The axle of the passenger coach, filled with people, broke, precipitating the car down an embankment, severely injuring a number and killing the brakeman.

The cars caught fire and burned up, including two Pullman cars.

One of the passengers was seriously burned, except a Mr. Winslow Scott, of St. Louis, who is not expected to recover.

The accident is said to have been caused by gross negligence, the axle of the car being old and worn out.

FOREIGN NEWS.

FRANCE.

The national guards will oppose the entrance of the Prussians—Barricade at Versailles.—The Emperor William will review the German troops in the Champs de Mars.—The occupation of Paris.—The Assembly—All tranquil.

LILLE.—Large masses of the Belleville populace intend occupying the Champs Elysees, on Wednesday, to oppose the Prussians with arms.

At a meeting of delegates of the national guard it was resolved to resist the entry at the entrance. A meeting of 1,600 national guards resolved to attack the Hotel de Ville on Tuesday morning.

They appointed a commander-in-chief, the government declared the army had failed; they were now ready to defend Paris; for want of a combination and over fatigue, the attack on the Hotel de Ville had failed.

They established the useless cannon, the serviceable cannon, were restored on the ramparts of Belleville and Montmartre. The authorities at the time as not to provoke a collision by their sympathy, if the idea of resistance is extended. It is said that if the national guards oppose the entry, Vinery will not enter the city.

The authorities are greatly embarrassed.

VERSAILLES, 25.—Last night, at a banquet, the Emperor attended his guests the preliminary treaty of peace, which he accepted the congratulations of the august personages present.

The Emperor embraced Von Moltke and Von Roon, and expressed deep gratitude for the invaluable services of these officers.

His Majesty's health will probably prevent his reviewing the troops on horseback, but he certainly will review them in the Champs de Mars. It is believed that the Emperor will witness the entry of the 11th corps at the Ecluse, on Wednesday morning.

The reasons for his doing this are obvious to all who are acquainted with the state of public feeling in Paris and vicinity.

The spot selected for the purpose is kept secret. The 11th corps will have the honor of being the first French army to occupy the capital.

At 10 o'clock, precisely, they will enter, with colors flying and bands playing, in full war strength, 30,000 strong, with eighteen field guns.

At the end of three days, they will be relieved by another corps, probably the guards.

The process of relief will probably involve the presence of 50,000 German soldiers within the Ecluse at one time.

Each corps will remain three days and will be succeeded by another until all have had a turn.

The whole period of occupation has not yet been decided. The Parisians expect that the occupation will last only a few days.

This is not unlikely, but may prove a delusive hope, for the occupation may last months, which seems not improbable.

From certain indications, at present, the Germans may be requested by the authorities of France to occupy the city till the anarchy and riot are subdued and respect of law will occupy the capital.

The Government of which Thiers is at the head, has resolved to maintain its authority and do its best to maintain order.

There is reason to believe that the Government of the French Government to demand the whole of the Imperial army immediately upon their release from their captivity in Germany, and organize a new army, and demand of national defense.

The old army will be swept away with unparagon completeness and the prolonged occupation of Paris by a German garrison may be an actual calamity to the city.

The first installment of the indemnity will be $20,000,000, and on payment of a second like amount, the evacuation of Seine-Inferieure will immediately follow.

BORDEAUX, 25.—In the Assembly Thiers said himself and colleagues had engaged to be responsible; the Assembly must also engage themselves. None of the members of the Assembly are in any circumstances.

The Assembly has decided to meet this evening in committee. The public sitting room of the Assembly is guarded by troops.

The city is tranquil. The government demands urgency. The discussion of the treaty proposition was opposed by several deputies from Alsace and Paris.

The chief difficulty is the determination of certain questions delegations to have the branch railway constructed on the bill, as it first passed the Senate.

It seems probable that the Louisiana branch, from New Orleans to Marshall, will be put back to the conference committee.

The Arkansas branch is the least trouble. It seems there is no land grant involved, and it only asks the right to "right of way" at Marshall.

There is a strong feeling in the House at least, against a consolidation of interests such as would follow the recognition of the various branches.

Is the striking out of an appropriation, in the omnibus bill of $3,000,000 for the construction of a building to be used for bank notes and bond engraving at present, it appeared in the debate that the cost of the engraving and printing done in New York, during the last year, was $1,845,000, while that done here cost $1,185,000, being a saving of $660,000.

Cardwell's bill for the replacing of mutilated or worn out currency, would require the printing of nearly $30,000,000.

According to Superintendent McCarter's estimate the cost would be as follows: To replace all the national currency, allowing that thirty-five million of notes will be required, would cost, if printed in New York, $1,845,000; if printed in New York, $1,185,000; if printed in New York, $1,185,000; if printed in New York, $1,185,000.

Bregille was officially received by the Queen on Friday.

The proclamation of Thiers appeals to the patriotism and wisdom of the Parisians; and says that famine compelled the surrender of the forts and obliged the government to open the negotiations.

It also states that the French army occupied the left of the Seine to insure the executive convention, and urges the people not to break up the convention and thus entail frightful misfortunes upon France.

In an order of the day, Vinery says the government unhesitatingly confides to the national guards the care of the city, and trusts to their devotion and intelligence to maintain order.

The least agitation will furnish a pretext for irreparable misfortunes, and only calm dignity can avert it.

LONDON, 1.—The Emperor William, communicating to the czar, after stating the peace terms, says: "The days have arrived at the end of a glorious and bloody war, precipitated by the frivolity of the French. Prussians remember that you prevented the spread of the war, God bless you."

The czar replied that he shared the joy, and hoped a durable peace had been secured to a devoted friend, and that the happiness and glory of Russia and Prussia were insured.
