

INDEPENDENCE AS IT IS TODAY

Editor B. F. Cummings of the Liahona Tells of Attractions of Historic Town.

NO ANIMOSITY MANIFESTED

Members of the Re-Organized Church There Disapprove of Dissension and Contention With L. D. S.

B. F. Cummings, editor of the Liahona, the elders' journal, which is the official organ of the missionary work of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in the United States, published in Independence, Mo., is spending a few days in Salt Lake. Of his adopted city he says:

"It is a beautiful town, quiet, well governed, neat and attractive. It is situated 10 miles due east of Kansas City, and has a population of about 12,000 people, 2,000 of whom are colored. A generation prior to about four years ago, very little public improvements in the way of paving, sewerage, etc., were made, but beginning about four years ago the town has taken on great activity in these respects. A great deal of paving has been laid within the last four years, sewers have been extended, and many public improvements have been made. The town has an excellent public school system. The surrounding country is rolling, and grassy slopes and gentle declivities appear on every hand. When our people first went there, it was largely covered with forest, but only here and there are seen remnants of the primeval woods."

Such were the main points of Mr. Cummings' description of this historic town.

CORDIAL FRIENDSHIP.

"Of the prevailing sentiment of the people of the town with respect to the Latter-day Saints, Mr. Cummings affirms that it is one of cordial friendship. 'I have been a resident of Independence for more than a year and a half,' he said, 'and have yet to hear the first unkind or disrespectful word in reference to our people, spoken by any inhabitant of the place. In fact, the business men and residents generally manifest a marked and cordial friendship toward all of the members of the Utah colony.'

"Of local salients, there are about 50; by adding to these the missionaries with their families, who are employed in the mission office and the publication office of our magazine, we have about 75 members. We have a good Sunday school, a Relief society of about 25 members, and a Mutual Improvement association of about 40 members. Besides those in Independence there are from one to two score members of the Church in Kansas City."

DIFFERENCE IN UTAH.

"That is not the spirit manifested by their missionaries and members here in Utah," was suggested. "How do you account for the difference?" "The Reorganized church is not a homogeneous body as our Church is. There is a great variety of religious faith and views among its members, and I am convinced that the missionaries which this church sends out and whom the elders and members of our church meet, are not fairly representative of the mass of the members of the Reorganized church. I have conversed with dozens of them in Independence, and the prevailing sentiment among them disapproves of animosity between the two churches. Many of the members of the Reorganized church have expressed to me the firm belief that the two churches must and will come together sooner or later, and they disapprove of an animosity between the members of the two bodies."

"The chief feature of interest in Independence to Latter-day Saints is the Temple lot, a small park containing

STOMACH GASES AND TORD LIVERS

Give Way Before the Peculiar Purifying Power of Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges.

A Trial Package Sent Free.

The four gases of the stomach and the torpid action of the liver are easy victims for charcoal to overcome. This great natural cleanser and absorbent will most effectively purify a room filled with foul odors and decay. Its absorbing ratio is one hundred times greater than its own volume.

The ancients gave charcoal to the many human ills successfully. The North Americans Indians used it for snake bite, poison from eating wild berries and cured what they called "stomach bad medicine" with it.

Willow charcoal seems to be the best product for human use, and no doubt the peculiar curative property of the willow is represented in a chemical quality in its charcoal.

Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are pure willow and sweet honey blended by tremendous power and compression into a very palatable lozenge. Two or three lozenges eaten after meals will prevent the process of digestion from producing noxious gases. They vivify a lazy liver and aid every organ which is most likely to be overcome through its contact with impurities. They cleanse the stomach and intestines, bring purity and freshness out of fermentation and decay and aid digestion by allaying gas. They will aid you and your stomach. The beneficial efforts are most evident after each meal when you use charcoal as Stuart prepares it. To allay gas at night they are excellent and that terrible nauseating bad breath which destroys appetite and renders one miserable.

All druggists sell Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges, price five cents, or send us your name and address and we will send you a trial package free by mail. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 200 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

HONOR MEMORY OF DEAD

Salt Lake Public Library Directors Pay Tribute to John Q. Packard.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Salt Lake public library, the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, A message has come to us that he who was John Quackenbush Packard, in the fullness of years, has sunk into his final sleep; Whereas, He was in life a masterful captain of industry, one to storm the crags and from the stubborn hills to wrest their treasures;

Whereas, While toiling for great wealth and acquiring it, he kept his heart open to every duty of citizenship, growing gentler and more considerate of others as his wealth increased; and

Whereas, As a culminating act of generosity, and for the lifting up of the minds and hearts of the people, he built and presented to this city this beautiful library;

Now, therefore, the board of trustees of the library, holding in profound gratitude and tender remembrance his public spirit, his noiseless but lofty beneficence, do hereby

Resolved, That in the death of John Q. Packard the country has lost a sterling citizen, this state and city a sincere friend and great benefactor; Resolved, That in respect for his memory, this library be closed for three days; that the tablet in the entrance hall on which is embossed the record of the regal gift of the library, be draped in crepe for thirty days;

Resolved, That a copy of these proceedings be sent to Mr. Edward W. Packard, who superintended the building of this structure for his uncle. And to the high soul of the strong man that has died, "Hail and Farewell."

Done this 4th day of October, A. D. 1908.

Woman Interrupts Political Speaker.

A well dressed woman interrupted a political speaker recently by continually coughing. If she had taken Foley's Honey and Tar it would have cured her cough quickly and expelled the cold from her system. The gentleman who was speaking said: "The never substitutes, F. J. Hill Drug Co. (The never substitutes), Salt Lake City."

MOTHER RISKS HER LIFE

Mrs. M. J. Dixon Saved by Fender When Trying to Rescue Her Child from Death.

Mrs. M. J. Dixon and her son Clemens, of 644 Eighth East street, narrowly escaped a tragic death yesterday afternoon, in front of a street car in Main street, between First and Second South streets.

Mrs. Dixon was crossing the street with her two children, when Clemens, aged 4, broke away and ran directly in front of a car. The mother immediately dropped the other child and dashed after the endangered little one. Of course the car could not be stopped, although the motorman shut off the current and applied full pressure on the brakes. The fender device, however, worked to perfection for as the fender shield struck Mrs. Dixon and the child she was on the point of rescuing, the safety section of the fender dropped and caught both the car and the mother and child.

The car could be stopped and the woman and child pulled out from under the car. The child was unhurt, but Mrs. Dixon sustained several bruises. Dr. H. S. Pinkerton happened along at the time in his auto, and carried Mrs. Dixon and two children to his office where they were attended to, and later sent home.

WASTE REDUCED TO FINE POINT

In one of the large concerns manufacturing fountain pens, the sweepings from the floors and work-benches are carefully collected each day and laid aside. Even the overalls of the workmen are collected once a month and with the sweepings, are placed in a large cauldron and heated until all the worthless stuff is consumed, leaving only the gold, silver, and iridium used in making the pens.

The dust from the clothes yield about $250 a month, and the sweepings yield some $400, with a cost of only $70 for collecting and clothing.

To cap the climax, the water in which the employees wash their hands is saved, and pays a profit in the neighborhood of $125 per month, making a total saving of about $1,100.

The moral of this is plain—it pays to save.
