MORE APPARATUS ORDERED.

Additional Fire Fighting Equipment
Authorized—Order Placed for Assault for County Building Roads.

It is very evident that the mayor and the city council intend to give the citizens of Salt Lake the additional police and fire protection which has been desired for months past. At last night's meeting of the council 10 additional men were appointed on the police force and were confirmed. The council also suspended the rules and passed an ordinance introduced by Martin providing for the appointment of six more firemen for the fire department. A resolution was also passed authorizing the chief of the fire department to expend $11,700 in the purchase of hose, a fire engine, a truck and a hose wagon. These are the first suggestions contained in Mayor Morris' annual message for this year to receive attention, and the council is to be congratulated upon its prompt action on these important matters.

NAMES OF NEW MEN.

Chief of Police Lynch sent in the following appointments for his department: John B. Smith, James F. Morris, W. H. Cough, O. C. Brown, Frank Brown, W. H. Leaver, Harlow D. Lyon, George O. Burton, George F. Watson and Henry R. Coulam. These men were appointed after a hearing and were confirmed. Martin offered an amendment that they be referred to the police and prison committee. He explained that he probably had no objection to the men, but he thought it best to refer the matter and let the committee appear before the council and become acquainted with the councilmen so that they would know who they were appointing. He was opposed to rushing the appointments through, and contended that out of courtesy to the members of the council they should be referred to the committee.

Black and Hobday also favored referring the matter to the committee, and they both declared that they had no voice in making the appointments at all. Hobday said that a certain number of the councilmen had met with the mayor and the chief of police and agreed on the appointments and the others were left out. He declared that the "thumbscrews" were put on Chief Lynch and he was prevented from naming a certain man, he wanted to name because that party was not acceptable to the councilmen who were in on the deal.

Hartenstein, Wells, Fernstrom and Hewitt each stated that they did not name any of the appointees but that they were ready to vote in favor of confirming all of them. In answer to Hobday and Martin's regard to the chief being forced to put certain men on the list, Fernstrom stated that to his positive knowledge some of the councilmen who were not on the committee and who claimed that they had nothing to do with the appointments had signed the petition of several of the applicants. He wanted to know if that wasn't putting the "thumbscrews" on the chief.

EXCHANGE OF COURTESIES.

Martin made another argument in favor of referring. He wanted to get acquainted with the new men.

Fernstrom inquired if Martin knew all of the men on the force at the present time. Martin replied that he did. Then you must want to get acquainted with the new ones too, so they won't pinch you," replied Fernstrom amid much laughter. Martin made the last score, however, by saying that if he lived out in an isolated district like Fernstrom does he wouldn't know anyone at all.

Upon the vote being taken on Martin's amendment to refer to the committee the motion was lost by a vote of 5 to 2. Barnes voted against because he said that the Third precinct, which at first had three men on the list, now had one and he did not think it fair distribution. The roll was then called on confirming the appointments and they were confirmed by a vote of 10 to 1. Black, Hobday, Martin and A. J. Davis voted against the matter and Hewitt voted with the councilmen from the Second, Third and Fourth precincts, where most of the appointees reside, and made their confirmation possible.

FIRE DEPARTMENT CHANGES.

The fire department ordinance was introduced by Martin, and upon motion of E. H. Davis the rules were suspended and it was placed on its second and third readings, and passed by a unanimous vote. It provides for the appointment of six additional firemen. The department will now consist of one chief, one assistant chief, seven captains, three lieutenants, three engineers, one electrician, one secretary and operator and 31 firemen.

The resolution of the fire department committee authorizing the expenditure of $11,700 in buying additional apparatus as stated above was finally adopted after an unsuccessful attempt of President Hewlett to have it referred to the finance committee. He contended that the expenditure of such a large sum of money should be thoroughly considered by the finance committee. The majority of the council did not think so, however, and the resolution was passed.

veto by requiring the roof-signs on buildings in the business districts to be constructed of metal instead of wood. The ordinance was then passed over the strenuous objections of E. H. Davis, who contended that such signs should not be allowed, as they are a detriment to the fire department in battling with the flames. Barnes, Martin, Preece and Hewlett voted with Davis against the ordinance.

ASPHALT WALKS.

Upon recommendation of Mayor Morris the council authorized the board of public works to contract for 1,000 tons of asphalt from the Thistle property recently purchased by the city. The asphalt will be used for improving the walks around the city and county buildings.

