

BIKE RACES ON THE SAUCER.

Good Program Has Been Arranged For Tonight.

TURVILLE'S TRIAL RECORD.

Eddie Smith Will Race Against Clayton and Beck Mounted on a Tandem—Two Professional Events.

Manager Mulvey of the Salt Palace and his assistants were highly elated over the good crowd in attendance at last Tuesday's meet, and it shows that the sport is catching on and becoming more popular than ever. It was demonstrated that the public will generously support good races and the manager proposes to furnish the best that can be given.

Baby Gibson was the chief attraction at the last meet and made a splendid impression even if he didn't win the race. When his powerful motors, built according to his suggestion arrive, the young rider will uncover a few surprises for Salt Lake. He is not saying a word now, but patiently waiting. The factory promised to have his machines here not later than the 15th of this month, and it is expected that they will arrive within a couple of days.

A good program has been arranged for tonight and it is believed a big crowd will be on hand. The chief event will be Charley Turville's trial record for a mile. He will be paced by his fastest motor and promises to hang on as fast as the thing can go. Johnnie Nelson of Chicago holds the record at 1:34.4, and Turville and his friends believe that he can do it in 1:30. In training during the week he has clipped the mile off in 1:32.

Eddie Smith will undertake to defeat Clayton and Beck in a mile race. Smith will ride a single wheel and the others a tandem.

The three-eighths of a mile open professional will bring out Vaughan, Emery, Green, Lawson, Julius, Thompson, Wing, Oudkirk, King and Samuelson.

They will chase purses of $30, $15, $10 and $5.

One mile amateur tandem pursuit race—Held and McArthur, Hume and Hegren, Grames and Angel, Hermans and Leyland. Three heats. Winners of first two heats to meet in final. The purses are $25 and $12.50.

Two-mile lap race—Half mile heats to qualify. Score on points—5, 3, 2, 1. King, Oudkirk, Thompson, Julius, Vaughan, Second heat, Gus Lawson, Wing, Samuelson, Green, Emery. Purses, $35, $15, $10 and $5.

LEAGUE MEETING.

Will Be Held Tomorrow Evening—Pocahontas Still Anxious.

Another league meeting will be held tomorrow evening, when it is hoped something will be done to save the league. Just now the outlook is most gloomy and it is very doubtful if Pocahontas will be given a place in the league. If it is attempted to run the thing with three teams, salaries will have to be cut down or somebody will go in the hole. One team will have to lay off each week unless the lobsaters would undertake to play the Salt Lakes and Lagoons each a seven-inning game in one afternoon.

SHOW AFTER RACES.

Manager Mulvey Proposes to Wait For the Crowd.

Beginning next week Manager Mulvey of the Salt Palace proposes to wait that the patrons of the bicycle track have an opportunity to see the show from the beginning and that after the races are over. Next week vaudeville will be the order of things and after that the program will be vaudeville and probably one-act of opera. But on race nights the performance will not begin until after the races. Besides the usual performance there will be the living pictures.

Sporting Notes.

HERE will be a big crowd at tomorrow's game here between the Salt Lakes and Lobsters. Football Borchers will deal mysteries for the lobsters and Meredith will pitch his head.

If necessary to win for Salt Lake, it is believed that Hickey will be able to play short and then Webster can go to first. The infield will then be strengthened as will also the batting staff. Cope will be on second with Kimmer, Hanley and Morrow in the woods.

With such a line up Meredith ought to receive faultless support and win his game.

On Sunday the Salt Lakes will go to Lagoons for a game and endeavor to bat Newmeyer out of the box. "Pink" Hawley will pitch for the locals.

This week Marty McQuaid will join the Spokane team. He has been signed already. Marty is getting there with the stick and everybody knows what his fielding is.

Billy McCausland's hand was pretty badly damaged in Wednesday's exhibition game with the Pocahontas Indians, and he has had his hand in bandages ever since. It will be alright tomorrow though and the little fellow will catch his usually good game.

