

SOCIAL CHAT

The week commenced with some pretty affairs, mostly of an informal nature. At the Emery-Holmes cafe Miss Genevieve Horlick gave a luncheon in honor of Miss Helen Gillespie, the table being beautifully decorated in pink, with a bed of pink asters as a centerpiece, and tiny baskets of pink sweet peas at each place tied with pink ribbons, while a dainty silver spoon was at Miss Gillespie's place as a souvenir. Mrs. Frank Schirmer of Boston, Mrs. John Henry Walker, Mrs. Frank Lowe, Mrs. Frederick St. Claire, Mrs. R. G. Schuller, Miss Helen Beattie, Miss Alleen Maclean, Miss Leslie Kerr of Chicago, Miss Helen Bamberger, Miss Alice Miller, Miss Margie Miller, Miss Polly Wakeling, Miss Gertrude Hanson, Miss Fannie Bird and Miss Louise Bascom.

Miss Alice Martineau was guest of honor at a souvenir shower party on Tuesday afternoon given by Miss Jean Spencer at her home on First street. The rooms were prettily decorated in pink and white, and an amusing feature was a question contest, which Mrs. Kate H. Snow was prize winner. Miss Martineau received many dainty gifts. Present were Mrs. Howe, Mrs. Harriet M. Gowans, Misses Rhoda Rogers, Lucy Farnsworth, Louis Moyle, Gertrude Moyle, Helen Whitney, Mary Preston, Sarah Thatcher, Reta Peyer, Lena Moyle, Hattie Whitney, Kate Snow, Grace C. Woolley, Maud Ritter.

Miss Marie Varley entertained at a china shower at her home for Miss Susie Blinn Monday evening.

Mrs. George Curtis entertained informally at a luncheon on Thursday in honor of Mrs. Dorsey Ash. The table was decorated in pink and white and covers were laid for six.

D. H. Peery entertained at an elaborate dinner at the Country club on Tuesday night, about 20 being present. The table was decorated in American Beauty roses.

James A. Pollock was one of the hosts at the Country club on Tuesday night, entertaining about 14 friends at dinner.

The Misses Lois and Leda Morris entertained at a dinner on Thursday in honor of their brother, who returns shortly to college. The rooms and table were effectively decorated with sunflowers, asters and amilies and covers were laid for 14.

Madam Pholiz and Mrs. G. B. Pholiz entertain at bridge on Friday afternoon, September 22.

Another pretty luncheon given at the Emery-Holmes on Monday was that at which Mrs. H. G. Brockman was hostess, her function being in honor of her sister, Miss Anna Fiedler of Portland. The table had for a centerpiece a star-shaped bed of pink and white asters, and pink and white place cards were used. The friends to meet Miss Fiedler were: Mrs. C. B. Diehl, Mrs. Thomas Marioneaux, Mrs. William Clark, Mrs. H. C. Brownlee, Mrs. H. L. Nelson, Mrs. A. A. Moulton, Mrs. Elizabeth H. Coray and Miss Genevieve Clark.

On Wednesday Mrs. J. J. Judson was hostess at an informal luncheon at the Commercial club, entertaining in honor of Mrs. Turner of Texas, and Mrs. Evans and Mrs. Jones of Cincinnati. The table was decorated in white and green, and covers were laid for nine.

Mrs. J. H. Richards entertained at luncheon at the Commercial club on Thursday in honor of Miss Jean Odell, the affair being an exceedingly pretty one.

Miss Eloise Sadler gave a delightful whist party Thursday night in honor of George Scott, who is visiting here with friends. The decorations, scores and billies were in Yale blue, and 11 tables were played.

Miss Florence Grant entertained informally today in honor of Miss Luvera Snow.

THE BLACK PICTURE HAT.