A bill was presented from Frank Anderson and O. A. Palmer for $110 for services rendered in making an expert examination on the asphalt claims at Thistle. The bill was referred to the asphalt committee.

Charles E. Street and a number of other property owners on Ninth East street submitted a vigorous protest against the Utah Light and Railway company being allowed to put in double tracks on that street between Tenth and Eleventh South streets. As the street is only 66 feet wide the petitioners state that if double tracks are put in it will only restrict traffic and endanger the lives of the residents. The matter was referred to the committee on streets.

A petition was received from L. O. Weight and other property owners asking that the name of Oak street be changed to North Main street, as it is a continuation of north East Temple street and the numbers on the houses run continuous from those of East Temple. The streets committee will consider the petition.

Chief of Police Lynch sent in the appointments of Daniel Parker, William Durham, T. H. Jenkins and Geo. Canning, Jr., as special policemen at the city and county buildings. The appointments were confirmed unanimously.

City Recorder Critchlow reported that 252 cases were disposed of in the criminal division of the city court during the month of February from which the sum of $3,133 was received in fines and forfeitures. In the civil division of the court the sum of $142.50 was received in fees.

Like Finding Me.

Finding health is like finding money—so think those who are sick. When you have a cough, cold, sore throat, or chest irritation, better act promptly like W. C. Barker, of Sandy Level, Va.

He says: "I had a terrible chest trouble caused by smoke and coal dust on my lungs; but, after finding no relief in other remedies, I was cured by Dr. King's New Discovery." Dubois was heard to say repeatedly to the speaker, as the latter continued an awkward struggle with the manuscript he was reading.

Senator Stewart of Nevada was in charge of the pending question, and it was with evident reluctance that he granted time to Senator Kearns for the purpose of delivering his tirade, and commented on the stipulation that he would be brief. The presiding officer, Senator Frye, distinctly indicated his impatience at the effort Senator Kearns was making, and several times spoke sharply to him.

The speech began 10 minutes before noon and lasted just one hour. When Mr. Kearns began speaking only two senators—Dubois and Patterson—were near him. Soon the latter walked away but Dubois remained and acted as the speaker's coach. "Keep your voice up. Don't get discouraged," Dubois was heard to say repeatedly to the speaker, as the latter continued an awkward struggle with the manuscript he was reading.

During the delivery of his speech, Kearns drank repeatedly from a glass placed on his desk. His delivery and articulation were particularly bad. Not many senators were in the chamber during the address, and nearly all who were present were walking about or conversing, and few paid attention to the speaker.

At the close of the harangue Senator Smoot attempted to obtain recognition for the purpose of a brief reply, but several senators approached him and advised him not to pay any attention to Kearns' address, and he took their advice. Usually when, near the expiration of his term, a senator makes a set speech, other senators will congratulate him on his effort. But not a single senator thus approached Kearns, and the omission was noticeable.

Mr. Cummings was in Pittsburgh while the speech was being delivered, and read a synopsis of it in the papers there which were printed about noon. This shows that the Associated Press sent out a synopsis of it which was in type before it was delivered and accounts for the mistakes contained in that report relating to the manner in which the speech was received.

Health, vigor and tone predominate. New life and happy activity results. Mrs. Belle H. DEATH RATE LOW.

Marked Decrease in Mortality Record For February—What Figures Show.

The report of Clerk Brothers of the city board of health for the month of February shows that there were 50 deaths in the city during the month as compared with 157 for the month of February, 1904. Of the total number of deaths during the past month 39 were males and 20 females. Thirteen of them were over the age of 65 years and 14 were under 5 years of age. During the month 12 bodies were brought to the city for burial and 14 were shipped out of the city for interment.

The total number of births for the month was 114, of which 57 were males and 57 females. The birth record shows an increase of 11 over that of February, 1904, there being 103 births during that month.

Measles is still on the increase, there being 260 cases of the disease reported during the month. There were also 62 cases of smallpox reported; 22 cases of diphtheria; six cases of scarlet fever; two cases of chicken pox and one of whooping cough. A total of 81 houses were fumigated during February.

The board at its monthly meeting yesterday passed the following resolution relative to the sweeping of sidewalks without first sprinkling the same: "Resolved, That it is unsanitary and injurious to the health of the city to sweep the sidewalks in the paved districts without first sprinkling the same and the board of health declares the same a nuisance and it is hereby prohibited."

