

INSPECTED IDAHO MINES

L. G. Hardy Returns After Looking Into the Alice and Washkile.

THE LATTER HAS A PROMISING OUTLOOK

After his return to the Pit-The Nevada Star Mine-American Creek Placers

Mr. Hardy came down from the north this morning after a stay of several weeks in Idaho, where he visited a number of properties in which he is interested, among them the Alice, in Clear Creek, a mine which made a reputation last season in shipping several tons of concentrates of high-grade ore to the local market.

Mr. Hardy brought down with him a number of very fine looking samples, and in his conversation he made an impression of the Washkile located in Clear Creek, just across the Utah line. Here he found a very promising state of affairs, although the mine has not been worked for some time, and is now drifting right away from it. When placed in the track, however, they can be made to produce very good looking ore that is now being shipped away awaiting shipment at the company's mill on the river.

The mill will be started just as soon as the accumulation of ore just in and those in the property are quite confident of ultimate success.

Mr. Hardy reports considerable work going on in Idaho camps and says that generally are better than in Nevada, where systematic work is applied in development.
