FRAGMENTS.

THE grand jury is still engaged in examining witnesses in United States cases.

THE Third District Court to-day was busy with the law and motion calendar.

LAST night of Frank Mayo at the Theatre. "Davy Crockett" will be presented.

THE Nationals and Silver Grays will try conclusions on Washington Square to-morrow.

OSCAR W. HARDY, of the Burton-Gardner Company, has gone to Portland, Oregon.

THE Tabernacle Choir is making preparations for the trip to Provo on Tuesday next.

HELD'S Cornet Band serenaded the NEWS this morning, giving the all-prevalent Boulanger March.

THE deputy marshals are making vigorous hunts for witnesses in alleged unlawful cohabitation cases.

A SMALL shawl, white embroidered, has been lost. The finder is requested to kindly leave it at this office.

THE petit jury venire is made returnable on Monday at 10 a. m., in the Third District Court, when the trial of criminal cases will be commenced.

IN the suit of J. Baumgarten vs. C. F. Jones and F. Rehrman, before Commissioner Norrell this afternoon, judgment was given for the plaintiff, the defendants being in default.

THE centre of the block in the rear of the old City Market building needs a prolonged view from the nuisance inspector. There are also several places in the vicinity of Pioneer Square that require similar attention.

MR. LOYND, of Davis County, who is under bail for unlawful cohabitation, gave new bonds for himself and his alleged plural wife this afternoon. The reason for this action was that one of his former bondsmen contemplates leaving this vicinity, and desired to be released.

THE funeral service over the remains of the late H. S. Beatie was largely attened yesterday afternoon, at the family residence. The speakers on the occasion were Elder John T. Caine and Bishop Orson F. Whitney. The prayer at the grave was offered by Bishop H. B. Clawson.

OUR sporting men who have taken a lively interest in the outcome of the yacht race between the Thistle and Volunteer for the America's cup, have been offering considerable odds on the Scotch craft. A dispatch in to-day's NEWS might, however, cause them to think twice before venturing again, as the Thistle in a trial sail to-day was distanced by both the Volunteer and Mayflower.

A Gorilla at Large.

Last night a number of men were seen in the lower part of town running around with torches, peering over fences and around houses, as if in search of something. On inquiry it was learned that a gorilla had got loose from the circus which is now exhibiting on Union Square. At a late hour the animal had not been found.—Ogden Herald, Sept. 16.

Arrested.

Last evening a gentleman named Summer, of Logan, who came in with the emigrants yesterday afternoon, was arrested by Deputy Exum on a charge of unlawful cohabitation. After some difficulty he obtained bondsmen and was to appear this morning.

Summer has been absent about two years in Switzerland.—Ogden Herald, Sept. 16.

Commissioned.

The Governor has issued the following commissions:

Davis County; Edward A. Cottrell, constable, Farmington; Geo. A. Lincoln, justice of the peace, East Bountiful; John E. Wooley, justice of the peace, Centerville; Jos. Barton, prosecuting attorney; Lewis M. Grant, selectman; Henry L. Steed, superintendent of district schools; Ally L. Rose, coroner; Thos. J. Steed, justice of the peace, Farmington; Joseph Barton, surveyor.

Flowers and Decorations.

We received to-day two beautiful bouquets of fresh flowers from O. F. Due, florist and seedsman, whose place of business is at 244 w. Third South Street. His greenhouses, containing about 4,000 square feet of glass and about 8,000 plants in pots, are located on the grounds there, nearly two acres in extent. Mr. Due makes a specialty at this season of the year of cut and preserved flowers, and floral decorations for all purposes.

"The Royal Guard."

Another good house greeted the Mayo Company at the Theatre last evening, and joy was unconfined till the last act. Mayo's version of this piece is not greatly dissimilar to all the others; the changes occur principally in the business of the piece, and are in every instance a great improvement upon that of any other actor. As the good-natured, high-spirited, lady-loving "D'Artagnan," Mayo was decidedly in his element, and the support was as before, excellent. The applause was unstinted and the laughter almost continuous.