The millinery modes of the season are characterized by any number of peculiar effects. Many of the new styles in hats bid fair to be most trying for any except the most stylish of women who by their own personality can carry with grace even the most bizarre effects in dress. But in the face of the new modes in millinery there are many women who consider becomingness the first requisite in a hat and hold to the large, low, flat styles, that have prevailed and are more or less the mode in any and all seasons. A splendid type of this hat is shown in the illustration. This is a hat suitable for use throughout the year, and particularly well adapted for between seasons, just such a time as now is, when summer hats are apt to be shabby and it is yet too early to put on a regular fall hat. A beautiful model is made of plating of black velvet, trimmed with chiffon velvet, a big jet buckle and a big plume of black feathers swinging low from the under brim of the hat.

ing performed in the Temple during the day and a large reception taking place in the evening at the home of the groom's parents, Bishop and Mrs. Joseph Dean. About 125 guests, among them relatives from Idaho and Wyoming, sat down to an elaborate wedding supper and afterward the young people enjoyed dancing on the lawn where a floor was laid, an orchestra furnishing delightful music. The rooms were bright with a profusion of flowers and vines, the costumes were of the daintiest, and the affair altogether a delightful one. Mr. and Mrs. Dean have gone to St. Louis for a time but will return here to reside.

An out of town wedding which will be of interest to many Salt Lake people was that of Miss Ethel Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Art D. Young of Ogden, and Mr. A. W. Jacobs of Rochester, N. Y. The event took place at the bride's home in Ogden, in the presence of only the relatives and most intimate friends, Rev. Elmer I. Goheen performing an impressive service. The rooms were bright with a profusion of flowers, the parlor being exquisitely done in white and green, with white honeysuckle the only flowers. The dining room was in pink and white, carnations in the two colors being effectively used. The chandelier was festooned with Virginia creeper, the whole making an effective picture. The bride wore a simple gown of sheer white muslin, with yoke of real lace, and no more charming bride has been seen in the state's domain. The ceremony was performed at noon, and afterward about 20 sat down to an elaborate luncheon. Later Mr. and Mrs. Jacobs left for Rochester, New York, where they will reside. They will be followed by the best wishes of a host of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. James Anderson announce the engagement of their daughter, Bertha E., to Mr. Orson C. Kleinmann, the marriage to take place in October.

A quiet wedding of the week was that of Miss Jessie Zulu Davis and Mr. Arthur Bird, which took place Thursday, Sept. 14. The marriage was solemnized in the Temple and followed by a pretty luncheon at the home of the bride's father in Forest Dale, only the immediate relatives being present. Mr. and Mrs. Bird have gone to Springfield to reside.

The wedding of Miss Eloise Sherman and George Jay Olson will take place next Wednesday at Miss Sherman's home on First street.

The marriage of Miss Clara Young Douglass and Mr. Hyrum Bergstrom takes place next Wednesday, the ceremony to be solemnized in the Temple.

Mrs. ARTHUR CATON.
MRS. MARSHALL FIELD.

This is an excellent photograph of Mrs. Marshall Field, who was Mrs. Arthur Caton until recently. Marshall Field, who is known all over the country for his widespread commercial interests, was married to Mrs. Caton on Sept. 5, at St. Margaret's Church, of London, by Rev. Francis Campbell. Only immediate relatives and closest friends were present, and among them Ambassador and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid. Mrs. Field is reputed to be worth between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000. She not only inherited her husband's estate, but a large part of her father's property. Mrs. Caton, who is 45 years old, was Miss Della Spencer, daughter of the founder of the successful wholesale hardware establishment, Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co. For years she has been second to none in Chicago society. Marshall Field, whose wealth is estimated at from $100,000,000 to $120,000,000, was 70 years old August 18 last.

PRINCESS OF WALES AIDS THE POOR.

The Princess of Wales has added to her popularity among the poor of England by taking an active part in the new plans for the protection of child life in the great industrial centers.

Soon after the Boer war interest in England was awakened to the deterioration in the physique of the inhabitants of the great cities, and now there are several societies which have for their object the instruction of the poorer classes in the proper manner of bringing up their children. The Society of Physical Education, started a year ago, has been hailed with enthusiasm by people of prominence, and particularly by army men, who viewed the deterioration in the physique of the army recruits with the greatest alarm.

The Princess of Wales has given her support and approval to a scheme originated by Mayor Broadbent, of Huddersfield, who is a brother of Sir William Broadbent, the king's physician.
