

Fourth. Pleasant Grove will no doubt do her best.

Newell Bullock, a graduate from the Leland Stanford University of California, has returned to visit his parents. Professor Bullock has engaged to teach school in California, having failed to procure a situation in his native State. It is to be regretted that our native teachers should be compelled to seek employment away from home.

Howard R. Driggs and wife will leave here Sunday for Chicago. They will be joined at Provo by Professor Milton Bennion and wife. These people will attend the summer school at Chicago and return in time to take up their duties at the State Normal at Cedar City next September.

Frank M. Driggs is enroute home from Washington, D. C., after completing a successful course in the deaf mute profession. Mr. Driggs was offered greater inducements to teach in the school for the deaf in the state school of Missouri, but could not accept, as he was under contract at the Ogden school for the deaf.

Quite a number of teachers, for which this town is celebrated, are obliged to seek employment elsewhere.

Thursday, Pleasant Grove and the south of it was visited with quite a disastrous flood. Much mud and debris flooded the land and crops, ditches were destroyed and considerable labor will be required to put in the necessary repairs.

A new postoffice is in running order at what was designated Pleasant Grove Second ward, now called Linden.

FROM MONDAY'S DAILY, JUNE 27.

Mrs. Lizzie Sharp, wife of the late W. H. H. Sharp, dentist, died at 48 Vine street this morning at 1:30, from the effects of morphine poisoning. The deceased had been what was known as a "morphine fiend" for years and had received treatment for the same, but could not be permanently cured. It is believed that she purposely took an overdose of the drug with the intention of committing suicide. It is well known that she was very despondent and that she had threatened to take her own life.

As I wish to contribute my mite towards assisting those needing assistance, whose present necessities were brought about by the mad freaks of one of the best of servants, but the worst of masters, The Cruel Fire Fiend, whose recent unwelcome visit to Park City was the cause of depriving many individuals of their homes and their all, and, as I have no other way at present of showing a desire to prove my sympathy in a substantial manner, I beg to say that I should take pleasure in heading a list of names that I am sure would be willing to volunteer and assist in a grand performance at the Salt Lake Theater in the near future, the entire Church matters, says he, were at a proceeds to be turned over to the relief committee at Park City for the benefit of the sufferers.

Respectfully,

PHIL MARGETTS,
Pioneer Actor of Utah.

Anaconda Standard: A. W. McCune of Salt Lake formerly of Anaconda, had a narrow escape tonight from serious injury. He was riding with C. H. McLeod, and was coming across the bridge from South Missoula when one of the horses stumbled and broke the neckyoke strap. This let the weight of the buggy forward upon the horses, and they started at a fearful rate of speed across the bridge. Mr. McCune jumped from the buggy when between the main trusses of the bridge, and struck the planking with fearful force. He rolled out and over, and those who witnessed the occurrence thought he was killed. He was unable to sit up, however, and a hack was sent for him at once.

Mr. McLeod held to the lines and gave a splendid exhibition of horsemanship. He turned the frightened horses around the front street corner and had them under control so that bystanders could reach their heads. It is a wonder that the flying pole did not catch on something and wreck the rig. Mr. McLeod was not hurt and at once sent a hack for Mr. McCune, who was brought to the Florence hotel, where he was attended by Dr. Mills. It was thought at first that his left leg was broken, but he is not seriously injured aside from the nervous shock and two or three sprains. Mr. McCune was on his way to Spokane to go to Rossland, and had come down from Garrison to wait here for the delayed overland train. He will be able to resume his journey in the morning.

FROM TUESDAY'S DAILY, JUNE 28.

L. W. Worthy, Buchanan, Ga., desires to know the whereabouts of his sister-in-law, who left Georgia in 1885. Her name was Mrs. Susana Edwards, and she afterwards married a man named Isaac Furnace, and lived near Plain City.

