LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

THERMOMETER 74 degrees F. in the shade, at 1 p.m. to-day. Fine.

The Rainy Year.—This will be known as the rainy year, for we have had showers every month, not even excluding this month of September.

Right.—Conjugal Cannon was amicably admitted to Congress. Plots and proscriptive Poland and malevolent Max. have been exasperatingly excluded. The door has been sharply slammed in their factious faces.

Stormy.—That was a stiff storm just before daybreak this morning; the rain poured, the wind made things rattle, the thunder rolled and reverberated, and the lightning flashed, but the storm was of short duration.

The Gopher "Red-Hot" Mirror.—This is the title of a new semi-weekly and weekly paper published at Minneapolis and St. Paul, Minn. Ed. A. Stevens, editor and proprietor. Everybody who wants to get burned should subscribe for the Mirror.

Utah Western Railroad.—We learn that it is confidently expected that the cars will be running on this line between this City and Clinton's by the 1st of November.

A force of men will begin repairing and fixing up the grade next Monday, and as soon as the iron arrives tracklaying will be commenced. It is reported that several cars of iron are on this side of Omaha, and if this be true the material will reach here next week, but this is not quite certain.

Cloth.—Before us are a number of specimens of cloth, handed in by Mr. James McGhie, manufactured at the Wasatch Woollen Mills, just as excellent doeskins and tweeds as any gentleman need desire to apparel himself with, and their superiors in the line are not imported to this Territory and sold at the same price. Mr. McGhie is a manufacturer of extended experience and shows, by the excellence of the products of his factory, his thorough knowledge of the business in which he is engaged.

It will be seen by the advertisement of the Mills, in another column, that Mr. McGhie, has, for the facilitating of business and accommodation of the public, opened an office on First South Street, opposite the Townsend House.

The goods manufactured by Mr. McGhie are not only creditable to himself, but to the Territory as well.

Theatre.—"Trump Card" and "Bonnie Fishwife" were well and satisfactorily played to an appreciative audience at the Theatre last night, by the Hoskins-Darrell Stellar Combination and the company.

This evening they will present Mr. Darrell's new romantic drama, written for Wallack's, entitled "Faith and Fidelity," which abounds in striking incidents, tableaux, and spectacular, picturesque, and scenic effects. The following is the principal portion of the cast—"Sir Ronald Eversleigh," Mr. Darrell; "Dr. Blair," Mr. Hoskins; "Lord Marsden," Mr. Thorne; "Colonel Riley," Mr. Marden; "General Clayton," Mr. Hardie; "Sergeant Sweeny," Mr. Wilton; "Sergeant Williams," Mr. Bowring; "Lady Blanche Eversleigh," Miss F. Cathcart; "Geordie McTavish," Miss E. Clawson.

On Friday a grand combination benefit and splendid double bill.

Hoskins-Darrell matinee on Saturday.

City Council.—Council met last evening, as usual, Mayor Wells presiding.

A. H. Raleigh was sworn in Alderman of the Third Ward, and H. Dinwoodey councilor.

Petition of J. J. Atchison and others, asking for covered flumes in the ditches on Second East Street, where it is crossed by First South St., referred to committee on streets and alleys.

A paper from J. P. Melk, practical homœopathist, was read, stating that the board of examining physicians, composed entirely of allopathic professionals, had refused to grant him a license, because unable to answer the questions put to him. He desired to be examined by a board composed of homœopathists.

Dr. S. B. Young, secretary of the Board, who was present, said the applicant had been examined upon the elementary principles of medicine and surgery, without regard to method of practice. The matter was referred to the committee on municipal laws.

Petition of A. Hardman, asking for the opening of Ninth South Street, between Third and Fourth West Streets, referred to the committee on streets and alleys.

Committee on streets and alleys reported favorably on petition of H. Wagner and others for flumes to be placed along the sides of Second South St., between East Temple and First East Streets; report adopted.

Several bills were presented and allowed.

Is it an Executive Document?—The ex-Governor of Oregon's mania for "orating" and "notating" not only manifests itself in messages, Fourth of July orations, Sunday school exhortations, banquet speeches, and political harangues, and lectures on art, science, and religion, but crops out semi-occasionally in fulminations through the press.

What is extensively believed to be his latest production is in the shape of an "open letter," a sort of incendiary diatribe on an exciting subject.

It is a wise provision of nature that the human mind is so constituted that it can throw off, at stated intervals, the accumulation of its filthy excretions, otherwise early disease and death would be inevitable.

The author of the production in question may be congratulated on the felicity with which he has treated his subject, and recommended to publish it in pamphlet form for gratuitous distribution under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association, or the American Tract Publishing Society, for such literature is just entitled to a niche high up in the temple of modern classics. Perhaps the ex-Governor will try again. A little more smoke, good sir. Life is a vapor, but let us have our share of it.

