

DESERET EVENING NEWS.

VOL. VIII.

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH TERRITORY, WEDNESDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 9, 1874.

NO. 15.

GEORGE A. ALDER,

AGENT,

Wholesale and Retail Dealer

BOOTS, SHOES, HATS, CAPS,

Ladies' Furs, Gents' Gloves, Etc.

Has recently opened, and has the finest stock of the above goods in the Market, all of which he will sell

VERY LOW FOR CASH,

At the Yellow Boot,

57 MAIN STREET.

N.B.—Leather and Findings of all kinds a Specialty.

LIME! LIME!

At the Mammoth Mills. For good work, PLASTERERS will use no other but

LIME!

The fact has long been established that no other

LIME!

In this vicinity gives such entire satisfaction.

BEST.

For laying your foundations, for rock work, for laying bricks, and for every other purpose, use no other. It makes 20 per cent. more mortar than any other offered in the market. Being in close vicinity to the railroad, we are prepared to deliver it at any railroad depot from Ogden to Provo.

A great discount allowed to furnaces using it in quantities for heating purposes.

Killing Station at Hot Spring Lake. P. O. Box 1202.

OFFICE—COMMERCIAL STREET

SALT LAKE CITY.

SALT LAKE CITY IRON CO.,

HAVING PURCHASED THE SALT LAKE IRON WORKS, AND ADDED THEREto the Tools and Machinery belonging to Wm. J. SILVER, are prepared to do

ALL KINDS OF

Iron and Brass Casting,

FORGING, TURNING,

BORING and FITTING UP.

WM. J. SILVER,

SUPERINTENDENT.

Half Block South of R. R. Depot.

I will say to my former customers and all others who may favor us with their work, that I will guarantee that strict attention to accuracy which has always characterized my establishment.

N.B.—Drawings, Plans and Specifications of all kinds of Mill-work and Machinery.

BANKERS.

THE

DESERET NATIONAL BANK

Of Salt Lake City, Utah.

Paid up Capital, — $200,000

Authorized Capital, — $1,000,000

WM. H. HOOPER, President.

JOHN H. JENNINGS, Vice-President.

JOHN H. JENNINGS, Cashier.

JOHN H. JENNINGS, Secretary.

Deals in Exchange, Coins, Gold Dust, College Scrips, etc.

Collections made and promptly remitted.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE FOR SALE.

Interest paid on Savings Deposits.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

OF UTAH,

Salt Lake City.

DESIGNATED DEPOSITORY AND FIDUCIARY AGENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

WALTER HUNTER, President.

AMORY GOODWIN, Cashier.

Authorized Capital, — $500,000

Paid up Capital, — $150,000

Earnings, — $175,000

Oldest Banking Institution in Utah.

A General Banking Business Transacted.

Agencies in Colorado and Montana.

Collections Promptly Attended To.

Interest Allowed on Time Deposits.

DAVIS, HOWE & CO.

FOUNDRY & MACHINE

SHOP,

SUCCESSORS TO

Nathan Davis & Sons.

All kinds of Milling and Mining Machinery, Wrought and Cast Ironwork, manufactured to order.

WATER JACKS, PUMPS, BLAST FURNACES, STEAM ENGINES, BOILING MACHINERY, OIL PRESSES, ETC.

Also Repair Work of all Descriptions.

First West Street,

Near North Temple Street.

S. J. Cornell, C. W. Watson and T. W. Ireland

Having this day formed a partnership under the name of

CORRELL, WATSON & IRELAND

Have re-stocked and re-fitted the store formerly occupied by R. B. B. & Co. and are prepared to furnish parties in want of

CROCKERY, CHINA,

GLASSWARE, ETC.

LAMP GOODS AND OILS.

Reduced Prices.

Orders from the Country or the different Mining Camps promptly filled and satisfaction guaranteed.

Give us a trial and be convinced.

Mitchell & Jones

REMOVED

West Temple Street.

Opposite the City Hall.

Where they have, by strict attention to business and small profits to secure the confidence and patronage of the public.

Tin, Sheet Iron & Copper Work.

Galvanized Iron Corners, Gas Water and Steam Fittings.

Foreign Work and Coasting.

JOHN HENNER.

CUTLER, LOCK AND SHEDDING.

SAVING SHEDDING, MOVERS, REPAIRING, ETC.