The company appear this evening, for the last time, in the well-worn, but still welcome "Davy Crockett." There is perhaps more of a desire to see this than anything in Mayo's repertoire.

A Complaint.

The following statement of alleged facts has been handed in for publication, by a resident of the Eleventh Ward:

"The people of the Eleventh Ward owned all of the Red Butte stream for years undisputed until Gen. Connor and his volunteers pitched their tents on that stream and turned it out of its regular channel into their camp. The Eleventh Ward people had to dig a ditch all around the west side of the camp, about a mile long to catch the waste water from it, and turn it into the regular channel again. They also had to build a dam at a cost of over $500. The War Department did not aid in this work to the extent of a single dollar. Then the troops commenced to plant large gardens and early in the summer have been known to bring early vegetables to town and sell them for a good price. When the Eleventh Ward people would go to camp to see about their water, they have been put in the guard house."

Here follows a statement to the effect that the people of the Twenty-first Ward appropriated water belonging to those of the Eleventh Ward, a matter referred to elsewhere in this issue. The communication then closes as follows:

"It leaves the Eleventh Ward people nearly as bad off for water as these wailing Dry Benchers. It may be right, but we can't see it. A great many people in the Eleventh Ward that were able to cultivate their lots are now only able to cultivate a small patch, and some lots are not cultivated at all on account of the scarcity of water, when we had plenty years ago."

ARRIVED LAST NIGHT.

The Immigrants Reach Utah—An Unfavorable Voyage.

Elder John C. Carlisle, of Mill Creek, in this county, who arrived with the immigrants last evening, called at this office to-day. As before announced, the company, which consisted mainly of Scandinavian Saints, left Liverpool August 27th. The voyage to New York occupied eleven days, and was characterized by head winds nearly the whole time. One severe storm was encountered on the ocean. After leaving New York a little girl named Esther Anderson died on the train. The remains were brought to Ogden.

That portion of the company which came over the D. & R. G. arrived in this city at about the same hour that those who traveled over the U. P. reached Ogden. The detachments were not far from equal in numbers.

Elder Carlisle left Utah October 27th, 1885, and labored during the whole period of his mission in the Liverpool conference, with the exception of two months spent in visiting in other parts of England. He repopts the conference to be in a favorable condition, better than two years ago. Baptisms have been more frequent in it during the past year than for some years previous.

Ogden Items.

Yesterday afternoon a Herald reporter was passing by the premises of the Co-operative Wagon & Machine Company, where he saw three or four of the police officers carefully examining some footprints in the yard. On inquiry it was learned that a watch had been stolen. The watch was the property of Mr. Gilbert Wright, an employe of the firm. Sitting by, was a man who had been arrested on suspicion of having stolen the time-piece. There were tracks in the yard made by some person wearing nailed shoes. The man's shoes fitted the tracks exactly, and he was taken in charge. The officers had traced the steps from the yard down Fifth Street to the man's wagon, where they had found him. He gave the name of Geo. Edmonds, and said his home was in Hooper. He stoutly protested that he han not been in the yard, but his shoes fitted the the tracks exactly, and there could be no doubt on the matter. On arriving at the City Hall he gave bonds in the sum of $50 for his appearance when wanted. In the meantime, however, the watch had not been found. An inquiry was made, and in the search for the watch the real culprit was found. He gave his name as John Shay. He is a stranger in Ogden and has lost one arm. The man Edmonds had been in the yard, it was evident, notwithstanding he denied that he had. The watch was stolen from Mr. Wright's vest pocket, the vest at the time being hung up in the yard.

