IMPROVEMENT IN FLOOD SITUATION

Cool Wave Reduces Volume of Waters From Melting Snows And Danger is Passed.

OAKS RESORT MUCH DAMAGED

Improvements Washed Away—Residences Damaged in Submerged Districts.

Ogden, March 22.—The flood situation in Ogden reached its highest and most serious stage yesterday afternoon, and as the evening shadows began to fall the waters of the Ogden and Weber rivers began to recede, so that by midnight last night the streams had gone down several inches, the coolness of the night having brought relief and stopped the great melting of the snow in the mountains. Down the coast the small canyons torrents of water dashed, carrying with it great quantities of dirt and rocks. Deputy Sheriff Seymour Clark was sent up Ogden canyon to look over the situation. He stated that while slight damage had been done to the canyon roads, it was not serious. For a considerable distance between the Hermitage and Oaks resorts the river overflowed its banks and flooded the wagon road to a depth of about two feet, making it almost impassable for

The greatest danger through the flood was to the homes of the Hambergers at Oaks resort, the canyon. He had spent several thousand dollars in improving the grounds, but the greater part of the improvements were washed away yesterday.

One Becker stated last evening that the water which entirely surrounded his brewery has not done any great damage to the place more than to make it very hard for the teams to get to and from the buildings. The retaining walls being strongly constructed, have protected the building.

The Sanitarium company's pipe line and foot bridge which was built since the flood in February, were again carried away yesterday. Hence the resort is without bathing water once more. The portion of its property laid out for a park is also being gradually washed away.

Many of the residents of Glasgow and Riverside additions whose houses were surrounded with water, sustained considerable loss not alone to the foundations and structures, but the water raised so high that it stood on the roofs of some of the houses, thus greatly damaging the carpets and furniture. The police received many calls all day yesterday from the western section of the city for help in getting people out of their homes, and did good work in rescuing them from their dangerous condition. It was necessary for the rescuers to wear hip boots to get into the houses. The water spread out over an area around the additions of almost a half mile in width.

THROWN FROM BICYCLE.

Archibald Mulligan, a messenger boy in the service of the Postal Telegraph company, met with painful injuries yesterday by being knocked from his bicycle on the pavement on Washington avenue near the Post office. He was riding along the avenue, when a dog ran out after him. He turned the wheel to escape the dog and ran into a delivery wagon which hurled him from his wheel to the pavement with considerable force, cutting his head open. He was picked up and carried into the office and later removed to his home on Quincy avenue, where he was given medical attention.

OGDEN & N.-WESTERN ENJOINED.

The Ogden & Northwestern Railway company is going to have to fight some legal battles before it will be able to complete its line into Ogden City. A suit has been commenced in the district court by Christine B. Hunter et al., through their attorney, N. J. Harris, against the railroad company, asking for a decree of court to prevent the company from cutting upon certain lands owned by the plaintiffs, also from changing the county road, as it is intended near Riverside. Judge Howell granted a temporary restraining order, which was served on the company at Salt Lake City by the sheriff.

The Dog's Inheritance.

By the environment of his forebears the generation back, you may know the dog. An Eskimo or Sledge dog, or a Chinese Chow Chow could never create the dog of today. The dog of today, with an English sheep dog, or a collie, or a bulldog, or a terrier is capable of inheriting. Years before any of us were thought of, the Sledge dog, a breed of husky, inherited because human life depended on his "motor" power bequeathed the necessary wherewithal to keep his "motor" in good order and trained to do as a companion, but as a pariah and as a brute without feeling, without thought, without hope. How expect a descendant of these half-trained, cruel, and unfeeling animals not to shrink from the afflicted hand and treat with suspicion all friendly overtures? All man has done for him and his forebears has been to play the Uman stake, holding this position until his death. Her exemplary life has been an inspiration to all.