STOCKED, 2nd Street.

COMMERCIAL STREET.

ON JUDY ST.

W. H. HOOPER.

SUP.

By Telegraph.

FOR WEDNESDAY EVENING TELEGRAPH LINE.

Last Night's Dispatches.

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

Government Telegraph Line, 400

WASHINGTON, 8.—West introduced a bill for the construction of a government telegraph line between the cities of Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, and Hartford, to be operated in the post offices of those cities under the direction of the P. M. General. As to operation, tariff, etc., it is provided that the rates shall be uniform to all persons, with a proper uniform reduction to newspapers; the rates to be adjusted so as not to exceed the expense of operating and maintaining said line, and providing a net income of five per cent. on the original cost, and appropriating $200,000 for the construction of the line.

Chandler introduced a bill providing that section 10 of the national currency act of 1862 and section 9 of act of July 13, 1866 shall not be construed, either in pending cases or otherwise, to apply to evidences of indebtedness issued by any corporation, or by individuals, except banks or bankers, prior to the adoption of such evidence of indebtedness issued thereafter upon positive proof of their being calculated and intended to circulate as money.

HOUSE.

Various Bills Introduced.

Bills were introduced by McCarty for the extinguishment of the Indian title to the Black Hills reservation, Dakota, by Holman to substitute U. S. notes for issues of the national banks; by Beck to provide for the national, representatives and delegates in Congress from acting as counsel or otherwise in suits or proceedings against the U. S.; he moved the reference to the committee on ways and means. Butler, of Maine, introduced a bill for the committee on the proper reference. Beck said the bill pertained to revenue cases, and he intimated the employment of a New York senator in the tax case of the N. Y. Central Railroad Company.

On motion of Randall, there being no objection, the House proceeded to the consideration of the bill, and after the adoption of an amendment omitting from the bill a provision disqualifying the bill without objection, the bill passed without objection.

The bill prohibits any senator, representative or delegate in Congress from acting as counsel or otherwise in any suits or proceedings against the U. S., and fixes the penalty at a fine not exceeding $5,000 and imprisonment not exceeding one year, at the discretion of the court, for such services to bring a suit to recover the same.

Crounse introduced a bill for admission of new territory from Nebraska.

E. H. Roberts introduced a bill proposing amendments to the Constitution, providing that Congress shall not make anything but gold and silver coin a legal tender in payment of individual debts, and that no law shall be enacted imposing obligations or contracts.

Merrill introduced a bill providing for free banking.

Page introduced a resolution instructing the committee on foreign affairs to inquire whether any legislation or government action is necessary to prevent the exportation or importation of coals on contract for service labor and Chinese women for purposes of prostitution.

