President Shaffer, when shown the report of the starting of the Lindsay and McCutcheon plant of the American Steel Hoop company, said:

"There's is nothing in it. I have report from Vice-President Gibson informig me that there are only two men at the works. One is a striker and the other a common laborer. It would do them no good and would do the company harm to take men from other mills and put them there, as they would only break the machinery and spoil the material.

Honolulu-Carried Shrieking From Courtroom.

> Honolulu, July 27, via Victoria, B. C. Aug. 7 .- Mrs. Theresa Wilcox, wife of the Hawalian delegate to Congress, arrived in Honolulu full of indignation against Captain Dowell, of the Oceanic Steamship Zealandia, on which she came from San Francisco, because the captain had stopped her from giving Hawaiian Hula dance in the salon on the last night before the vessel reached furnishing the necessary music. It appears that Captain Dowell looked in and saw the dance and gave orders that it be not repeated. The next night preparations were begun for another performance for the entertainment of the pasengers when a quartermaster interrupted with the captain's order that the Hula be dispensed with. Mrs. Wilcox was highly indignant and atonce sought the captain. She sent a message to him that she wanted to see him. Captain Dowell preferred not to be seen. He was on duty on the bridge and did not come down. Mrs. Wilcox waited at the foot of the bridge for a long time and then gave it up. She threatens to lodge a complaint against Dowell with the steamship company.

SPOILED A ROMANCE. A Chinese romance, with which the United States exclusion laws cruelly interfered, will end tomorrow with the deportation of a young girl named Kam You, on the order of United States Judge Estee. She arrived here from China three weeks ago claiming to be the bride of one Joung Han, a wealthy the Honolulu Chinese. At the trial of the case after she had been arrested for deportation it devolved that the wedding had been according to Chinese customs. The bride and groom had never seen each other and when the marriage took place she was in China and he in Honolulu. After arriving in Honolulu, Kan You managed to get an opportu-nity to marry Han again, this time in the regular way, but it was of no avail, Judge Estee decided that the Chinese marriage had not been completed and that he must decide the case according to the statutes, deciding that she was a single woman when she arrived in Honolulu. He ignored the subsequent marriage and ordered the woman deported and she was carried, shrieking, from the court room Young Han decided to give up all his Interest in Honolulu, if necessary, and

This is Supposed to Have Been the Cause-A Number Were Slightly Injured.

Pittsburg, Aug. S .- Two sections of an Atlantic City excursion train collided near Confluence, 84 miles east of Pittsburg, about 11 o'clock this morning. Ten persons were seriously injured and a number of others slightly hurt. Those seriously hurt were: Fireman Shannon, Pittsburg, probably fatally. P. J. Collins, wife and infant, Youngs. own, badly bruised, serious but not dangerous. J. H. Davis, New Castle, Pa., arm about head. Miss Helen Pemont, Pittsburg, head

Miss Dora Hartzell, New Castle, both egs fractured.

J. E. Stillwagon, Connellsville, superintendent water works, arms crushed. The trains left here shortly after 8 o'clock this morning. At Confluence the first section was stopped and the second section rounding the curve, go-ing at the rate of 35 miles, crashed into it. The engine of the second section and three cars were wrecked and traffic vas delayed several hours. The injured named were removed to the hospital and the others continued on their way to Atlantic City. The accident is sup-posed to have been caused by a mistake in signals. A Connelsville dispatch says there were three big sections of the express. As the third section neared Confluence, the engineer suddenly saw looming up before him on the same track the rear end of the second section. It was then too late to avoid the disaster and the engineer and fireman of the third sec-tion jumped. The third section crashed into the Pullman car of the rear of the second section, telescoping it. The people in the car were mingled with the debris and many were seriously hurt, the total list number about ten. Messages were immediately sent to Con-nellsville and a train of three passenger coaches was made up and hurried to

From the rolling hills of old Kentucky where the waving blue grass shimmers in a southern sun, there has come a merry party of newspaper men with their wives and their sweethearts to take possession of Salt Lake City. This morning they have been not alone the guests of the Utah Press association, whom they came to visit, but the people of Salt Lake, in and out of the craft, have been happy and proud to receive them and to do them honor. "The City of the Saints" has opened its doors and extended a hand of warmest welcome.

In performing this service, there has been a cordiality and a heartiness of such genuine nature that there can be no mistake in the minds of visiting Kentuckyians as to the regard in which their fair state is held. There has been a little element of pride, too, in showing these from the south the historic points of interest which link the Salt Lake of the old days with the present growing metropolis of the great West. Much interest was manifested by the visitors in the sights of the city, and the questions asked were far more intelligent than are the usual run of tourists's interrogations.

