NEW YORK, May 2.—Passengers on the Columbian from Colon report that the Republic is in a ferment over President Zelaya's arbitrary rule. One passenger said: "The plans for Zelaya's downfall are well under way and within the week city is Barrooded and will be an agreeable stronghold to occupy."

Zelaya's policy in the expulsion of Spanish consuls, Minor Davis informed him, no matter what it might cost the government. Minor Davis signed the protocol that severed diplomatic relations between Spain and Nicaragua. Zelaya's policy is to make himself absolute ruler of the country. When Minor Davis left Corinto the British warship Icarus was in the harbor, and the Spanish consul at Corinto, Zelaya's greatest opponent, was then under the protection of the British flag. The Icarus was ordered to Corinto to protect the consul. It is alleged, that on the arrival of the war ship
