A VISIT TO THE STATE PRISON

What a Party of Salt Lake Visitors Saw Behind the Big Walls.

Fifty Tramps Per Last of the Prisoners Were at Work Making Shoes, Clothing, Socks, Etc.

A party of Salt Lakers, accompanied by a representative of the "News," paid a visit to the State prisons yesterday afternoon and in Warden Dyer were courteously shown through that institution. The visitors were not exceptional but never before were such a party and their curiosity and delight at what they saw can hardly be imagined by those who were not present. The party included two men on account of the "Rebel" race Captain Dinwoody, now doing duty on that road.

After the usual formalities were over with, consisting of an introduction to Warden Dyer, the party, some 20 in number, were shown into the prison office. Mr. Dyer, in a few words, explained how each "ready to walk." Deputies had an assurance that they were, the big gates were thrown open for a time and the party walked in. Here they were shown inside the big prison walls.

No names were taken except those of the visitors, and no questions were asked by the prisoners. Mr. Dyer, in the course of his remarks, said that the prisoners were not allowed to converse with each other, and the party were shown how this rule was enforced.

The first thing noticed was the cells, consisting of an immense number of small rooms, each with a door of iron bars. Each cell is provided with a bed, chair, table, water pitcher and bowl, and a bucket. Each prisoner is furnished with a suit of clothes, underclothing, socks and shoes. Each suit consists of a coat, vest and pants, and is made of a material known as "shoddy." The color of the suits is a dark blue, with a white stripe down the pants leg. The prisoners are allowed to wear their own underclothing, socks and shoes, but must wear the prison suit. The prisoners are allowed to receive clothing from their friends, but must wear the prison suit. The prisoners are allowed to receive clothing from their friends, but must wear the prison suit.