Yesterday Judge Henderson sent an invitation to the members of the bar in this city to meet in the court room at 2 p. m. A number of the gentlemen were present at that hour. His honor stated that a very embarrassing question had arisen in connection with the matter of the court reporter of the First District Court. About a year ago Mr. A. H. Winn, who was then the incumbent, asked to be excused from duty for one year. His request was granted and Mr. J. W. Pike, after examination, was appointed court reporter pro tem. Now Mr. Pike asks that his appointment be made permanent. In the meantime Mr. Winn heard of Mr. Pike's application, and has now presented himself for duty. The court explained that the question of who shall be reporter is one of great importance to the attorneys and he would be pleased to receive their recommendations on the subject, in confidence. Both gentlemen are said to be competent to perform the duties of the office. The question will be decided in a few days.—Ogden Herald, Sept. 15.

Police Items.

"John Cole, drunk and profane!" was the first announcement of business in the Police Court to-day. The individual referred to, who presented the appearance of a typical cowboy, swung into position and pleaded guilty to the accusation. He was assessed $10, and not having any ready cash, will expend that amount in muscle at the gravel bank.

Mrs. Eastman was arrested on the charge of keeping a house of ill-fame, and Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Gundecker were brought in as inmates of the disreputable establishment. A countryman who gave the name of James Brown was also found in the place, and was arrested as a "resorter." Mrs. Eastman was released by the court on $100 bail, and her three companions gave bonds in the sum of $50 each. Brown could not raise any security, and will languish in jail till the trial, which comes off to-morrow afternoon, when his further disposition will be settled upon.

Chauncey Kane was brought in this afternoon for trial on the charge of drunkenness and profanity, to which he had pleaded not guilty. When officer Pratt, the first witness, commenced testifying, "I found Kane drunk and asleep—" the defendant jumped up and exclaimed, "Yes, Judge, that's so. I'd like to change my plea to guilty." This was permitted and he was fined $10.

Thin Case.

The McFarland unlawful cohabitation case was resumed before Commissioner Black yesterday morning. The witness Jenkins was in attendance and was sworn. His testimony was that he had visited the residence of Mr. McFarland some time in July or August of last year and had seen a lady who was reputed to be the third wife of Mr McFarland's come over to Mr. McFarland's well to get a bucket of water. He had also seen another lady, who was said to be the wife of the defendant, at the house of his legal wife. The ladies seemed to be working together about the house. Witness, however, had no certain knowledge that defendant has more than one wife. This was all the evidence the prosecution had to offer. The Commissioner had stated yesterday that the evidence of the former witnesses was not sufficient to hold the defendant. Now the defense moved for a discharge of the defendant, on the ground that there was no evidence that a public offense had been committed This was opposed by Mr. Hiles, who argued that there were other witnesses who had not been subpœnaed, but whose testimony might be more conclusive. It would be no hardship to the defendant to remain under bonds till the grand jury meets, if the attendance of the other witnesses is not secured before. The defense urged that the defendant was entitled to a discharge, as the offense charged against him had not been proven. The commissioner, however, concluded to hold the defendant to appear before the grand jury, and so ordered.—Ogden Herald, Sept. 14.

Hoyt Sherman's Appointment.

Omaha, Sept. 13.—Mr. O. P. McCarty, who has been assistant general ticket agent of the Union Pacific, has been appointed chief clerk of the reorganized passenger and ticket department. Mr. T. W. Miner, who was chief clerk of the passenger department, has been placed in charge of the advertising.

Hoyt Sherman, Junr., who has been with the passenger service of the Union Pacific, as traveling agent, is appointed assistant general agent of the passenger department, with head quarters at Salt Lake.

Dr. A. G. Pfeiffer, chief surgeon of the Union Pacific, is in the city from headquarters at Denver.

Tickets for the Odd Fellows' excursion to Denver went on sale to-day. The fare from Omaha is $18 15, or one fare for the round trip. A special Pullman Car will leave here next Monday morning with the Omaha delegation. They are to be joined at Valley by the Lincoln delegation and take on others at the several stations along the route.—Denver News.

THE DAILY HORROR.

Details of the Disaster on the Colorado Midland.

