WAS INTENSE EXCITEMENT.

Iowan Demanded That Badger Give Name of His Authority for Statements, Not Getting It.

Washington, May 25 .- In the house of representatives today the question of veracity was raised between Mr. Cooper of Wisconsin and Mr. Hepburn of Iowa over a conversation in which the latter is alleged to have participated with a member of the senate, and in which, Mr. Cooper asserted, the member of th e house and the senator referred to agreed that the so-called "express company amendment" to the rail-road rate bill should not remain in the Both Mr. Hepburn and Mr. Cooper were exceedingly angry, and they glared at one another during their colloquy. The house committee on rules de-elded to report the Hepburn rate bill resolution favorably. It provides for non-concurrence in the senate amendments, and sends the bill to confer-

The previous question having been ordered on the rule, Mr. Daizell (Pa.) ex-plained that the resolution was simply for the purpose of sending the rail-rova bill to conference.

Norris (Neb.) wanted to know if the house would have a chance to vote senarate amendments, as some the amendments adopted by the senate cught to be discussed in the house.

Mr. Dalzell replied that the rule was only intended to facilitate business, and that there would be ample opportunity to discuss the conference report. So far as he was concerned, there were some amendments that he was not in favor of and wanted a chance to consider them. Up to this time it seemed as if the rule was to be agreed upon without any great amount of debate. But a clap of thunder came from an unexpected quarter. Mr. Cooper (Wis.) wanted to know what objection there was to the bouse reacting on the amendment now. passing on the amendment now. He said

"Let us vote on the express company amendment." (Applause on both sides.) Mr. Dalzell replied that the house could easily concur in the conference report and instruct the conferees as wishes of the house.

Then Mr. Cooper, in a very impressive manner, said that he had been informed by a gentleman in whose integrity he had the fullest confidence that some gentlemen-he would not say whether they were members of the house of senate, but they were entitled to be conferees on the bill-had agreed that the express company amendment should go out of the bill. Mr. Hepburn (Ia.) jumped to his feet; exclaiming that he did not take any stock in what one member said to anon matters of this kind. other "Will you state the names of the per-sons who have thus declared themscives?" called out Mr. Hepburn. Mr. Cooper-Oh, I don't want to of-

me by answering that question. Mr. Cooper-I will say this, that they two gentlemen in whose word 1 ere have confidence.

Mr. Hepburn-I will say this, that they were two gentlemen in whose word I have confidence Hepburn (loudly)-Name them, name them. Mr. Cooper-I am not going to name men who come to me and tell me matters in confidence. The gentleman from lowa places me in an embarrass-ing position, but since he asks me l will say that he is to have remarked in conversation. "Oh, the express comamendment will go out." Hepburn, greatly wrought up and exceedingly nervous, replied: "Any man who told the gentleman that (shaking his fist at Mr. Cooper) told a falsehood and until the gentle man from Wisconsin names the indi indi vidual who made this statement to him shall hold that the gentleman is drawing upon his imagination. Mr. Williams-I call the gentleman from Iowa to order for his language. Mr. Hepburn-I withdraw the lan-guage which is offensive to the gentleman from Mississippi. Mr. Williams—It was not offensive to me. It was offensive to the house and contrary to the rules. Intense excitement prevailed during this exchange of words, members crowding the ables and filling the space in front of the speaker's desk. The speaker pounded for order, but to no purpose. When he could be heard above the uproar, Mr. Cooper said that he was not the only gentleman to whom similar statements were made. "There are other members of the house to whom they have been made and there is no purpose on my part to deliberately misrepresent that state-

Railroad "Estimated" Weight-One

Philadelphia, May 25 .- Several interesting developments marked the closing session of the interstate commerce commission 's investigation into the alleged discrimination by railroads in the distribution of cars in the bituminous coal fields. The commission adjourned today to meet of a time and place to be decided upon later. Next week the members of the commission will go to Washington to examine the evidence presented during the hearings in this city, and it is likely the examination will be resumed in that city either the latter part of next week or early the following week. Testimony of a sensational character was given today. Albert von Boyenburg, general manager of the Reakert Brothers company, coal operators, with offices in this city was on the stand. He stated that within the last two and a half years his company's car supply had been so inadequate that the busi-ness had been practically ruined. He declared that other companies had been favored in the distribution of cars, and said he had no doubt that discrimination had been practised against his company because it had failed to make gifts of stock to the railroad officials. gave it as his opinion that Presiden J. Cassatt was responsible for the discriminatio

Through railroad employes it was developed that for a number of years, and until recently, the Berwind-White company's coal was shipped to tidewater without being weighed. Instead, the railroad estimated the weight of each car by adding 7 per cent to the capacity figures stenciled on the car. It was al-so shown that the Susquehanna Coal company, which is owned by the Pennsylvanta Railroad company, has the ex-clusive use of the Greenville pier. New York harbor, and has a virtual monop-oly of the sale of bunker coal to tugs and small steamers. It was brought out that certain coal companies are given allowances for operating branch lines or spurs from their lines to the main lines, and that the railroad made this allowance to the Le-rannoad made this anoware to the de-trobe-Connellsville company when the spur was operated by the rallroad. Joseph U. Crawford, agent of the branch lines of the Pennsylvania rail-road, testified that he held stock in the Cambria Coal company and the Big Coal Development company. Other Pennsylvania railroad men interested in this latter company, he said, were Effingham B. Morris and Samuel Res. fourth vice president. Mr. Morris and Samuel Rea, fourth vice president.