Randall introduced a bill for the President's salary.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the general calendar, and after laying aside several bills without objection, took up Kelly's bill for the exchange of greenbacks into 85 convertible bonds, and Kelly secured support of his bill. He was followed by Butler, of Mass., who advocated the bill, claiming that it was in accord with the position he had held on the subject for many years. If a person wanted money as a business loan he could not borrow it on commercial paper at any rate. Because it was understood that Congress and the executive were determined to contract the currency until specie payment was made, and that the currency never would be, it was always a delusion, but specie values they would come to, and the currency would be worth as much as specie.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the general calendar, and after laying aside several bills without objection, took up Kelly's bill for the exchange of greenbacks into 85 convertible bonds, and Kelly secured support of his bill. He was followed by Butler, of Mass., who advocated the bill, claiming that it was in accord with the position he had held on the subject for many years. If a person wanted money as a business loan he could not borrow it on commercial paper at any rate. Because it was understood that Congress and the executive were determined to contract the currency until specie payment was made, and that the currency never would be, it was always a delusion, but specie values they would come to, and the currency would be worth as much as specie.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the general calendar, and after laying aside several bills without objection, took up Kelly's bill for the exchange of greenbacks into 85 convertible bonds, and Kelly secured support of his bill. He was followed by Butler, of Mass., who advocated the bill, claiming that it was in accord with the position he had held on the subject for many years. If a person wanted money as a business loan he could not borrow it on commercial paper at any rate. Because it was understood that Congress and the executive were determined to contract the currency until specie payment was made, and that the currency never would be, it was always a delusion, but specie values they would come to, and the currency would be worth as much as specie.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the general calendar, and after laying aside several bills without objection, took up Kelly's bill for the exchange of greenbacks into 85 convertible bonds, and Kelly secured support of his bill. He was followed by Butler, of Mass., who advocated the bill, claiming that it was in accord with the position he had held on the subject for many years. If a person wanted money as a business loan he could not borrow it on commercial paper at any rate. Because it was understood that Congress and the executive were determined to contract the currency until specie payment was made, and that the currency never would be, it was always a delusion, but specie values they would come to, and the currency would be worth as much as specie.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the general calendar, and after laying aside several bills without objection, took up Kelly's bill for the exchange of greenbacks into 85 convertible bonds, and Kelly secured support of his bill. He was followed by Butler, of Mass., who advocated the bill, claiming that it was in accord with the position he had held on the subject for many years. If a person wanted money as a business loan he could not borrow it on commercial paper at any rate. Because it was understood that Congress and the executive were determined to contract the currency until specie payment was made, and that the currency never would be, it was always a delusion, but specie values they would come to, and the currency would be worth as much as specie.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the general calendar, and after laying aside several bills without objection, took up Kelly's bill for the exchange of greenbacks into 85 convertible bonds, and Kelly secured support of his bill. He was followed by Butler, of Mass., who advocated the bill, claiming that it was in accord with the position he had held on the subject for many years. If a person wanted money as a business loan he could not borrow it on commercial paper at any rate. Because it was understood that Congress and the executive were determined to contract the currency until specie payment was made, and that the currency never would be, it was always a delusion, but specie values they would come to, and the currency would be worth as much as specie.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the general calendar, and after laying aside several bills without objection, took up Kelly's bill for the exchange of greenbacks into 85 convertible bonds, and Kelly secured support of his bill. He was followed by Butler, of Mass., who advocated the bill, claiming that it was in accord with the position he had held on the subject for many years. If a person wanted money as a business loan he could not borrow it on commercial paper at any rate. Because it was understood that Congress and the executive were determined to contract the currency until specie payment was made, and that the currency never would be, it was always a delusion, but specie values they would come to, and the currency would be worth as much as specie.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the general calendar, and after laying aside several bills without objection, took up Kelly's bill for the exchange of greenbacks into 85 convertible bonds, and Kelly secured support of his bill. He was followed by Butler, of Mass., who advocated the bill, claiming that it was in accord with the position he had held on the subject for many years. If a person wanted money as a business loan he could not borrow it on commercial paper at any rate. Because it was understood that Congress and the executive were determined to contract the currency until specie payment was made, and that the currency never would be, it was always a delusion, but specie values they would come to, and the currency would be worth as much as specie.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the general calendar, and after laying aside several bills without objection, took up Kelly's bill for the exchange of greenbacks into 85 convertible bonds, and Kelly secured support of his bill. He was followed by Butler, of Mass., who advocated the bill, claiming that it was in accord with the position he had held on the subject for many years. If a person wanted money as a business loan he could not borrow it on commercial paper at any rate. Because it was understood that Congress and the executive were determined to contract the currency until specie payment was made, and that the currency never would be, it was always a delusion, but specie values they would come to, and the currency would be worth as much as specie.