The Denver News of the 14th contains the details of the appalling calamity on the Utah Midland the day before. It seems that at 7 o'clock that morning, as the construction train on the western division was moving over a fresh-laid fraction of the track between the west portal of Hagerman tunnel and Hell Gate, the engine and two flats, loaded with rails and nearly 300 laborers, were ditched, four men losing their lives and between 50 and 60 sustaining more or less injury. It was nearly three hours after that a messenger arrived from the wreck and notified the superintendent of construction, Mr. Nelson, and George W. Cook, the general agent of the Midland, of the that had visited them. The messenger himself, who was almost delirious with excitement, was undecided as to the real extent of the affair, how many lives had perished or how many had been injured.

The officers of the road, to whom the western division has not yet been turned over, notified the chief surgeon, B. S. Galloway, of the awful task that had been unexpectedly committed to him, and, procuring assistance, the rescuing party started for the locality. It was nearly noon when the train paused before the wreck and found the mangled forms of the unfortunate men strung out before them upon the margin of the track that had been laid but a few hours before.

Without pausing to survey the heart-rending scene began their labors, while as rapidly as the men were stimulated they were placed in the coaches that had been provided for them. The track for 100 feet or more was literally strewn with the bleeding forms of the laborers and several hours were spent in getting them in condition for removal to the city. For the dead baggage cars had been prepared, the bodies of three of them being placed side by side.

Beneath the engine was found the lifeless form of Harry Barker, foreman of the tracklayers. The body had been literally sheathed in the mire at at which the wreck occurred, while the steam that was escaping from the boiler of the locomotive was cooking it. Long before the arrival of the surgeons life had quit its

MUTILATED TENEMENT.

The fireman and engineer, who had escaped without serious injury, were tugging away with an effort to get it out.

A few feet in the rear and doubled beneath the iron rails was the dead body of James McMahon, which had been crushed into a pulp. Beyond this was that of another, a tracklayer, who was registered on the pay-roll as George Roe, and of whose history nothing is known.

Pinned to the earth and begging piteously for relief were scores of laborers, some of them with broken ribs, broken arms and legs. The spectacle was indeed hideous and after over three hours of unremitting labor the coaches were filled.

It was nearly 5 o'clock when the engine was sighted on the coiling path through the mountains, when the thousands of people who had swarmed to the locality of the depot during the day started with one impulse to meet the approaching train and the passengers. On the suburbs of the city the engine passed, while, to render the spectacle more affecting, a hearse was drawn at the door of the cabin that death had just entered.

The crowd tried to force its way into the coaches that were groaning with the agony of the passengers, but were kept at bay by the trainmen, who had been instructed to admit no one.

WANT TO BORROW.

The Ogden City Council Struggling With a Financial Question.

The following extract from this morning's Ogden Herald conveys the idea that the municipal fathers of the Junction City are struggling with a proposition with regard to the advisability of borrowing money:

A special meeting of the City Council to consider the question of bonding the city for money for public improvements and the propriety of construcing a Boulevard was held last evening at 7 o'clock. All the members of the Council were present. After the roll-call Mayor Eccles explained the object of the meeting.

The first gentleman to speak was Councilor Boyle. He was in favor of bonding the city for $25,000. If it is concluded to do this, the matter of what the money will be expended for can be laid before the people at a future time—whether it shall be for an improvement of the water system (something which is much needed) or anything else. There are many improvements necessary and the people should be asked what they think is most necessary.

In regard to the Boulevard, the gentleman thought it should be built. He had conversed with a number of leading business men on the latter subject and they have expressed themselves as anxious to have the work accomplished. There may be other improvements, very necessary, but it appears to be the wish of many of the taxpayers to have the Boulevard built. The money could be obtained here in town on a note of the city, at 7 per cent interest.

Alderman West was in favor of borrowing all the money the City can legally. But there seems to be a difference of opinion as to how it shall be expended. He thought the question to be submitted to the people is, shall we borrow, probably $60,000, and how shall that money be expended?—for an improved water system, for a new city hall, or for a Boulevard? Certainly $25,000 must be applied to the improvement of the water works.

