FIFTY-THIRD YEAR.

ATTEMPTED TO INFLUENCE JURY.

Sensational Charge Made Against Maurice Steifel by Edward McCarrick.

APPROACHED OTHERS AS WELL.

Incident Occurred in Case of Jane Roca vs Utah Savings & Trust Co., Administrators.

STEIFEL CITED TO SHOW CAUSE.

In all Probability He Will be Made an Example of so that Others May Profit by It.

Perhaps one of the most sensational charges of attempt to unduly influence a jury in its verdict in a civil action, the history of the district court since the days of statehood, came to light in Judge Stewart's court this morning when Juror Edward McCarrick filed an affidavit in which he charged that Maurice Steifel had approached him and attempted to give him some inside information concerning the case of Jane Roca vs the Utah Savings & Trust company, as administrator of the estate of Daniel S. Davidson, deceased, seemingly with a view to influence his verdict in that action.

TWO OTHERS APPROACHED.

It was stated that Steifel had visited two other jurors who served on the case, and Judge Stewart instructed those jurors to file affidavits in relation to the conversation had with Steifel in connection with the case and ordered the latter to appear before him on Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock and show cause why he should not be held in contempt of court. In an affidavit filed for the purpose of approaching the jurors in connection with the case and was most reprehensible and in which a man should be made an example of for such conduct it was certainly this one. So from from action in the matter will take such action in the matter as will serve for an example to the public for some time to come.

MCCARRICK COMMENDED.

Before excusing the jury from the case Judge Stewart stated that he desired to commend the promptness with which Juror McCarrick reported the conduct of Steifel, who was a witness in the case. He said further that it is of great importance that the court should be kept free from such influences and that it is the duty of the jurors to promptly report any such conduct as that complained of in this instance.

CONTENTS OF AFFIDAVIT.

The affidavit of Edward McCarrick sets out the fact that he was chosen a juror to try the case above named, which was on trial on last Thursday and Friday, October 15 and 16, and that Maurice Steifel was a witness for the defendant in said case. Further the affidavit charges:

"That on the evening of Oct. 15, 1903, and while the case was still pending and before the verdict of the jury in said case had been rendered, the said Maurice Steifel called upon affiant at said home in the city of Salt Lake City, and said to him that he desired to speak to him in relation to the case now pending; and affiant said to him that he did not wish to hear anything about it. The said Steifel said he desired to state some facts in relation to the case. Affiant told him that he did not wish to listen to any facts from him and he said that there was evidence there that the judge refused to admit. Affiant told him he did not wish to hear anything at all about the matter and affiant dismissed him, and as the said Steifel was leaving the house he said that he had also seen other jurors in relation to the matter."

ACTION IN QUESTION.

The action in which the matter arose was brought by Jane Roca to recover from the estate of Daniel S. Davidson, deceased, the sum of $1,621.65, alleged to be due for services rendered and for board for Agnes Davidson, and daughter, who are the daughter and granddaughter of Daniel S. Davidson. It was alleged that the services were rendered at the special instance of Davidson, who agreed to pay for the same for the reason that his daughter was an incompetent person and unable to care for herself. The services were rendered between May 1, 1902 and April 26, 1903. The jury this morning returned a sealed verdict in favor of plaintiff for the total sum of $1,174.44.

STEIFEL AN HEIR.

It appears that Steifel is an heir to the estate and hence was deeply interested in the verdict of the jury. Hence his conduct in approaching the jurors in connection with the same. He was in court this morning, having been served with an order to appear by Sheriff Emery. When examined by the court he stated that there was a dispute between himself and another witness about some of the testimony introduced and he went to the jurors to settle the dispute. He stated that all he said about the case to Mr. McCarrick was that there was nothing to complain against the jury. Hence he ordered him to appear Wednesday morning and answer the other affidavits which will be filed at that time.

Washington, Oct. 19.—Minister Beane, at Bogota, has informed the state department that the Colombian government is still considering the canal question and that the committee having the matter in charge has submitted a report upon the concession of the Panama Canal company from 1904 to 1910. The dispatch is ambiguous and the department is waiting for further information. The committee has recommended the withdrawal of the concession and a return to the company of $1,000,000, which was paid for it or whether it favors confirming the concession. The report is to be printed and discussed in the Colombian congress next week.
