

day from a few weeks' pleasure trip to Chicago, St. Louis and New York. Miss Edna Beck has gone to Milford, where she expects to assist Mrs. Atkin in her millinery business during the winter. Miss Ada Shaerer will visit friends in Payson tomorrow. Mrs. Annie Taylor Hyde of Salt Lake City and Mrs. Woolcott of Los Angeles spent Tuesday in Provo, the guests of President and Mrs. Brimhall. A pleasant reception was given at the Congregational church on Tuesday evening in honor of Miss Isely, who left on Wednesday for her home in Kansas. Miss Isely has been a successful instructor in the Proctor academy for many years and it was with much regret that her release was given. A program of music, speeches and recitations and a delicious luncheon were among the pleasures planned for the evening. Mrs. W. A. Dusenberry and daughter Jennie expect to leave soon for California, where they will be guests of Mr. Arthur Dusenberry at Los Angeles and Ocean park. Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Glasier entertained a few friends informally on Tuesday evening in honor of Mr. Glasier's birthday anniversary. A number of the school friends of Miss Emma Lucy Gates gave her a reception on Saturday afternoon, in the hall of the University building. Many of the students and faculty were present, who met and congratulated Miss Gates on her brilliant musical achievements. Senator Smoot and party are expected home this evening from their trip through Arizona and the Grand canyon. Mrs. Frank Dusenberry of Idaho is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Dusenberry. The Nineteenth Century club met on Friday afternoon, with Mrs. Sam Gehring. Mayor and Mrs. Roylance were Salt Lake visitors on Wednesday. THE PICTURESQUE IN MILLINERY. While extreme modes in millinery are the order of the day, there is still some trace left of the old favorites. Women are loathe to give over the large flat hats which are so generally becoming, and are not in haste to exchange them for the tip-tilted and saucer brim models that are being so generally exhibited in the shop windows. For a between seasons hat nothing can be more practical than one in all black, and for that period between summer and autumn, just the time when summer hats begin to grow shabby, and it is yet too early for a winter hat. A picturesque model of black net or lace is a happy compromise. An effective model of this order is in a low flat style with most of the trimming placed on the underbrim, which is lifted slightly at one side. The chief ornament of the hat is the sweeping cascade plumes, which pass through a knot of tulle on the underbrim. A handsome veil of black chantilly lace adds a picturesque touch. This veil is not intended to be worn over the face, but is a drapey, pure and simple.

CLUB CHAT. The Reviewers' club opened its new season on Monday with a delightful meeting at the home of Mrs. C. H. Blanchard, an exceptionally interesting program being given and a pleasant time being spent. The rooms were attractively decorated with flowers, pink roses and carnations being used in the parlors and ladies in the dining room, where refreshments were served, with Mrs. A. H. Boxrud presiding, and Mrs. W. Browning, Mrs. C. G. Plummer, Mrs. J. C. McLean and Miss Aileen Crismon assisting. The program opened with a song of greeting by Mrs. Plummer, followed by an address of welcome by the new president, Mrs. E. A. Wedgewood, a paper on "Florence" by Mrs. C. D. Moore, and two charming vocal selections by Mrs. George Wragg. A large number were present, including about 50 guests. The Utah Woman's Press club meets tonight in Templeton block and an interesting program is planned. The Daughters of the Spirit of Liberty chapter held their first meeting of the season this week at the home of Mrs. George Hancock. Mrs. Mary F. Allen, the president of the club, addressed the members, the work for the coming year being outlined. A very attractive year book has just been issued by the chapter. In address delivered before thousands of people at the Lewis and Clark exposition at Portland last week, Gov. Frank R. Gooding, Idaho's chief executive, spoke enthusiastically of the equal suffrage situation in Idaho. "Idaho is especially proud of the fact that there is a welcome, a home and a future for these deserted babies."

Given Up to Die. R. Spiegel, 124 N. Virginia St., Evansville, Ind., writes: "For over five years I was troubled with kidney and bladder afflictions which caused me much pain and worry. I lost flesh and was all run down, and a year ago had to abandon work entirely. I had three of the best physicians who did me no good and I was practically given up to die. Foley's Kidney Cure was recommended and the first bottle gave me great relief, and after taking the second bottle I was entirely cured." Sold by F. J. Hill Drug Co. VELVET SUITS FOR EARLY FALL. Many women are choosing for first fall suits velvet, reserving cloth for the later season when the weather is more inclement. Velvet could be more appropriately or becomingly worn for the first cool weeks than cloth. Such beauty of texture is given to some of the cotton backed velvets, or, more properly speaking, velveteens, that women often choose these fabrics in preference to the more expensive and less durable silk velvets. A wonderful assortment of colorings are to be had in the new velveteens, and the woman is sure to find among them just the color tone that will prove most becoming. Tailors are now using velveteens in exactly the same manner as cloth, the styles simple or elaborate. An effective model is a suit in velveteen made with a full circular skirt, pleated to form a deep yoke. Heading the hem are four lines of silk soutache braid. The coat is a combination bolero and peplum, the glade under the bolero having the busque back. There is a simple trimming of silk rouches and buttons, and the coat front opens to show an embroidered vest of white broadcloth.

As the proposed scheme involves the capital outlay of some $2,000,000 and other out-of-the-way places. In great a two or three year course at one of the great English universities for 93 young women students for the United States, the undertaking seems an arduous but admirable one. In an interview in the London News Mrs. Glynes, who is president of the society, said in part: "It is an attempt to do for the women of the United States what the Rhodes scholarships are doing for the men. At first we thought of bringing over just a few women who had graduated, and giving them a year at the university. That was felt was not broad enough, and certainly not long enough as regards duration of stay. A second scheme which has found favor is to bring 93 students over a two-year post-graduate course—two from each state of the Union, and one from the District of Columbia. But there is now a third proposal which is under consideration suggested by President Thomas of Bryn Mawr, who is an associate member of our central council of the General Federation of Women's Clubs of America. Her proposal is that the students should take an undergraduate course of three years, which she thinks will yield the best results, especially in giving them time to understand English institutions and modes of thought. Interesting information obtained from facts concerning founding institutions in a half-dozen or more of the leading American cities, convinces one that there is a welcome, a home and a future for these deserted babies. Every year the founding situation in New York seems more difficult to handle, and joint committees report a larger percentage of infants to be cared for during the last six months than for the same number of months at any time previous. New York institutions are overcrowded, and the demand is for more money and more homes. Certainly America's baby charities should be the individual charities of every well-thinking man and woman in the land.