All morning long and through the afternoon, the scribblers from the Blue Grass state have fairly owned the city, Up and down East Temple street, in and out and around the Temple grounds, the little red badges which they wear have been the passport to hospitality. And they have done their part, too, in making the occasion of their visit to Salt Lake a pleasant one. Formality is a word practically unknown in their lexicon, and they have surrendered themselves the scene. On board were three physi-clans. The injured were brought to this city. With the exception of the to the program arranged by the press with a willingness that was refreshing. The fact that the street was crowded with marketers This afternoon in Judge Timmony's didn't deter them from their little sereourt, Joseph Bridge, a plasterer, was nade, and the people regarded them arraigned on the charge of raping

, plause with which it was greeted. The Kentucklans cheered for the sympathy towards them that the playing of the famous old melody indicated and the local applauded to see their visiting friends so greatly pleased. Prof. Mc-Clellan then played "Visions in a Dream" by Lunders which we Dream," by Lumleye, which was well received. The solo by Miss Arvilla Clark, "Till Death," raised a storm of applause, and the people clamored for an encore but Prof. Goddard announced at the outset that no encores would be allowed because of the length of the program. Miss Clark's voice was charming; it never sounded better. The organ plece that followed Miss Clark was the old but ever delightful favorite "Andantino," and stirred the feelings of the audience profoundly Little Miss Tillie Williams rushed into the hearts of the visitors with her song, "She was Bred in Old Ken-tucky." The child was showered with applause in the hope of inducing her to sing again, but she declined,

Prof. Goddard carried his audience off "Hosannah." And the program, which was plainly a feast to all those present, closed with "Dixle." The stirring old plece brought out round upon round of

BEE HIVE RECEPTION.

The visitors were so charmed with the music and the surroundings they lingered on the grounds as though loath ingered on the grounds as though loath to leave the historic place. They finally however, filed up to the Bee Hive House, where they were received in a delightful manner by Prest. Snow, Mrs. Snow, Miss Mabelle, Reah, and Mrs. Le Roi C. Many remained to have a talk with President Snow and his wife,

The man submitted quietly to arrest and did not deny that he had bur-glarized the store. At the station he gave his name as Ed. Allen, but fur-ther than that refused to talk. The officers went back to the store and continued their investigation. They found a rear window in the basement pried open and the iron bars which protected it forced apart. The thief accomplished this with a piece of fron and once inside the rest was easy Selecting a large leather carry-all which suited his fancy, he went to the show case which contained the most valuable stock and literally cleaned it out. He ignored the inferior weapons entirely. When the clerks arrived at the store this morning they were dumbfounded when informed by officers of the burglary. with smiling interest. The program arranged for their entertainment was, too, one in which there was little formality and an abundance of chances to form acquaintances. This morning at 9 o'clock a reception began at the Kenyon which af-forded ample opportunity for the mem-bers of the Utah Press association and their friends to meet the editors from the bourbon state. The parlors of the hotel were crowded for nearly two hours, a most enjoyable morning being spent, The reception over, the party adourned in straggling couples and threes and crowds to the tabernacle, to listen to the great organ, as played by Prof. McClellan. That it was a surprise to the visitors, who have listened so often to the soft southern melodies that float across the manor, when the warm summer evening comes on and the dusk gathers thick around the old plantation porch, would be putting it in far too mild terms to express the truth. Prof. McClellan was at his best, and as the tones filled the big building, now pitiful and low like the quiet sobbing of a little child, and now sonorous and thrilling with the "Vox humana." looks of surprise first came over the features of the visitors, followed by intense interest. At the conclusion of each number, there was the buzz of conversation heard among the Ken-Washington, D. C., Aug. 8 .- W. E. Beautiful girls with dancing eyes nodded their heads in time to the music and hummed the words. "Dixie" is a dashing song, and as played this morning by Prof. McClellan, it fairly brownth the crowd to its feet.

The usual crowd of local music lovers was there, glad they had come, for the recital was one of the best that has ver been given. It was interesting, so, to watch the looks of interest on he faces of the visitors and note their changing expressions, the index to their music was evidenced by the remarks made by Judge Kelly of Bardstown at the conclusion of theram. As the people arose to go, President D. P. Felt of the Utah association stepped forward and announced that Judge Kelly ould like to say a few we

Several of the ladies in the party were affected by the altitude at Pike's Peak. B. F. Lippold, who was with the party on the occasion, went one better and suffered from a genuin- case of heart failure. He was insensible for nearly five minutes, but owing to the speedy application of half a dozen 'pocket pistols" on the wart of the editors, he was eventually pulled around, but the experience was an alarming one for all concerned. This was the sole case of indisposition encountered by the pligrims on their trip out to Sait Lake.

The president of the Kentucky Press association is Robert W. Brown, man-aging editor of the Louisville Times. A Sait Lake friend of his said today: "If you don't meet him you will have cause That they were deeply touched by the He is as handsome as he is guillant and as brainy as he is agreeable.

Secretary Morningstor is one of the ornaments of the party. He is as witty as Colonel Henry Watterson. "We couldn't get on without him," said a member of the party today.

"People that are unnequalited with any one locality are prone to exagger-ate upon its features," said one memevery part of the big building. "Our friends of Utah," he began, and everybody paused to listen. "From my old Kentucky home comes a voice tot. Kentucky sized up as a state full of gun-carrying bandits, who can drivk a gallon of whisky without batting an Well, that't not true, any more than the reports that are circulated about Utah are true. We ought to sympathize with each other. Have something on it?"

> Joel Priest is in his element today. "The judge," as is well known, is as staunch a Kaintuckian as ever lived, Since he has lived in the west, he has forgotten to roll his r's in the approved forgotten to roll his rs in the approved bourbonic manner, but you ought to have heard him today. The way he mixed with the blue grassers and gave 'em a good lead of "subs" and then beat 'em out 200 miles, was a feature of the day's anisyment.
