Dr. John R. Park has recovered the horse he lost while camping out in Piute canyon.

H. L. Cortis, of England, lately rode twenty miles on a bicycle in ten minutes and some seconds—the fastest time ever made on a bicycle for that distance. He also lowered the previous record from three miles all the way to twenty.

We are requested by Mr. John W. Ling to state that the Keystone gun elastic fire-proof paint is not the Excelsior paint, with which some people have confounded it; neither is it similar to the Simmons' cement paint. His advertisement appears to-day.

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

Home Mission.—Elders of the Home Mission will visit the country wards of this Stake to-morrow.

Another Company.—A company of Latter-day Saint emigrants was to leave Liverpool on the steamship Wyoming to-day.

Graphic Illustrations.—Mr. Jav. Dwyer has received an extra supply of the number of the New York Graphic, containing illustrations of Salt Lake City and other parts of Utah. He mails copies to any address at 10 cents each.

Religious Services.—Regular services of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints at the Tabernacle to-morrow afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock, and at the several ward meeting houses in the evening, at the usual hours.

From the North.—Mrs. Miller, who has returned from a visit to Paris, Bear Lake Valley, informs us that the health of her father, Gen. C. C. Rich, has somewhat improved of late. She states that the weather is much warmer here than in the north; the difference in temperature being quite marked.

The Choir Excursion.—We are in receipt of an invitation to accompany the Tabernacle Choir excursion to Provo. We do not know of an excursion party that would be likely to afford more genuine enjoyment to accompany than the chief choristers of Utah. It will be a delightful occasion.

Homicide at Hailey.—At Hailey, on Tuesday afternoon, Frank Brown, a mining expert, well known in Utah, shot and killed Col. F. M. Adams. The latter was also known in Silver Reef and other mining camps of this Territory. Brown, who claims to have committed the homicide in self-defense, is in custody.

A Good Thing.—Were it not for the Salt Lake and Jordan Canal there would be a positive water famine in this city just now. There is not a sufficient stream flowing down in the bed of City Creek to turn the big wheel at the blacksmith shop; a block north of the Eagle Gate, and the proprietor has been obliged to erect hand-bellows—an unusual occurrence.

A Singular Statement.—We find the following singular paragraph in the Richmond, Missouri, Conservator of August 22nd:

Several years since Jack Fletcher, who lives near Orrick, dreamed three nights in succession that on a piece of land, on the hills in the center of a triangle made by three great oaks, was buried a hoard of gold, carefully placed in a stone vault. Urged by curiosity, he visited the place; the trees stood as plainly depicted in his dream, and he with some others commenced to dig in the spot designated, and after considerable labor struck the rock, when they desisted, having been warned away by the owner of the land. Our informant says that the stone vault was plainly perceptible when they quit work and he thinks that there was treasure there. We had heard of this, but were then told that it was a dream. It was said that it was a gold statue of Nephi; that he visited the place; found the receptacle, as seen in his dream, but that the statue was gone, and that a party that left for California had suddenly become wealthy, and it was thought that he had unearthed the treasure.

Home Dramatic Club.—The theatrical season depends on nothing so much as cool weather, and as the nights are no longer so warm, we may look for a speedy renewal of dramatic amusements. The Home Club will probably be the company to open the local season, as they have secured the new and favorite play of "Miss Chester," and are about to commence rehearsals upon that one.

During the recent vacation the Club have been busily engaged perusing new plays and manuscripts, with a view to selecting several pieces for fall and winter production, and this drama is one of those they have secured. "Miss Chester" is a drama of the elevated society order, written by Florence Marryatt and Sir Charles L. Young, two noted authors. It was recently rendered in the Baldwin Theatre, San Francisco, by Lester Wallace's English company, and it is from their copy that the Home Club present the play. The cast on the coming occasion will include Miss Ada Dwyer, Miss Claridge, Miss Clawson, Mr. Wells, Mr. Spencer, Mr. Cummings and Mr. B. S. Young.

The Conference bill by this Club will be "Miss Chester" and the grand sterling drama of the "Two Orphans." This play will suit the country people better than anything else the Club could have revived, INTERESTING MISSIONARY EXPERIENCE.

ELDER JOHN Q. CANNON RELAYES THE ATTENTION OF THE POLICE AUTHORITIES—ADDITIONS TO THE CHURCH—PROSPECTS OF A GOOD WORK.

Extracts from a private letter written by Elder John Q. Cannon, Missionary to Germany:

NURMBERG, July 29, 1882.

