CONTEMPTUOUS.

II. CHRONICLES.—CHAP. 9.

Behold in the last days strange things continued to come to pass, even so much so that sober-minded people were astonished. Notwithstanding in the past the Judges and Inquisitors were fond of contempt, yet another man, even a commissioner being clothed with a little brief authority, was desirous of contempt, even to the amount of about $150.

Therefore he did ponder much how he might be able to bring it about, for he desired this much, even with an exceeding great desire.

Now when he heard there was a certain young woman in the Nineteenth Ward, whom he thought might be contemptuous, he did send straightway and have her brought before him, for he was anxious in this thing, therefore he manifested considerable zeal.

And when she was brought before him she was duly arraigned and they straightway began to put questions to her, but behold she held her tongue, therefore in order to let the contempt accumulate, he did continue the case from time to time.

And about the fourth hour of the day she was again examined, and she was quizzed, something in this wise:

Are you a married lady? Have you ever, since you were fourteen years of age, gone through any marriage ceremony? And divers other questions were asked, but she held her peace and answered not.

Therefore he did ask her: "Have you been instructed, or is this thing voluntary with you?" and she said unto him: "I do it of my own free will."

Then he said unto her: "Do you know the consequences?" Therefore she was adjudged contemptuous to the amount of about fifty dollars. The next day being the Sabbath and a day of rest, the case rested, notwithstanding she was sent to the place in the midst of the adobies, aforetime prepared for such people.

They did this thing that she might ruminate. Now when the next day was come, the case was again continued, but with the same result; therefore this time the contempt was accumulated to the amount of one hundred dollars, so his honor (?) seemed to have his soul satisfied for a time, for the shekels that were hoped to be obtained by such proceedings were great.

Notwithstanding this man knew this case should be straightway taken before the inquisitors, and the same routine of shekels follow, yet he desired to do these things in order that some of the shekels might find their way into his great money bag.

Therefore, be it known, this contempt is getting to be a big thing, and because of this it causeth the crusaders to rejoice, but the time cometh when they shall be held in derision. Nevertheless contempt may continue to abound in divers cases, even as it is merited by those who sit in judgment and condemn or write scandal about the innocent. All such shall ye hold in supreme contempt.

And when they shall revile you and print all manner of evil about you, and begin to stir up commotion in the midst of the people, shall not they be held in contempt? Verily I say unto you, they shall, for hath not their master done such things from the beginning?

When ye see the Commissioner aided by the chief lawyer, and backed by the inquisitors, and when the chief ruler ruleth the thing proper, know ye not they are in much contempt, even to the being of a stink in the nostrils of all good men?

And when the sneaks and spotters crawl around your houses in the dark hours of the night, prying into the condition of your neighbors, and circulating all manner of false reports, ye shall hold them in disgust and contempt.

And when the great men of the crusade chuckle to themselves, and have much sport in their secret councils, and plan with exceeding great craft how they may catch the people, and inflict punishment upon them, ye shall say great is our contempt for these things. And when the Sadducees and Scribes, and other sects arise in your midst, and expound the Scriptures and twist them into various meanings to suit themselves, and deny the purer things of the law of God, behold they are already in contempt.

And when ye see such things smothered up as the Irons case and the Ames case, and other cases, wherein great abominations hath been done, doth not God hold them in contempt, and will He not mock when their calamity cometh?

And when harlots visit certain men in secret places, and doth tarry unto the gratification of their desires, and they sneer at the purity of plural women, verily, verily I say unto you, great is the contempt in store for them.

And when men who are corrupt, and who commit certain blasphemous things in secret, and who seek to cover their shame by the cloak of piety, are loud in denouncing the Saints, behold they are already adjudged in much contempt: yea to such an extent that the amount of their penalty has not been yet computed.

Woe is unto all such, for verily they shall be cast out into outer darkness, and their prison bands shall be strong; yea, they shall not escape, for they must pay the uttermost farthing.

Verily, verily I say unto you, these shall not escape the hot places of hell; yea, their abode shall be in apartments near the Tribune office, for what greater punishment could be inflicted upon them than this, even to be the companion of such men?

Yea, methinks Satan himself doth sometimes blush at such things as transpire and are done by the crusaders.

Know ye not that in a certain city in the east there is an institution called Tom-sonian, even so in the beautiful city of the west there is an institution called Dick-sonian, but Tom is no relation to Dick.

For behold in the Dicksonian institute there are many wonderful things done and performed, and are they not all recorded in the great books that are kept for that purpose?

But who knoweth of all the secret acts that are done, and of the great things that are concocted therein? Verily I say unto you, though they seek to hide these things from men, yet the day cometh when all their secret acts shall be made known, and shame shall cover them from the head to the foot.

For many of the doings might be made known, that it is not wisdom to make known at this time; for it is not meet that all the things that are found out should go into the papers; for some things are done by shadow of law, and some things are done wherein there is no shadow, save the dark shadow of the night, wherein they seek to hide up their doings.