The Tooele Case.—The case wherein Judge Rowberry and Richard Warburton, of Tooele, were required to show cause why a peremptory mandamus should not issue to compel them to give up the records, seal and other county property to M. J. Chamberlain, claiming to be county clerk, appointed by L. A. Brown, who claims to be Probate Judge of Tooele, was resumed this morning.

The prosecution having concluded their case yesterday, so far as the evidence was concerned, the defendants attempted to introduce evidence on their side, but were prevented from bringing forward anything materially bearing on the case by the rulings of the Court, who decided that nothing should be introduced to show that they are officers de facto.

Mr. Sutherland, counsel for the color of right, and were therefore entitled to the custody of the property defense, delivered an excellent argument, showing that Rowberry and Warburton held the offices of Probate Judge and Clerk under at issue, until the right of title to office between them and their contestants was settled, which settlement or decision could only be reached by quo warranto proceedings, not mandamus. In support of his position the gentleman cited a large number of legal authorities.

He was followed by Mr. Snow, who spoke mainly on the anomalous condition of affairs that would ensue at Tooele, should the peremptory mandamus asked for be granted. Should it be decided in future proceedings that Brown had not been legally elected to the office of Probate Judge, and the mandamus should issue, it would show that he had been installed not by the voice of the people, but by the voice of corruption. After Mr. Snow had continued at some length the Court stopped him, and asked him what he would do under such and such circumstances? Mr. Snow made some remark which caused the Court to ask, "Well, now Judge, supposing you were counsel for a party in such and such a case, what would you advise as a lawyer?"

Judge Snow made some kind of a humorous remark, which our reporter did not catch, and which made several present laugh, when the Court said, in his peculiarly sharp, gritty way—"Judge Snow, if you make me such an answer again, I shall make you take your seat, sir."

"I did not mean any disrespect to the Court."

"If ever you make such an answer again, Judge Snow, I shall fine you for contempt, and suspend you till you apologize."

"I have already said I did not mean any disrespect to the Court."

"From the young men of this bar I have been generally treated with respect, but the conduct of some of the elder ones has been somewhat different.

Judge Snow again protested against any intention of disrespect to the Court, but the explanation did not appear to act as a mollification upon the irate Judge.

After Mr. Snow had concluded, Mr. Hagan delivered himself of an abusive tirade, and, during his remarks, endeavored to show that there was not a particle of evidence on the side of the defence to indicate that Rowberry and Warburton were officers de facto.

Mr. Sutherland objected to remarks from Mr. Hagan on the matter of evidence on that question, as the Court had ruled that the defense should not introduce evidence on that point, and the gentleman should therefore confine himself to the legal proposition, which was, that providing the defendants were officers de facto, they could only be deposed by judgment of ouster under proceedings of quo warranto.

The Court said the objection was "too refined."

Mr. Sutherland intimated he cauldn't see where the refinement came in.

The Court overruled the objection.

Further on in the remarks of Mr. Hagan, Mr. Snow raised an objection to some of his remarks.

The Court said, addressing Judge Snow—"You consider the gentleman has not the right to say so and so."

"I concede that he has the right."

"Stop, that's enough, you concese he has the right."

To Mr. Hagan, "Go on."

"I did not finish my sentence," said the persecuted Judge Snow.

The Court said, in unmistakably crusty and not very low tones—"You conceded he had the right, that's enough. Take your seat."

Then to Mr. Hagan—"Go on."

Mr. Sutherland made a motion to quash an order recently made by the Court, directing the U. S. Marshal to seize the office room of the Probate Judge and Recorder of Tooele, also the books, seals, papers, &c.

The whole proceedings were as good as a theatre, so the saying goes, but lack of time and space do not admit of our going into detail, in all their raciness.

Court adjourned till to-morrow at ten a.m., and as a kind of suitable wind-up to the affair, the "crying" was done by a novice at the business, who doubtless about commencing to say whether it was the Devil, the Court, 10 a.m., or to-morrow that was adjourned.

Impertinent Correspondents—Tooele Advantages—Improvements.

TOOELE, Sept. 15, 1874.

Editor Deseret News:

Several good houses are being put up. The school trustees are erecting a very creditable building for school purposes, which is nearly completed. We are blest with a few able and worthy teachers.

The co-operative harness and shoe shop, also the grocery and dry goods department, under the able management of G. W. Bryan, are doing a good business. Messrs. Kendrick & Herman do a fair trade.

The Nelson House is in running order, and good accommodations can be had there. An excellent table is set of the good things of the earth, not consisting merely of smiles and dishes.

We have also an excellent and well conducted telegraph office belonging to the W. U., and Wells Fargo's express office, which are very convenient for the people.

Although this is the seat of war, things move along in peace, notwithstanding all that may be said by lying sheets in your city or elsewhere.