Your very welcome letter of the 12th ult., reached me some time since as a missionary, I was in the hottest part of a little contest with the authorities over my right as an American citizen and a newspaper correspondent to remain, and see the sights, and arise up, if interested enough, the grand Bavarian Industrial Exposition now in progress; and your second letter, just one month later in date, came to hand to-day, after the contest is over, and after I have bid most of the time to the authorities to starting for Berlin. My innocence was supposed that because of the great number of strangers in the city attending the Exposition, I could stay for a week or two and then quietly leave; but I had the misfortune, within a few days after my arrival, to meet in the street and be recognized by the same judge before whom I was previously examined; and the next morning, true to my expectation, I received visits from gentlemen, at two different places where I happened to be. During the following week I enjoyed several more visits of this kind, and after which time the mysterious and disagreeable questions were pronounced no longer, and the officer called at my stopping place every day or two, to see if that American is still here. Such marked attention from the authorities is notice a flattery to flatter me; but for myself I care more than for any annoyance to the kind-hearted friends who entertain me, which my presence causes. In order to test their feeling upon this point, I suggested, in the quietest way, that for a few days, go to a public lodging house in the city, where, among other comers and goers, I would not be so much noticed, at least, if noticed, it would only be as a stranger, and I would suffer from the annoyance. But with much warmth they insisted that I must not think of leaving them; and that so far as they were concerned, a gentleman could come every hour of the day and every day of the week.

The first interrogator that came wanted to see my passport, and wanted a good reason for my function as to my past actions and future intentions than I was disposed to give. I showed him my passport with good deal of satisfaction, knowing that he could not find a word of it, but I have learned enough of German law to see that a person is not questioned to answer all a policeman's questions, and from my experience have found that such answers as one does give are not correctly reported. I had made up my mind that I would play the "ignorance" game, and refuse to understand anything that was said. But I could not act the part through, when I heard the blunders my interlocutor was making and the likelihood there was of his making my case worse, I felt that I had a very good—extremely bad, so I proceeded to explain to him what that little bit of parchment was, and what protection it offered to its owner. He quickly suggested that such a passport was not sufficient; but when I recalled to his mind that he could not read it, and hence could have no idea of how much of guarantee it was, he withdrew his objection, and picking up his gun, and complimenting me on my progress in the language during my two months' absence in North Germany, took his leave. He never came again, but contented himself with hearing reports of my actions and answers from his subordinates. I went upon my own invitation, and visited the Burgomaster and to him I represented myself as a Mormon but as not having broken any of his laws and not having any intention of so doing. He courteously requested that I should give my name with him till I left for another place; but this I refused to do. When I paid a guinea for the document in London I thought it was a dear privilege after all to be recognized as an American; but now the precious paper is more valuable to me than a German bank note of the same size, and I carry it in my pocketbook as near my heart as the thickness of my clothes and skin and the convenience of my pockets will permit. He was a little surprised at my refusal, and grunted out something which, if translated into English would be considered naughty to repeat. However, he told me that the visits of which I complained had been ordered by the Circuit Judge, and that they would in all probability continue as long as I stayed here, to the correctness of which opinion I now bear testimony.

I returned the day before yesterday from a visit to Munich, where Abraham [H. Cannon] and I spent a week in March last, when Abraham baptized twelve persons, or, darning one of them a Priest to reside temporarily. Owing to the emigration next month, and the absolute necessity of my being in Berlin three or four weeks before the date fixed for the company's departure, I was not able to spare more than eight days on this visit, but during that time, as I read in my journal, I was privileged by my Heavenly Father to baptize and confirm sixteen persons, divide three Elders and bless thirteen children. The prospects are exceedingly bright in this city for a large Branch, and now that a beginning has been made and a working organization effected, I look for good and speedy results.

The spirit of inquiry is abroad in the land—stronghold of Catholicism in this region, the city of the Danube towns, quite out of my line of travel, came a letter the other day begging me visit the writer, he with his family and a few of his neighbors, and heard of our friends and were ready to embrace them. A family in Frankfurt, also out of my district, though perhaps as much in mine as anybody's else, have also been praying for a preacher, and have written me a splendid letter. My lack of time, however, makes it out of the question for me to visit these people at present; and I have written them that they must wait till I come south again; in September or October. I have also had some conversation and correspondence with a prominent man in one of the government departments, which I expect to result in his baptism. His wife is a very estimable woman and so desirous of instant enrollment in the Church, that she says she would come here for the purpose, though she is rusticating in the Bavarian Alps several kilometers away. The man is highly educated, and has occupied, though still quite young, several important offices during his vocation. He is at present making a sort of tour over all the railways of the kingdom, traveling in his own car, and attended by cooks, clerks and servants without number. He agrees time to write me every few days, and says on my return he will be settled for the winter and will be baptized; I have no doubt of his sincerity, and he is not at all inclined to make a vestigate, or will give me an opportunity to warn him.