Joseph Campbell, a laborer and a Canadian by birth, was given a hearing as to his sanity before Deputy Clerk George E. Blair this afternoon. Drs. Wright and Richards, who made the examination, found the man suffering with partial paralysis. He was ordered sent to the county infirmary.

The Danish vice consul in this city, Mr. Peter Hansen, says the Danish government recently appropriated 160,000 kroner to be distributed among the veterans of the war with Germany 1848-50. He thinks there are several of these in Utah, and he offers his assistance in obtaining the money, if those entitled to it will call or write to him about the matter.

A lady by the name of Mrs. H. Youngblood would like to know the whereabouts of her two cousins, Robert Bringhurst and John Bringhurst, who is a twin brother of Annie Bringhurst. Their parents moved to Utah about 1844, after joining the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. They came from Louisville, Chester county, Pa. Address Mrs. H. Youngblood, Sicane, Del. Co., Pa., or N. H. Hyes, 1222 South Twenty-third street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Articles of incorporation of the Corporation of the Episcopal church in Utah were filed with the county clerk today, having for its objects the religious, missionary, charitable and educational purposes of the Protestant Episcopal church.

Abiel Leonard is named as president ex-officio, W. E. Maison, vice president, J. H. Knauss, secretary, and John A. Houghton, treasurer. Houghton, Graham F. Putnam and J. H. Knauss. It is provided that each trustee shall qualify by giving a bond in the sum of $500.

A "News" reporter this afternoon interviewed Governor Wells with reference to the reported determination of the National Guard to disband, action upon which was taken at a meeting at the armory last night, and which will be found in another column of this impression of the "News."

"It is impossible for the guardsmen to disband," said his excellency, "because they are all enlisted for three years. Of course, there is a great deal of dissatisfaction reported, and it undoubtedly exists; but a great deal of this talk is unjust to me. I have tried faithfully to induce the war department to allow us to furnish infantry; so have all our representatives in Congress. No opportunity for presenting our wishes in this respect has been allowed to go by, but the war department has steadily refused to allow us to enlist infantry. They wanted artillery and we were obliged to ask for that class of recruits. Many of the guardsmen who are now dissatisfied would not join any but infantry volunteer companies, and these not being called for, they have been left behind. If they only have a little patience, however, their turn will come, and they will have a chance to go to war. All they need to do is to exercise their patience for a while and there will be an opportunity for the infantry men who desire to do so to go to the front."

A concerted effort on the part of mining and business men of the far West to bring about a modification of schedule A of the Revenue act relating to the tax on certificates of stock, is now on. Already Nevada's Congressional delegation has been importuned to work for its amendment, and in unison with their fellows the Salt Lake Stock and Mining Exchange, has seen fit to take the matter up and today telegraphed the Utah delegation asking its assistance in the premises. The matter will also be presented to the International Mining Congress at its session here in July, and the probabilities are that that body will see fit to memorialize Congress asking for similar action. The tax proposed, it is argued, will exclude a big bulk of stocks from active business, and for this reason a modification of the act is desired.

Following is the telegram sent to Utah's delegation in Congress today: To Senators Frank J. Cannon and Joseph L. Rawlins and Representative William H. King, Washington, D. C.:

Stamp tax on face value certificates of stock on sale or transfer schedule A, Revenue act, will destroy dealing in stocks representing capital not actually paid in, collectibly by assessments. Tax will exceed in many cases market value of stocks. Will greatly injure all mining corporations and business in mining towns. Have act amended so as to require stamps on every certificate transferred or sold without regard to value or number of shares, as the rule of boards requires delivery by transfer. This will produce revenue and not interfere with business. Many stocks sell at from two mills to five cents per share, the face value of each share being from $1 to $100. A tax of two cents per share amounts to confiscation. A tax of twenty-five cents as in Civil war for each transfer of certificates without reference to number of shares or value would be reasonable. A tax on sale of corporation stocks similar to tax in schedule A on products and merchandise on value of sale instead of face value would be proper. (Signed.)
