UTAH ARTISTS MAKE REPLY.

SEASON HERE President of the Institute, Chairman of the Exhibition Committee and Others Renew the Controversy and Give The Attorney General's Opinion.

Owing to this fact and for the purpose of correcting the misconceptions in the minds of the publig the undersigned desire to submit a true statement of the facts in the case. By the act of March 9, 1899, provisions are made for the creation of a state institute of art. By the terms of the act a governing board consisting of seven members is established. The law also enjoins upon this governing board the duty of appointing a committee of artists or judges of art to be known he exhibition committee. A mandatory provision of the statute is that an annual exhibit shall be held, and at each annual exhibit a prize of $300 shall be paid by the state for the best origi nal painting by a Utah artist which has been accepted for competition the exhibition committee. The exhibit tion committee is required to provide for the annual art exhibit and to determine what works of painting, sculp-ture, drawing, etc., shall be entered in competition for the annual must be accepted for competition by the exhibition committee. Under the constitution and by-laws of the organizaion the exhibition committee has also the authority to provide for prizes to awarded for successful exhibitors. Pursuant to law and the constitution and by-laws of the organization an in-stitute was held at Salt Lake City,commencing March 8, 1993. The exhibition committee provided by law was duly appointed by the governing board. This ommittee entered upon its duties and made full and complete arrangements for the institute. A circular was pre-pared setting forth the prizes offered and the rules governing the exhibition. Among the prizes offered were the annual $300 prize offered by the state, and a $50 prize offered for the best watercolor painting. Paintings were submitted to the exhibition committee to be entered in competition for these prizes. The exhibition committee accepted some and rejected others. The law to which reference has been made also provides that the governing board shall appoint a committee consisting of three udges who shall award the prizes; in other words it is the duty of this com mittee to determine from the competing pictures selected by the exhibition committee the ones to which prizes shall be awarded. The awarding judges appointed by the governing board consisted of G. M. Ottinger. S. T. Whittaker and Allen L. Lovey. These judges, instead of awarding the $300 prize and the nformation that we greatly need. We are much pleased with the inter-$50 prize, as required by law, refused to perform their duty and subm . ed a report to the governing board intended as an apology for their defiance of the law. The principal reason assigned by them for their illegal and unwarranted course was that neither of the pictures acnter in competition for the $300 prize and the $50 prize was worth the prizes Address all letters to the secretary, We deem this action of the awarding judges unfair and illegal. It is a gross insult to the exhibition committee and $300 prize are each worth the amoun To artists and those who know the worth of paintings, this will be clear; to persons who are unacquainted with art and the value of paintings, in which class the judges above referred to becalled judges is condemned by the ar the published intimation that the artists of Utah are quarreling themselves we desire to state that the atmost harmony prevails among they are devoted to their profession and are doing everything within their er to advance art to a high stan-d. In their relations and associations there is the highest degree of fellowship. This statement needs but one the state whose purpose seems to be to create discord among the artists of Utah. The artists, however, do object in selecting as awarding judges persons who are not artists and are gualified to perform the required in their position, submit that the action of judges in refusing to award the $300 clearly violative of law. They do not ited, but it is their sole and only duty ompetition for the various prizes which are the best and then to award the orizes accordingly. These same awarding judges further attempt to justify their course by alleging "that no pictures have been accepted except those painted by said "exhibtion committee," while others of equal or greater merit not painted by members of the committee have been rejected." This statement is so unfair untruthful and misleading that a ence to the same is desirable. N

It is a base slander for the awarding judges to say that neiththe awarding judges to say that neither of these pictures was worth the prize or of sufficient merit to receive attention at the last hands. We are utterly at a loss to conceive of the motive behind their illegal course. There were only three eprsons entering oil paintings for the $300 state prize. Two of these persons were members of the exhibition comittee. This has occured in all of the institutes before held. The il of the institutes before held. exhibition committee has usually con-sisted of artists. They did not appoint themselves, but were selected by the governing board, and upon every occa-sion one or more members of the ex-hibition committee has offered a paint ing in committee has offered a painting in competition with others for the $300 prize. While this occasioned some little embarrassment, yet it has always been recognized that the exhibition committee has acted with fairness and without partiality. Upon this occasion, s stated, two of the exhibition comlittee offered paintings in competition for this prize. Only one other painting was offered. The committee fairly and onscientiously considered the merits of the paintings submitted and acon for the state prize. In passing up on the merits of the rejected painting two members of the committee who had presented paintings for competition accepted the judgment of the other two members of the committee. This comunder the law, were compelled to decide what pictures were worthy to compete for the various prizes. They acted conscientiously and honestly and feel confident that their judgment is in-dorsed by the artists of this state. As corroborative of our statements