Barry Oldfield and another crack professional rider were expected in today to compete on the saucer track. They have been signed for the season.

AMONG THE ELKS.

What is Being Accomplished by the E. P. O. E. Committee.

Director General Stoll of the Elks' street fair and carnival has returned from a trip to Butte and reports that the Montana delegation is solid to a man for the convention in Salt Lake next year. He says that a big effort will be made to secure the next annual roundup for this city.

The committee has added a number of attractions to the list for the coming carnival here September 16 to 21.

Among those secured by the Jarboe company are the famous Austin sisters, known as the world's greatest lady gymnasts, in their thrilling flying trapeze act, and Colonel E. Daniel Boone with a herd of wild animals.

Exalted Ruler William Hampton, of Pocahontas, Idaho, by correspondence has informed the carnival committee that on Elk's christening day, Sept. 20th, a special excursion will leave Pocahontas at 4 a. m. with at least five hundred people, Elks and their families, to attend the christening of the live elk.

The guessing contest mail for ladies will take the assistance of a score of clerks to attend this mail alone.

The carnival committee has decided that September 18th, shall be Ogden day, Park City day, Logan day, Brigham City day, Provo day, Eureka day, and Wyoming day.

The carnival committee also requests that all decorations, badges and emblems for the Elks' Carnival & Street Fair be purple and white, the colors of the order. Butte lodge of Elks will attend during members. Contracts for the arches at the corner of West Second South and West Temple and Main streets, will be awarded within the next day or two. The arches will be built at once and will be illuminated from August 1st, by electric lights up to the close of the fair each and every evening.

The following Elks registered at Elks' Carnival headquarters today, and informed the committee that they would do all in their power to make the street fair and carnival a success:

E. E. Fowlens, Kansas City, Mo. 25.
Edward Pike, Eureka, Utah, No. 711.
D. B. Cronin, Eureka, Utah, No. 711.
W. Hugh Edmiston, Lincoln, Neb., No. 50.
Geo. E. Pexton, Evanston, Wyo., No. 85.
W. H. Chase, East Las Vegas, N. M., No. 408.

SOMETHING OF A TRIAL BY PEERS

Apocryphal of the case of Lord Russell, the last peer who brought himself within the criminal jurisdiction of the house of lords was Viscount Arbuthnot, indicted for felony in 1848, says the London Daily Mail. But he left the United Kingdom hurriedly.

Accordingly, the most recent precedent which the house of lords had to guide them in their dealings with Earl Russell is the trial of the Earl of Cardigan, which took place exactly thirty years ago.

Long before then, however, the peers tried the romantic case of the Duchess of Kingston, who was concerned in the only bigamy trial which ever came before the entire house. The duchess was a noted beauty and maid of honor at the court of George II. She was first engaged to the Duke of Hamilton, but in a fit of pique married Augustus Hervey, a poor naval officer, who afterwards became Earl of Bristol. The marriage was celebrated.

WITH THE UTMOST SECRECY

at midnight, and later on, when both wished to marry again, having tired of each other, she denied the marriage and brought a jactitation suit, asserting that she was unmarried. Hervey was, undoubtedly in collusion with her, and helped her to get a decree. A few weeks later she married the Duke of Kingston. Four years later he died (1773) and one of his nephews charged her with bigamy to invalidate the will, with the result that she was found guilty by the peers and sentenced to be branded in the hand, but pleading privilege of peerage she was discharged on payment of the costs.

The case of Lord Cardigan, already mentioned, arose out of some severe criticisms on the way Lord Cardigan ruled his regiment, the eleventh hussars. This was in 1849. Lord Cardigan found out the writer to be a certain captain Tuckett, whom he challenged to a duel on Wimbledon common. Tuckett was wounded. Cardigan was arrested, and a true bill for felony found against him at the Central criminal court. The matter was reported to the lord chancellor (Lord Tottenham) by the judge who had presided at the Old Bailey.