Therefore, it mattereth not to the Saints at this time, but know ye that though there be great moves made, yet shall they fail; though institutes abound, yet shall they vanish; though the king may quietly take notes of all their proceedings, and may have men appointed who are on the watch, and appear to not note these things, yet a time of reckoning will come.

Yea, know ye not that a higher power ruleth, who seeth all things, and knoweth all things, and whose eye of compassion is moved; and who hath said when it is enough, even when they fill the cup to the brim, that they shall vanish away and no place be found for them.

Therefore, be not like those who live in borrowed light, but be patient in tribulation, for whether there be judges, they shall cease, whether there be prisons, they shall yield up them that are within them, for a day of purification must needs come, else are the Scriptures not fulfilled.

Therefore, let the adobe walls continue to stand and abide the purposes for which they were created; and let the Dicksonian institute continue until the time of the end; and let contempt abound with the judges and commissioner until they have their fill; for all these things help their part in the great cleansing process; for many there be who need cleansing.

But they who are honest before the Lord will abide all these things and be not shaken, though they may have to pass through great things; for all these things have been told of aforetime.

Therefore, be ye wise in your day and time, and keep your eye and ear open and ye shall see and hear of things as they come to pass, while all they who seek to compromise and to shake hands with Lucifer, will be caught in his snares, and wist not until it is too late for them to put on the wedding garment.

Now, as to concerning the actions and rulings of the the judges and commissioner, behold they are likened unto a certain king, who upon a certain day had his forces, for he had selected the greatest men in all his realm, in order that he might be the most skilled in subtle tricks.

And he said unto him. Though ye are a fool yet shall ye appear as being very wise, if ye do not let the people see your folly, but if ye expose your craft, all the world shall show of your vain weakness, and the finger of ridicule shall be pointed at you.

And though this jester had been fully warned of the king, yet in a short time he exposed all his craft, and the courtiers all laughed and said one to another, "This is the biggest fool of all the fools of the king's court."

Even so do men of our time expose their craft and cunning, and the saying of the Scriptures is brought to pass, wherein it saith, "The wisdom of their wise men shall perish and the understanding of their prudent men shall be hid."

For behold the beautiful man scheweth and the G. A. R. paradeth, and the rabble all clamoreth, and expectation is on tiptoe; for all the engines of blood and thunder are being brought to bear upon a defenceless people.

And they have blood in their eye, for they are led by a spirit of destruction, and woe is unto them.

Verily, let them work their works; they are all in the hands of a power that shall let them only go so far as seemeth good in Him, and they shall go to their place, and they shall have contempt to their heart's content.

Therefore, let the clouds continue to gather; let the thunders and lightnings play their part; let the rains descend and the powers of earth be moved; these shall only be for the good of the Saints, for they will yet have sunshine and harvest when all these contemptuous beings shall be in a place of torment, where their worm dieth not.

CHRONICLER.

Young Lady at Boarding School.

At some of the French boarding schools in Paris, the girls are fed on weak soup, two or three degrees stronger than hot water; meat, from which nearly all the nourishment is extracted by boiling; coarse veal, watery carrots and gray, sour bread. The young lady who comes home after a few terms of this sort of diet may be very learned, but is pale and poor-looking, lacking vigor and health. Give her Brown's Iron Bitters—the best tonic in the world for young ladies with impoverished blood—and bring the roses into her cheeks.

Dr. FOOTE, Senior,

Of 120 Lexington Avenue, New York.

Hereby cautions the public NOT to Employ or Communicate with a man styling himself "Dr. Foot, Jr." without making due inquiry.

This man came to Salt Lake City representing himself as the son of Dr. E. B. FOOTE of New York, the well known specialist, as abundantly proved by affidavits. Rumors came into Salt Lake City from Dakota and Montana from an exposé made there, he changed his base and represented himself as the son of a more noted specialist in New York City than Dr. E. B. FOOTE, the well known author, Mr. JOHN F. TROW, of the well known Trow's Directory, in New York City (forty years in the directory business), Ex-Governor FRANK FULLER, of Utah, and the Hon. ABRAM WAKEMAN, for many years Postmaster in New York City, also Surveyor of the Port, gave public affidavits that there are no other doctors in New York by the name of FOOTE or FOOTE, excepting Dr. E. B. FOOTE, the the author of "Medical Common Sense," etc., and his two sons, Dr. S. R. FOOTE, Jr., and Dr. HUBERT A. FOOTE. The genuine Dr. FOOTE, Jr., will hereafter always employ the initials, E. B., in designating his name. Heretofore he has been known not only at home but wherever his publications have been circulated, as the same of Dr. FOOTE, Jr. Greater care will be taken hereafter, in view of the fact that an unprincipled person has assumed to profit by his and his father's reputation.

Those desiring further and more detailed information in respect to this matter, will receive it by addressing Box 414, Salt Lake City, Utah.

Persons having information of advantage to plaintiffs will kindly communicate the same to W. W. Ivey, with Sutherland & McBride, Salt Lake City.

Those desiring to consult Dr. FOOTE professionally or to order remedies should address either