Day after to-morrow I leave for Berlin and will probably remain in the north for eight weeks. The language there is purer and more correct so in that respect the change will be for the better. But the Saints are not so united and whole-hearted in the love of the Gospel as they are here, and therefore I do not enjoy myself so well among them. Still they require visiting as much as the better ones—perhaps even more. I feel that if I can once more bring about unity in the Berlin branch we will be able to do a great work there. So long, however, as disunion prevails in our ranks the world can see no better fruits from our principles than from their own.

The season has been unprecedentedly wet and the grain nearly ripe is rotting in the fields. Potatoes also are becoming unfit for later growth, and many farmers are digging them, though no larger than pigeon's eggs. The bad outlook and the depressing fear that with the spring, if not sooner, a war of some kind will be engaged in, perhaps as the result of the present crisis on the Nile, have combined to bring upon the minds of the people a feeling of consternation and dismay.

Release and Appointment.—William Wood is released to return home with the September 2nd company, and W. W. Hunter is appointed to succeed him in the Presidency of the Norwich Conference. Mil. Star, Aug. 14.

Industrious Lads.—Joseph Ward, 14 years of age, of Pleasant Grove, and his brother Charles, twelve years old, occupy their leisure time in cutting out various kinds of wooden ornaments, brackets, clock-shelves hat-racks, etc. They do very creditable work, and sell the articles at eastern prices. They are ingenious as well as industrious boys.

Sunday School Union Meeting.—The regular monthly meeting of the Deseret Sunday School Union will be held in the Salt Lake Assembly Hall, next Monday evening at half past 7 o'clock.

The 10th Ward Sunday School choir and band will please furnish music and doorknockers.

A short lecture on the "Duties of Sunday School Scholars," will be delivered.

All are respectfully invited to attend.

General Superintendent Geo. Q. Cannon is expected to be present.

L. W. RICHARDS, Sec'y.

FROM "THE TIMES." Editors Times:—The veterinary department in your valuable paper is always read by me with great interest and I value the information received from it a hundred fold more than the small amount paid for the paper. One year ago you published a letter from Dr. John Bates, relating the wonderful cure effected with Kendall's Spavin Cure, and his allusion to using it now in his practice for several human ailments on account of the success he has always had with it. The above statements from so prominent a Physician gave me great faith in its efficacy, and as I had been afflicted for years with rheumatism and hip-joint lameness so bad that I could hardly walk at times, I procured a bottle and as it has completely cured me I wish to proclaim it to all the world as the most wonderful discovery ever made for the benefit of afflicted men as well as for the poor horse, for which it was first used. As this remedy must be of incalculable benefit to the world, I write this letter to express my thankfulness to you for ever mentioning it in your columns and to ask another favor in behalf of my fellow men who are afflicted in body, that you continue to make known to the world, the great value of Kendall's Spavin Cure for both man as well as beast. Respectfully yours, ARNOLD PARKER. Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 1st, 1881. d&w.

READ THE FOLLOWING TESTIMONIALS.—SALT LAKE CITY, June 29th, 1882. This is to certify that we had Messrs. Simmons & Co. repair and paint our stables at the race track, in this city, which leaked badly. A few hours after the roof was painted there came a very hard rain storm, and we are pleased to say our roof did not leak a drop. We cheerfully recommend this paint as being both fire and water proof, and as a preserver of roofs it seems to us to be the very thing needed in this section of the country. E. J. TRAVIS, J. T. GILMER.

CALIFORNIA BREWERY, SALT LAKE CITY, June 18th, 1882. This is to certify that I have used M. S. Simmons & Co.'s Wood and Iron Proof Paint, and think it not only a good paint, but that it is economy to use it, as it is lasting. HENRY WAGENER.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, July 11th, 1882. This is to certify that I have had my roof painted with Simmons & Co.'s Paint, and I think it a good paint, and I believe it to be more lasting than any other paint in use in Utah. ANDREW GEBHARDT.

UTAH CENTRAL RAILWAY, SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, July 1st, 1882. We are using M. S. Simmons & Co.'s Paint on the Utah Central Railway, and consider it a good paint. We are painting our wind cars and bridge roofs. It protects the wood and iron. We also consider it a good paint for tin and iron roofs. SAML. H. HILL, P. A.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, July 21st, 1882. We had M. S. Simmons & Co. to paint a part of the Wasatch Building, and believe their paint to be a good one. N. GROESBECK.

SALT LAKE CITY, July 22nd, 1882. I have seen buildings painted with M. S. Simmons & Co.'s Paint, and I cheerfully recommend the same for iron, tin and shingle roofs. I consider it a first-class preservative for all kinds of wood work, and it is especially adapted for railroad tanks and buildings, also for barns and water-meters, as it is both fire and water proof, besides being economical to use. B. M. SHUPP, Arch.