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the general calendar, and after laying aside several bills without objection, took up Kelly's bill for the exchange of greenbacks into 85 convertible bonds, and Kelly secured support of his bill. He was followed by Butler, of Mass., who advocated the bill, claiming that it was in accord with the position he had held on the subject for many years. If a person wanted money as a business loan he could not borrow it on commercial paper at any rate. Because it was understood that Congress and the executive were determined to contract the currency until specie payment was made, and that the currency never would be, it was always a delusion, but specie values they would come to, and the currency would be worth as much as specie.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the general calendar, and after laying aside several bills without objection, took up Kelly's bill for the exchange of greenbacks into 85 convertible bonds, and Kelly secured support of his bill. He was followed by Butler, of Mass., who advocated the bill, claiming that it was in accord with the position he had held on the subject for many years. If a person wanted money as a business loan he could not borrow it on commercial paper at any rate. Because it was understood that Congress and the executive were determined to contract the currency until specie payment was made, and that the currency never would be, it was always a delusion, but specie values they would come to, and the currency would be worth as much as specie.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the general calendar, and after laying aside several bills without objection, took up Kelly's bill for the exchange of greenbacks into 85 convertible bonds, and Kelly secured support of his bill. He was followed by Butler, of Mass., who advocated the bill, claiming that it was in accord with the position he had held on the subject for many years. If a person wanted money as a business loan he could not borrow it on commercial paper at any rate. Because it was understood that Congress and the executive were determined to contract the currency until specie payment was made, and that the currency never would be, it was always a delusion, but specie values they would come to, and the currency would be worth as much as specie.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the general calendar, and after laying aside several bills without objection, took up Kelly's bill for the exchange of greenbacks into 85 convertible bonds, and Kelly secured support of his bill. He was followed by Butler, of Mass., who advocated the bill, claiming that it was in accord with the position he had held on the subject for many years. If a person wanted money as a business loan he could not borrow it on commercial paper at any rate. Because it was understood that Congress and the executive were determined to contract the currency until specie payment was made, and that the currency never would be, it was always a delusion, but specie values they would come to, and the currency would be worth as much as specie.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the general calendar, and after laying aside several bills without objection, took up Kelly's bill for the exchange of greenbacks into 85 convertible bonds, and Kelly secured support of his bill. He was followed by Butler, of Mass., who advocated the bill, claiming that it was in accord with the position he had held on the subject for many years. If a person wanted money as a business loan he could not borrow it on commercial paper at any rate. Because it was understood that Congress and the executive were determined to contract the currency until specie payment was made, and that the currency never would be, it was always a delusion, but specie values they would come to, and the currency would be worth as much as specie.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the general calendar, and after laying aside several bills without objection, took up Kelly's bill for the exchange of greenbacks into 85 convertible bonds, and Kelly secured support of his bill. He was followed by Butler, of Mass., who advocated the bill, claiming that it was in accord with the position he had held on the subject for many years. If a person wanted money as a business loan he could not borrow it on commercial paper at any rate. Because it was understood that Congress and the executive were determined to contract the currency until specie payment was made, and that the currency never would be, it was always a delusion, but specie values they would come to, and the currency would be worth as much as specie.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the general calendar, and after laying aside several bills without objection, took up Kelly's bill for the exchange of greenbacks into 85 convertible bonds, and Kelly secured support of his bill. He was followed by Butler, of Mass., who advocated the bill, claiming that it was in accord with the position he had held on the subject for many years. If a person wanted money as a business loan he could not borrow it on commercial paper at any rate. Because it was understood that Congress and the executive were determined to contract the currency until specie payment was made, and that the currency never would be, it was always a delusion, but specie values they would come to, and the currency would be worth as much as specie.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the general calendar, and after laying aside several bills without objection, took up Kelly's bill for the exchange of greenbacks into 85 convertible bonds, and Kelly secured support of his bill. He was followed by Butler, of Mass., who advocated the bill, claiming that it was in accord with the position he had held on the subject for many years. If a person wanted money as a business loan he could not borrow it on commercial paper at any rate. Because it was understood that Congress and the executive were determined to contract the currency until specie payment was made, and that the currency never would be, it was always a delusion, but specie values they would come to, and the currency would be worth as much as specie.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the general calendar, and after laying aside several bills without objection, took up Kelly's bill for the exchange of greenbacks into 85 convertible bonds, and Kelly secured support of his bill. He was followed by Butler, of Mass., who advocated the bill, claiming that it was in accord with the position he had held on the subject for many years. If a person wanted money as a business loan he could not borrow it on commercial paper at any rate. Because it was understood that Congress and the executive were determined to contract the currency until specie payment was made, and that the currency never would be, it was always a delusion, but specie values they would come to, and the currency would be worth as much as specie.