The trial was fixed to take place within three weeks of the intimation from the Old Bailey. In the interval the committee appointed at the outset, in the present instance, to inspect the journals of the house in respect to criminal cases and report thereon had been exceedingly busy. Their labors were brought to a close by a final report "recommending that a stool should be placed within the bar, on which the Earl of Cardigan should sit during the trial, uncovered, and without his robes."

So the day of the trial came, and the curious thing is that the house of lords for that occasion had ceased to be the house of lords, and had, properly and legally speaking, become the court of our Lady the queen in parliament, presided over by the lord high steward appointed by commission under the Great Seal. Had this criminal matter arisen when parliament was not sitting Lord Cardigan would have been tried in the court of the lord high steward; quite another matter altogether. For in a trial of a peer in full parliament every peer present at the trial (and every temporal peer has a right to be present) votes upon every question of law and fact. The lord high steward himself has only a single vote, the verdict being that of the majority.

But in the court of the lord high steward, in the case when parliament is not sitting, he alone is judge in all points of law and practice; the peers present are merely judges of fact—in other words, they perform the humbler functions of jurymen.

To get back to Lord Cardigan, the attorney-general of the day (Sir John Campbell) appeared against him; and, in the absence of the lord chancellor, the chief justice, Lord Denman, presided.

On his pleading not guilty, Lord Cardigan was further asked by the deputy clerk of the crown:

"How will your lordship be tried?"

"By my peers."

"God send your lordship a good deliverance"—a politeness which might be copied at the central criminal court.

After the hearing was concluded, the lord high steward, standing up, called every peer by his name from a list, beginning with the junior baron, and asked him: "John Lord Keane, how say your lordship—is James Thomas Earl of Cardigan guilty of the felony whereof he stands indicted, or not guilty?"

Whereupon John Lord Keane, standing in his place uncovered, and laying his right hand upon his breast, answered, "Not guilty, upon my honor." And so said they all, with the exception of the Duke of Cleveland, whose answer was, "Not guilty legally, upon my honor." One royal duke voted—namely, the late Duke of Cambridge, and it is worth noting that all letters of summons to members of the blood royal stated, according to precedent, that the house "desired their presence." The bishops take part in the proceedings as lords of parliament, but by the canons of the church they are prohibited from voting in cases of blood. The custom is for them to ask leave to be absent.

And so to make an end of Lord Cardigan. The indictment was for shooting at Harvey Garnett Phipps Tuckett with intent, etc. The trial only lasted one day. The crown could produce evidence that he bore the name of Harvey Garnett Phipps Tuckett. So Lord Cardigan went free.

BOYS' DAY TOMORROW

Judging from the way you men have come for these bargains the last week or so—Boys' Day ought to be pretty lively here tomorrow—with little prices we've put on many things. Read the list over, there's surely something that the boy needs, if not now, a little later, and the investment is just as good.

BOYS' SUITS AT LITTLE PRICES.

This style is for boys of 8 to 16 years.

Regular double breasted style of coat.

Fabrics are those good, tough wearing kinds you always find in Gardner's boys' clothes.

Many of the pants have double seats and double knees.

They're all sewed with double seams, so there's no much danger of them tipping.

If the boy doesn't need a suit now, how about school time?

This is how they're reduced:

$2.50 Suits to . . . $1.85

3.00 Suits to . . . 2.25

3.50 Suits to . . . 2.50

3.00 Suits to . . . 3.00

4.50 Suits to . . . 3.50

5.00 Suits to . . . 3.75

6.00 Suits to . . . 4.50

7.50 Suits to . . . 5.75

Little Boys' Suits at Little Prices.

These are the little vest styles of suits.

They're nobby little suits, too.

They're just the suits to make the boy happy.

Some of the vests are single breasted, some are double breasted.

Some to match suit, some fancy.

We don't suppose you can get the little fellow to wear many clothes these hot days.
