

OGDEN.

The Cattlemen Meet—Scratching for the Horses—Bad Boys in Court.—Four Holdups.

Last night Lafayette Farley, the Twenty-fourth street holdup man, was held up, or rather knocked down, by an alley about 6 o'clock. Mr. Farley had gone into Wolfstetter's drug store to get a bottle of beer to carry home. He entered the front door, and to save time passed out of the back door into the alley into the rear. He had just stepped out into the darkness when a bang, a club struck him over the eye and down went the shaver of his hair. Farley had no money, and consequently his assailant was not rewarded for his desecrating attack. This morning four holdups in Ogden, within the short space of twenty-four hours, without any one being caught. With the exception of Farley, the holdup man was alone in the getting away of a very poor watch which keeps time according to the rules of a Waterbury and the suit and coat of a well-known citizen is regarded as harmful.

But little business was transacted in the Fourth district court yesterday and the record was almost devoid of interest. Charles F. J. Smith, the young man who robbed the express company at Collierville and diamonds and money orders will be arraigned to plead on Saturday morning in connection with charging him with grand larceny. The case of H. B. Brooks vs. J. T. Noonan was dismissed at plaintiff's request. In the case of Henry Stephens vs. C. E. Grapentine et al., the judgment heretofore entered was set aside and the plaintiff was allowed to file an amended complaint.

Assistant General Manager Curtis and H. Small, superintendent of motive power and machinery of the Southern Pacific, inspected the grounds yesterday where the new shops are to be located and left last evening for the west. They found the location all right and the property approved what had been done in establishing the site of the buildings.

Chief Paul, of Salt Lake City, yesterday sent to Marshal Merrill one gold double eagle loaded with English watch chain, with bracelet attached. The pin is of unique design, having a curl bar on face. The chain was taken from a prisoner and sent here for a claimant.

A special train, bearing a Chinese colony and village for the World's Fair, will probably leave Ogden today and reach Ogdenville on Saturday. Last night a small party of Chinese reached this city and went east. There is also a South Sea island exhibit due in Ogden this week.

F. C. Luck, of California, reached Ogden yesterday fully expecting to remain during the Cattlemen's congress, but was called home by an important dispatch. Before leaving, however, he drew up several resolutions for introduction at the congress.

The boys who enjoyed the fun of breaking forty-nine holes of glass in the Flemington house against the matter of paying for the broken windows, the value of which was $12.00, the amount being equally divided among the seven young scamps who had broken the windows.

Yesterday was a dull day in Ogden, when everything seemed to be waiting on the mountain. Black Grower's association, which convened in the Grand opera house at 10 o'clock this morning, and will continue its sessions until Saturday evening.

Julius Calken was expected to give his decision in the Wangsness case yesterday, but instead postponed action until Friday at the request of the attorneys for the defense. It is expected that Calken will be arrested and prosecuted for blackmail.

James Myers, the alleged counterfeit, was arraigned yesterday afternoon before Judge Hickey and waived the preliminary examination. His bonds have not yet been fixed.

Two of the boys who are implicated in the tobacco and cigarette theft on Seventh street, are in jail yet. The other two put up the value of the tobacco and were discharged.

The roof of the main building of the new plant was being put on yesterday and it is to be placed by the end of the week. Some more of the machinery has arrived.

The board of trade has made a call on the citizens for a $25,000 bonus to secure the stockyards.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From the Register, Cincinnati.
WASHINGTON, April 17, 1905.—From the dawn of civilization to the present time nations have been at war. It is not only a fact of history, but a fact of nature. It is a fact of nature that nations are constantly at war with each other. This accounts for the news of the lowering of the American flag raised over Hawaii by the United States minister at the request of the provisional government, by ex-Congressman Blount, now in Hawaii as the commissioner and personal representative of President Cleveland, having become the principal topic of conversation in Washington as soon as it was received, and for the civil relations of the Hawaiian Islands. Further than let it be known that Mr. Blount had only obeyed his instructions the administration has maintained a dignified silence as to his reasons and intentions. Senators are, as a rule, reluctant to express an opinion on the subject. When Senator Lodge offered a resolution calling upon the secretary of state to inform the Senate by whose authority the American flag was being lowered, it was quickly postponed by Senator Butler that it be amended by adding the words "and also by whose authority the name was added." The position of these two senators may be said to represent the position of their respective parties, although it is difficult to understand what partisan politics can have to do with the matter. There is no question about the having required enough of a high order of direct flag taken down. It was taking a risk of making the administration unpopular that the President would have willingly taken, and the result will be in doubt until the Hawaiian question is definitely settled. If it is settled satisfactorily the flag will soon come to be regarded as a symbol of peace, but should there be any aggravating complications or an unsatisfactory disposition of the question, the lowering of that flag will be a symbol of war.

question is definitely settled. If it is settled satisfactorily the flag will soon come to be regarded as a symbol of peace, but should there be any aggravating complications or an unsatisfactory disposition of the question, the lowering of that flag will be a symbol of war.

My wife was confined to her bed for over two months with a very severe attack of rheumatism. We could get nothing that would afford her any relief, and as a last resort gave Chamberlain's Pain Balm a trial. To our great surprise she began to improve after the first application, and by using it regularly she was able to get up and attend to her household work. J. H. Johnson, of C. J. For the first time since the resumption of specie payment the treasury has suspended the issue of gold coins, and it is generally believed that bonds will be issued at once, in order to meet the increased demand for gold coins.

Considerable speculation has been indulged in as to the effect of the quarterly statement of the Hawaiian Islands, which was published last week.
