IDAHO. Shortage of Irrigating Water Apprehended—Light Snowfall. The Idaho section of the weather bureau of the United States department of Agriculture, S. M. Blandford, director, reports that snowfall measurements made at 42 points in Idaho show that up to February 28th the depth, compared with former years, is considerably less. During February the snowfall increased in depth in the Bear River and Cariboo ranges, and remained about stationary in the southeastern part of the State. In Fremont, Custer, Blaine, and Elmore counties the snow not only decreased in the open country, but the fall on the mountains was exceptionally light.

The snow on the mountains of the Boise mountains, and a light fall in the Seven Devils, Clearwater, Bitter Root and Coeur d'Alene ranges.

Correspondents apprehend that the water supply will be insufficient for the ordinary demands unless systematic economy is exercised, and comparing the conditions which existed during 1899 as to the depth of snow in the mountains, they have good ground for fear, since the snowfall in this section of the State approaches the average, and in many districts the total fall during the winter has been from one-fourth to half of the average. In the extreme southeastern corner, which embraces Bear Lake, Bannock, and parts of Oneida and Bingham, a fair water supply should be expected.

FOR HUNGRY PEOPLE Soda Water Prescribed as a "Filler" for Abnormal Appetites. Carbonic acid gas, says a medical authority, has a singular property of lessening the sense of hunger, and may profitably be remembered in dealing with cases of diabetes in which bulimia is a prominent symptom. The seat of hunger is found in the solar plexus. By the use of water charged with carbonic acid gas the branches of the solar plexus distributed through the mucous membrane of the stomach are influenced in such a way that the abnormal irritation of the plexus which is the foundation for the ravenous hunger often present in diabetes and certain forms of indigestion may be greatly mitigated, if not wholly appeased. Water charged with carbonic acid gas may likewise be employed with advantage in many cases of hyperperistalsis in which there is a sensation present in the stomach described by the patient as a gnawing "gorgeness," emptiness, etc.

CROSS EYED Women Are More Dreaded by English Soldiers Than Black Cats. All soldiers share the common superstition against meeting a cross-eyed woman. A reservist who recently journeyed to Aldershot to rejoin his regiment under orders for South Africa, wrote to a friend on the eve of his departure for the front: "I shan't come back this trip, old fellow; there was a HARROWING OATS. The Nebraska experiment station has found a very considerable advantage to accrue from the practice of harrowing the oat field after the plants are up. The benefit is due to the loosening of the surface of the soil resulting in the formation of a soil mulch. This mulch serves to retard the evaporation of moisture during the period during which it is not entirely shaded by the plants.

That the increased yield occasioned by such treatment is considerable is shown by the result of experiments in 1898 and 1899, when from four to seven and a half bushels were added to the crop in this way.

The results were as follows:

Yield per acre in bushels.
Oats not harrowed 1898 1899
Oats harrowed 22.7 32.2
Gain from harrowing 3.8 13.0

CHAUNCEY DEPEW'S STATION. Here is a story on Senator Dewep told by his anecdotal alter ego, Joseph H. Choate. At a recent diplomatic dinner in London Mr. Choate sat next to a distinguished English nobleman, who, during the course of conversation, had occasion to inquire: "And to what station in your country, Mr. Choate, does your Mr. Chauncey M. Dewep belong?" To the grand diplomat station, my lord, replied the diplomat, without a quiver.

The Englishman's face clouded for a moment with uncertainty.

"I'm afraid you don't know what I mean," added Mr. Choate, about to go to his rescue. But his neighbor quickly smiled a glad smile of intelligence.

"Ah! I see, I see, Mr. Choate," he exclaimed. "Mr. Dewep belongs to your grand, great middle class—"Collier's Weekly.
