

We present to the people the Deseret Alphabet, but have not adopted any rules to bind the taste, judgment or preference of any. Such as it is you have it, and we are sanguine that the more it is practised, and the more intimately the people become acquainted with it, the more useful and beneficial it will appear.

The characters are designed to represent the sounds for which they stand, and are so used. Where one stands alone, the name of the character or letter is the word, it being the only sound heard. We make no classification into vowels, consonants, &c., considering that to be of little or no consequence; the student is therefore at liberty to deem all the characters vowels, or consonants, or starters, or stoppers, or whatever else he pleases.

In the orthography of the published examples, Webster's pronunciation will be generally followed, though it will be varied from when general usage demands. All words having the same pronunciation will be spelled alike, and the reader will have to depend upon the context for the meaning of such words.

Since the arrival of the matrices, &c., for casting the Deseret Alphabet, it has been determined to adopt another character to represent the sound of ew, but until we are prepared to cast that character, the characters u and y will be used to represent the sound of ew in new. The characters u and y are sounded as ai in hair, for which one character will also be used, so soon as it can be procured.

A Thousand Dollar Husband.

A Curious case came before the Supreme Court, which sheds additional light upon the matrimonial brokerage business in this city. A suit is brought by Robert G. Nellis against George Crouse and his wife for $1000 commission in getting a husband for the woman, which is the defendant George. Four years ago, Mrs. Crouse was a gay widow in search of a partner. She was in excellent health, of good bodily vigor, ample fortune, and of an amorous and affectionate disposition. She wanted a husband, and told Nellis that if he would introduce the proper person for such a situation she would pay him a thousand dollars. Nellis accepted the commission, and brought up John Cummings of Canabaria, in this State. Cummings was on probation for a while, but did not suit. Nellis started for the country again, and succeeded in capturing a military man known as Major Freeman, all the way from Saratoga county. Freeman had a long siege of courtship but the twin failed to unite, and Freeman is a free man still. The third effort is traditionally the grand trial; if that fails, abandon hope. Nellis made a third essay, and this time introduced the defendant Crouse, a kinsman of his own by the way, to undertake the difficult task of suiting a widow. Fortune and the widow smiled upon Crouse, and a year ago the bargain was completed by marriage. Nellis asserts that by his introduction of Crouse the widow got the much desired husband, and that she or they rightfully owe him $1000 commission, as promised but not paid. The complaint is certainly a strange one; but the defense is still more singular. The promise does not appear to be denied; the service is apparent, for there is the husband brought in as proof; but the ex-widow's counsel argues that the claim is against public policy, and that no such system of brokerage is recognised in common law, as it is against good morals. The case created considerable excitement, and strenuous efforts were made to keep it out of the newspapers; so we suppose we ought not to say anything about it. Judge Davies, before whom the case was brought, has taken the papers, and will give a decision hereafter.—[N. Y. Tribune.]