LEAPED OVER SHOSHONE FALLS.

Further Details of the Feat of Harry Wilson Who Was Crazy Drunk.

NO WORSE FOR HIS PLUNGE.

Says He Does Not Know What Induced Him to Make the Sensational Dive.

Harry Wilson, the foolhardy half-breed Indian whose sensational leap into the seething pool beneath Shoshone falls on the afternoon of March 2 brought him sudden notoriety, is recuperating from the effects of his rash dive under the care of a physician at Twin Falls City, says the Boise Statesman. He received a severe shock and had his senses not been deadened by liquor it is probable his body would now be food for the fishes.

The rock from which Wilson took his thrilling somersault juts out over the pool a short distance below and to the right of what is known as "Lover's Leap." It is higher than the crest of the falls and is probably 225 feet from the water below. At the time Wilson took his plunge a vast volume of water was passing over the falls and that portion of the pool into which he dived was a diver swimming in a sea of foam. Wilson escaped being sucked under and battered to death on the rocks as a mystery which nobody can solve.

Wilson was gloriously drunk when he made the leap. His companions, who were not so intoxicated, thought at first that he was making a mad dash for the water. When Wilson began to disrobe it began to dawn on the friends that he might be foolish enough to make the jump. They shouted to him frantically but he paid no attention, except to wave his hands and smile. Standing on the rock, Wilson, who was dressed in his underclothing, sat with his companions with a mock bow and leaped clear of the rock. He turned twice in the air before disappearing in the mist.

COOLED OFF ON THE ICE.

Several women shrieked when they saw Wilson's form hurtling into the water. A minute later the spectators saw a diver swimming in a sea of foam. Wilson escaped being sucked under and battered to death on the rocks as a mystery which nobody can solve.

Wilson was a thoroughly sober man when he was assisted from the rocks of ice. His teeth were chattering violently and the blood streamed from a gash on his right leg. Aside from this wound he appeared to be unhurt.

Wilson said he clef the water feet foremost. His knees were drawn up tightly and his body inclined backward. Had he struck on his head he believed his skull would have been crushed. The force of the impact is supposed to have been sufficient to have split his skin and stunned him if he had struck the water in any other way.

How Wilson sustained the wound on his leg he does not know. It might have been caused by contact with rocks while he was climbing out of the water.

Wilson came to Twin Falls City from Oklahoma early in February. He seemed to be a roisterer, many friends of well developed appearance, for liquor. Nobody paid much attention to him as he was not quarrelsome and generally had money. His escape from death is considered miraculous by those who have seen others perish beneath the falls and who appreciate the enormous danger which lurks in the big pool.

Are You Engaged?
Engaged couples should remember, that, after marriage, many quarrels can be avoided, by keeping their digestions in good condition with Electric Bitters. S. A. Brown, of Bennettsville, S. C., says: "For years, my wife suffered intensely from dyspepsia, complicated with a torpid liver, until she lost her strength and vigor, and became a mere wreck of her former self. Then she tried Electric Bitters, which helped her at once, and finally made her healthy." Z. C. M. I. Drug Dept. sells and guarantees them, at 50c a bottle.

AMUSEMENTS.

The long expected and widely famed "Mother Goose" production will be seen at the Theater tonight, the gigantic company being headed by our old friend Cawthorne, who will appear in the role of Mother Goose. He has not been seen in Salt Lake since the days of Alice Nielsen.

The Duft Concert company gave an excellent entertainment last night. The talented and artistic audience expressed its gratification with quite an assortment of encores. The visiting company is not very large, seeing there are only three persons in the aggregation; but they are artists, and their appearance in this city will be pleasantly remembered. Dr. Duft has a voice that will always give satisfaction. It is smooth, heavy, and sonorous, entirely free from any suggestion of harshness, and the range is higher than most deep voices. Then the doctor is a large man, and a bass voice and good sized man are an ideal combination. One of his solos was sung with organ accompaniment, and the effect was very pleasing. Miss Blamere seemed to surprise the audience by the unexpected excellence of her voice, for she was strong, clear, and even all through the register, and of fine quality. The artist's higher notes were sweet and in her full control, and her duet with Dr. Duft in the "Il Trovatore" number was a gem. Seebach's piano performance was one of the marked attractions of the evening. He is an original, and a skillful musician, and gave the Chopin numbers with that thoughtful, every-like, and delicate portraiture that this composer's works call for. But it was in his own composition that the artist appeared at his best. In these he showed himself a tone colorist of high order, as well as originality, and possessed of skilled technical powers. Prof. Seebach's compositions are bright, catchy and sketchy, varying from the scintillating to the pastoral and permeated strongly with a somber tinge or undertone—as painters would call it.