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the general calendar, and after laying aside several bills without objection, took up Kelly's bill for the exchange of greenbacks into 85 convertible bonds, and Kelly secured support of his bill. He was followed by Butler, of Mass., who advocated the bill, claiming that it was in accord with the position he had held on the subject for many years. If a person wanted money as a business loan he could not borrow it on commercial paper at any rate. Because it was understood that Congress and the executive were determined to contract the currency until specie payment was made, and that the currency never would be, it was always a delusion, but specie values they would come to, and the currency would be worth as much as specie.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the general calendar, and after laying aside several bills without objection, took up Kelly's bill for the exchange of greenbacks into 85 convertible bonds, and Kelly secured support of his bill. He was followed by Butler, of Mass., who advocated the bill, claiming that it was in accord with the position he had held on the subject for many years. If a person wanted money as a business loan he could not borrow it on commercial paper at any rate. Because it was understood that Congress and the executive were determined to contract the currency until specie payment was made, and that the currency never would be, it was always a delusion, but specie values they would come to, and the currency would be worth as much as specie.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the general calendar, and after laying aside several bills without objection, took up Kelly's bill for the exchange of greenbacks into 85 convertible bonds, and Kelly secured support of his bill. He was followed by Butler, of Mass., who advocated the bill, claiming that it was in accord with the position he had held on the subject for many years. If a person wanted money as a business loan he could not borrow it on commercial paper at any rate. Because it was understood that Congress and the executive were determined to contract the currency until specie payment was made, and that the currency never would be, it was always a delusion, but specie values they would come to, and the currency would be worth as much as specie.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the general calendar, and after laying aside several bills without objection, took up Kelly's bill for the exchange of greenbacks into 85 convertible bonds, and Kelly secured support of his bill. He was followed by Butler, of Mass., who advocated the bill, claiming that it was in accord with the position he had held on the subject for many years. If a person wanted money as a business loan he could not borrow it on commercial paper at any rate. Because it was understood that Congress and the executive were determined to contract the currency until specie payment was made, and that the currency never would be, it was always a delusion, but specie values they would come to, and the currency would be worth as much as specie.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the general calendar, and after laying aside several bills without objection, took up Kelly's bill for the exchange of greenbacks into 85 convertible bonds, and Kelly secured support of his bill. He was followed by Butler, of Mass., who advocated the bill, claiming that it was in accord with the position he had held on the subject for many years. If a person wanted money as a business loan he could not borrow it on commercial paper at any rate. Because it was understood that Congress and the executive were determined to contract the currency until specie payment was made, and that the currency never would be, it was always a delusion, but specie values they would come to, and the currency would be worth as much as specie.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the general calendar, and after laying aside several bills without objection, took up Kelly's bill for the exchange of greenbacks into 85 convertible bonds, and Kelly secured support of his bill. He was followed by Butler, of Mass., who advocated the bill, claiming that it was in accord with the position he had held on the subject for many years. If a person wanted money as a business loan he could not borrow it on commercial paper at any rate. Because it was understood that Congress and the executive were determined to contract the currency until specie payment was made, and that the currency never would be, it was always a delusion, but specie values they would come to, and the currency would be worth as much as specie.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the general calendar, and after laying aside several bills without objection, took up Kelly's bill for the exchange of greenbacks into 85 convertible bonds, and Kelly secured support of his bill. He was followed by Butler, of Mass., who advocated the bill, claiming that it was in accord with the position he had held on the subject for many years. If a person wanted money as a business loan he could not borrow it on commercial paper at any rate. Because it was understood that Congress and the executive were determined to contract the currency until specie payment was made, and that the currency never would be, it was always a delusion, but specie values they would come to, and the currency would be worth as much as specie.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the general calendar, and after laying aside several bills without objection, took up Kelly's bill for the exchange of greenbacks into 85 convertible bonds, and Kelly secured support of his bill. He was followed by Butler, of Mass., who advocated the bill, claiming that it was in accord with the position he had held on the subject for many years. If a person wanted money as a business loan he could not borrow it on commercial paper at any rate. Because it was understood that Congress and the executive were determined to contract the currency until specie payment was made, and that the currency never would be, it was always a delusion, but specie values they would come to, and the currency would be worth as much as specie.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the general calendar, and after laying aside several bills without objection, took up Kelly's bill for the exchange of greenbacks into 85 convertible bonds, and Kelly secured support of his bill. He was followed by Butler, of Mass., who advocated the bill, claiming that it was in accord with the position he had held on the subject for many years. If a person wanted money as a business loan he could not borrow it on commercial paper at any rate. Because it was understood that Congress and the executive were determined to contract the currency until specie payment was made, and that the currency never would be, it was always a delusion, but specie values they would come to, and the currency would be worth as much as specie.