should like something that is so good for them. It's usually the other way. Scott's Emulsion makes children comfortable, makes them fat and rosy-cheeked. Perhaps that's why they like it so much—they know it makes them feel good.

brought about directly by the syndicate are many, and on the whole highly beneficial. In a business sense most of some 2,400 miles he was about to undertake to Salt Lake and return. Result? I was named Sharp, he was named Sharp, and the wild men, all of which and whom I yearned to meet, and great and good, and I was in arise, do and die with them. I met in St. Joe a man who, if my memory serves me right, was named Sharp, he was a plainsman of experience, and had to do with carrying mail across the desert to the 'Mormon' settlement which had been planted midst the Rockies by Brigham Young and his followers. By much persuading, I suc-could be of use to him on a jaunt

undertake to Salt Lake and return. Re-