Prof. Seebach accompanied both in solo and accompaniment was up to his usual standard of excellence, and his orchestral registration in the bass solo accompaniment must have been particularly gratifying to Dr. Duft. The choir surprised the audience by their good work in "Rouse Ye Mortals," and received a well merited encore. To their rendition of "The Rise and Fall of All Nations." The visiting artists were delighted with both choir and organist.

A morning paper characterizes the choir as disappointing. Why it should do so is, as Lord Dunsany remarked, "One of these things no feller can find out." One suggestion might be made. The glare of the electric lamps that are suspended in the body of the house, was discomforting to the occupants of the galleries, and it was remarked by more than one person there that if those lamps could only be raised 10 feet or so, or screened in some manner, they would be less objectionable.

That the ability of Harry Corson (the one and only company to advance the laughter out of an audience is not limited by the play he has in hand, was easily demonstrated at the Grand theater last night. "His Absent Boy" proved a decided hit with the audience. Happened to Jones, and although the members of the cast were called upon to meet entirely different situations from those presented in the first play, they met the difficulties with success. Margaret Dale Owen, as Mrs. Pennie, was especially pleasing, and although the character was an entirely different one from that of her last appearance, she served to make more pronounced her hit with the audience.

The play deals with the adventures of Mr. Pennie, in extracting from an overcupful wife a little pin money for his tiny little son. Pennie, on the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary, insists on the boy being invited to come home and live. The situation develops a stage full of startling situations out of this predicament, and one of them affording plenty of food for laughter.

Besides Mr. Clarke, who led the laugh producers, and Miss Owen, members of the company who took full advantage of the parts assigned them were Lawrence Wakefield, as Jack Mackaye; William Harris as Col. Mackaye; and Olive Fiteau as Mrs. Mackaye. "His Absent Boy" will be seen tonight, tomorrow night, and at a Wednesday matinee, the company spending the latter half of the week in Ogden.

The First Congregational church was well filled last night, with the relatives and friends of the young violinist who are under the instruction of George E. Skelton. There were eleven future artists on the program, and then there was an orchestra of eight violins, viola, cello, stringed bass and piano all played by young people. The assisting artists were Mrs. A. G. Andrews, Mrs. A. D. Melvin, Miss Gertrude Hartman and Mrs. L. G. Burton. The little violinists gave great satisfaction to their friends and showed marked evidence of progress that were gratifying to their instructor. The evening was very pleasantly spent.

A POSSIBILITY.

That Becomes a Fact and Pleases Many People.

A. R. Lewis, M. D., in a lengthy article in the columns of the American Journal of Health, says concerning hair: "Its restoration is a constant source of worry to humanity, consequently bald people are readily deceived by 'fake' hair restoratives. The wish that a hair preparation will fill the bald is father to the fancy that it is likely to do so. A rare case in point is that of Newbro's Herpicide, which actually does 'fill the bill.' It destroys the parasite that attacks the hair root, and prevents dandruff, falling hair and baldness." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c, in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. So Says an Essay Which Won the Physicians.

"Don't live in a fool's paradise. The worst thing about consumption is that it is not suspected to be consumption until it gets so far along that it defies a hard one to win. If you could detect it in its earlier stages before the system had become weakened and worn out by the daily fever, you could easily get the victory."—Eugene Wood in Everybody's Magazine.

Dr. Acker's English Remedy cures consumption after it has gone beyond the stage where the victim "doesn't know."

But it is easiest, quickest and safest to cure it at an early stage.

WHY DO YOU COUGH?
A cough is a distress signal from the lungs. They tell you they are weakened and inflamed and sore. Pneumonia and consumption are everywhere, and it is only healthy lungs that resist the germs. Dr. Acker's English Remedy soothes the lungs, cures the cough, helps Nature throw off the evil disease, but it is easier to do it at the first cough.