The gentleman moved that the Council submit to the people the question of borrowing as much money as the City is entitled to borrow under the charter and the legislative enactments. The gentleman called attention to his suggestion at the last meeting that probably the borrowing powers of the City could be extended at the next session of the Legislature and then the whole amount could be secured at once.

Mr. West's motion was seconded by Mr. Boyle.

The Mayor said there would be $10,000 in the treasury this fall; in addition to this another $10,000 could be borrowed. This, it appeared to the gentleman, would be all the money the Council could reasonably use till next spring. Then it would be known whether the Legislature would extend the borrowing powers of the city and decisive action could be taken.

Mr. Boyle: "We can find plenty of ways to spend the means, Mr. Mayor."

Before Judge Zane.

Proceedings in the Third District Court to-day:

Geo. M. Scott et al. vs. Silas Reed; motion to retax costs on ground of excessive mileage charged for witnesses; the court allows the mileage as taxed by railroad—106 miles from Park City, instead of 30 miles by stage route.

Frederick Heath vs. Salt Lake County; motion for judgment upon report of referee, and motion of defendant to set aside report of referee, considered. The court sustains the objection to the report, and refuses to enter judgment. New trial allowed; plaintiff allowed twenty days to amend complaint.

Thomas LePage vs. John D. Graham et al.; demurrer to complaint overruled.

Chas. F. Blandin vs. Salt Lake County et al.; demurrer to complaint overruled.

Wm. Ayerton vs. Thos. A. Tennant; motion of defendant for new trial argued and submitted.

Sarah Ann Bassett vs. Wm. E. Bassett; motion of plaintiff for allowance of temporary alimony and costs, etc.; heard on record and affidavits, and argued and submitted.

W. H. Kellogg et al. vs. David Williams et al.; demurrer to amended complaint argued and submitted.

INCINERATED.

A Two-and-a-Half Year Old Child Reduced to Ashes.

Los Angeles, September 13.—Much interest has been felt throughout the State in the progress of the Los Angeles Cremation Society in its work, and the details of the cremations which have already taken place in its crematory at Rosedale cemetery. The first formal cremation that ever took place west of the Missouri river was that of a wealthy physician of Salt Lake City, who had a crematory erected for the incineration of his own body. After his death and cremation the furnace was torn down. The second cremation took place at the crematory of the Los Angeles Society, June 16th last. The body was that of a lady widely known in Southern California and universally respected for her Christian work. The remains of her five little children, who had died some years before, were incinerated with her. The cremation was a perfect success. The third cremation in Los Angeles took place August 18th last. The subject was Dr. J. Frank Newman, of Garvanza, who had died on the 16th, of consumption. The process again was a perfect success and again won the admiration and approbation of the few spectators by its perfect cleanliness and lack of disagreeable features.

The fourth cremation west of the Missouri and the third in Los Angeles took place in Rosedale Crematory this afternoon. A San Diego family of standing lost their two-and-a-half-year-old daughter last Sunday. Being firm believers in cremation they at once telegraphed to the directors of the Los Angeles Crematory, and to-day arrived here in person with the remains. The furnace had been heating since the day before, and at 5:30 o'clock in the evening was deemed ready for the incineration. The father of the child was present, the mother having deemed it best not to come. The names are withheld out of consideration for the prejudices of relatives. The body was brought from San Diego in a coffin, which was taken to the crematory. When all was ready the coffin was opened and the father lifted out the little body. It was a beautiful child, with long, brown curls, and looked as lovely as in life. It was then wrapped in a winding-cloth. The cloth had been impregnated with alum to retard its own combustion. Thus shrouded, with flowers laid on its cerements, the little form was desposited upon the iron cradle. The iron door to the chamber was swung wide and the precious burden was pushed in. The door was closed and the white intensity of purifying heat was left to work its way upon the inanimate form. At 8 o'clock the little white figure in the rosy chamber had faded from its first distinguishable shape and was merely a little formless mound of light, soft ashes. The ashes will be removed to-morrow and then taken to San Diego. —S. F. Chronicle.