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the general calendar, and after laying aside several bills without objection, took up Kelly's bill for the exchange of greenbacks into 85 convertible bonds, and Kelly secured support of his bill. He was followed by Butler, of Mass., who advocated the bill, claiming that it was in accord with the position he had held on the subject for many years. If a person wanted money as a business loan he could not borrow it on commercial paper at any rate. Because it was understood that Congress and the executive were determined to contract the currency until specie payment was made, and that the currency never would be, it was always a delusion, but specie values they would come to, and the currency would be worth as much as specie.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the general calendar, and after laying aside several bills without objection, took up Kelly's bill for the exchange of greenbacks into 85 convertible bonds, and Kelly secured support of his bill. He was followed by Butler, of Mass., who advocated the bill, claiming that it was in accord with the position he had held on the subject for many years. If a person wanted money as a business loan he could not borrow it on commercial paper at any rate. Because it was understood that Congress and the executive were determined to contract the currency until specie payment was made, and that the currency never would be, it was always a delusion, but specie values they would come to, and the currency would be worth as much as specie.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the general calendar, and after laying aside several bills without objection, took up Kelly's bill for the exchange of greenbacks into 85 convertible bonds, and Kelly secured support of his bill. He was followed by Butler, of Mass., who advocated the bill, claiming that it was in accord with the position he had held on the subject for many years. If a person wanted money as a business loan he could not borrow it on commercial paper at any rate. Because it was understood that Congress and the executive were determined to contract the currency until specie payment was made, and that the currency never would be, it was always a delusion, but specie values they would come to, and the currency would be worth as much as specie.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the general calendar, and after laying aside several bills without objection, took up Kelly's bill for the exchange of greenbacks into 85 convertible bonds, and Kelly secured support of his bill. He was followed by Butler, of Mass., who advocated the bill, claiming that it was in accord with the position he had held on the subject for many years. If a person wanted money as a business loan he could not borrow it on commercial paper at any rate. Because it was understood that Congress and the executive were determined to contract the currency until specie payment was made, and that the currency never would be, it was always a delusion, but specie values they would come to, and the currency would be worth as much as specie.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the general calendar, and after laying aside several bills without objection, took up Kelly's bill for the exchange of greenbacks into 85 convertible bonds, and Kelly secured support of his bill. He was followed by Butler, of Mass., who advocated the bill, claiming that it was in accord with the position he had held on the subject for many years. If a person wanted money as a business loan he could not borrow it on commercial paper at any rate. Because it was understood that Congress and the executive were determined to contract the currency until specie payment was made, and that the currency never would be, it was always a delusion, but specie values they would come to, and the currency would be worth as much as specie.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the general calendar, and after laying aside several bills without objection, took up Kelly's bill for the exchange of greenbacks into 85 convertible bonds, and Kelly secured support of his bill. He was followed by Butler, of Mass., who advocated the bill, claiming that it was in accord with the position he had held on the subject for many years. If a person wanted money as a business loan he could not borrow it on commercial paper at any rate. Because it was understood that Congress and the executive were determined to contract the currency until specie payment was made, and that the currency never would be, it was always a delusion, but specie values they would come to, and the currency would be worth as much as specie.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the general calendar, and after laying aside several bills without objection, took up Kelly's bill for the exchange of greenbacks into 85 convertible bonds, and Kelly secured support of his bill. He was followed by Butler, of Mass., who advocated the bill, claiming that it was in accord with the position he had held on the subject for many years. If a person wanted money as a business loan he could not borrow it on commercial paper at any rate. Because it was understood that Congress and the executive were determined to contract the currency until specie payment was made, and that the currency never would be, it was always a delusion, but specie values they would come to, and the currency would be worth as much as specie.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the general calendar, and after laying aside several bills without objection, took up Kelly's bill for the exchange of greenbacks into 85 convertible bonds, and Kelly secured support of his bill. He was followed by Butler, of Mass., who advocated the bill, claiming that it was in accord with the position he had held on the subject for many years. If a person wanted money as a business loan he could not borrow it on commercial paper at any rate. Because it was understood that Congress and the executive were determined to contract the currency until specie payment was made, and that the currency never would be, it was always a delusion, but specie values they would come to, and the currency would be worth as much as specie.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the general calendar, and after laying aside several bills without objection, took up Kelly's bill for the exchange of greenbacks into 85 convertible bonds, and Kelly secured support of his bill. He was followed by Butler, of Mass., who advocated the bill, claiming that it was in accord with the position he had held on the subject for many years. If a person wanted money as a business loan he could not borrow it on commercial paper at any rate. Because it was understood that Congress and the executive were determined to contract the currency until specie