CLUB CHAT.

A meeting of the various committees of the coming Mother's Congress took place at the Exponent office yesterday. Mrs. Lyman, the chairman of the general committee, presiding. Mrs. Lyman's committee was partially completed with the exception of the first to be held on the 9th and 10th of April. It is thought the committee will meet on the 9th and 10th of April. It is thought the committee will meet on the 9th and 10th of April. It is thought the committee will meet on the 9th and 10th of April.

ROSA BOOTE

Scorns London Society.

Rosa Boote is quite undismayed by the fact that society will refuse to recognize her as Lady Headford. She declares she is satisfied to live a life of seclusion with her young marquis.

passed and Mrs. Stewart thought that the collection of a membership fee of 25 cents would cover expenses. Reports were heard from the various committees, press, music, decoration, etc.

An interesting meeting of the Daughters of the Revolution was held today in the Exponent office. Mrs. Alice Horne read a sketch of the organization of the National Association of the Daughters, and of the first twenty charter members of the local branch. These have been published in a handsome book bound in the association colors, buff and blue, and copies will be presented to the president and registrar. An election of officers followed the program. Mrs. Clarissa Smith being chosen regent and Mrs. Farnsworth and Mrs. Cannon vice regents.

The Reapers' club has adjourned and will not meet again till Monday, the 1st of April.

The Reviewers have an "At Home" with Mrs. Ellen Elliott on Monday next. The program will be furnished by Mrs. William H. Wrightman, the topics being Margaret Deans, and "Old Chester Tales."

The women's clubs of Pennsylvania are working for the passage of a juvenile court bill to be presented at the state legislature this session. The bill is in pamphlet form and is being passed by the New Century Club of Philadelphia and the Pennsylvania Congress of Mothers. Mrs. Frederick Schott is president of the State Congress of Mothers and vice president of the National, and it is to her effort that the present encouraging status of the bill is largely due. The question was discussed at the convention last May at Des Moines, of the National Congress of Mothers, where it was presented at more than one session. Mrs. Schott gave at the congress a fine paper that was a resume of the provision made by different States for dependent, neglected children. Mrs. Schott has studied the subject exhaustively, and her work in behalf of the juvenile court law is particularly intelligent and effective.

Among numerous entertainments given for the Daughters of the American Revolution in Washington the reception held by President and Mrs. McKinley, of course, heads the list. But the crowning event was the reception in the Corcoran art gallery, to which about four thousand people (the majority women) succeeded in squeezing in. Never before was seen such "a sound of revelry by night" in that locality. By 9 o'clock the strings of waiting carriages extended from the gallery to the White House, several blocks away, while long lines of people, two abreast, filled both sides of the streets to Pennsylvania avenue. It had been previously given out that the affair was for the Daughters alone, and no escorts were permitted except Sons, no escorts were permitted except Sons, no escorts were permitted except Sons.

When the arrivals had laid aside their wraps and entered the main saloon, they formed in line and passed before the reviewing party at the head of which stood Mrs. Daniel Manning, the retiring president. She looked a beautiful queen in her white satin gown, with court train of gold applique and rare old lace. She carried a large diamond star and the broad blue and white sash of her office. Mrs. Donald McLean was not in the receiving line, but held a small court of her own. Her costume was of white silk, with a large picture hat and a long train. Mrs. Fairbanks of Indiana was elegant in gown in white spangled chiffon over ivory satin, and she wore some famous jewels. She was given an ovation during the three hours when friends shook her hand. Mrs. Lindsey, Kentucky, wore cream-colored velvet, over which fell a drape of spangled chiffon, relieved by touches of green panne velvet; an aigrette of green green was in her hair, and she wore some rare diamonds.

One of the most distinguished looking women present was the much-paragraphed Miss Mary Deha—she who so conspicuously mislaid her temper during the election on the previous afternoon. She is tall, dark and slender, and was garbed in white broad satin, trimmed with Irish lace and white chiffon, and carried a bunch of fragrant white hyacinths. To enumerate all the beautiful and intellectual women, from every State in the Union, would be to fill every column in this paper. Suffice it to say that this tenth annual reunion has been by far the most brilliant and successful in the history of the organization, and the social claims of the Daughters, as by right at the head of everything American, as a new forever established. The art gallery made a most appropriate setting for such a notable gathering. The severe simplicity of the vast marble building, with its low walls and long lines of Doric columns, was enhanced by the delicate tracery of Southern grilles, palms upon the stairway, and tiny electric lights in red, white and blue, combined in ivory imitations, everywhere forming the insigna of the order and their motto, "For Home and Country." They believe with Burke that "people will not look forward to posterity who never look backward to their ancestors."

While looking back for their ancestors the 35,000 women who belong to this great patriotic society are vigorously planning for posterity, and clearing up much that is misty and involved in doubt. Never can there be a better president general, in every sense, than Mrs. Manning has been. Assisted by numerous Daughters who went to the French exposition, she gave several splendid receptions while in Paris; and as a lasting memento of a year of brilliant success was presented by the president of the French republic with the medal of the Legion of Honor, which few women in the world possess. Mrs. Manning may now write "chevalier" before her name—though according to rules of grammar it should be chevaliere. After her no woman who is not rich, beautiful, comparatively young, and reared in the highest circle of society, need aspire to the conspicuous office of president general of the D. A. R.—Special Correspondence.

EDUCATIONAL.

UNIVERSITY.

The biennial report of the board of regents of the University, accompanied by the reports of the president, the librarians, and the registrar have been submitted to the Governor and Legislature. It is in pamphlet form and contains a very creditable appearance. The new buildings are very well described and the needs in the way of more buildings are set forth. The report of the registrar shows an increase in attendance, especially in the college courses. The report of Dr. Joseph Merrill, principal of the school of mines, shows that the outlook for engineering work in this department is extremely promising, yet a great deal more laboratory room and apparatus should be provided for. Professor Stewart gives a very favorable account of the Norman school. At the Normal society yesterday the members discussed the subject "Large the United States Maintain a Large Standing Army?" The question is an interesting one, especially at the present time when General Miles has recommended a larger standing army than we have had before.

The Orpheus class gave a ball and reception in the Laboratory building last evening. Light refreshments were served by some of the young ladies.

The 10th class will give a party at the home of the Ladies' Literary club next Friday evening.

BRANCH NORMAL NOTES.

The election of officers for the Branch Normal school city passed off quietly but with interest. Never before has such an interest been taken in an election. Over ninety per cent of the registered voters, at school, cast their ballots. There was very little "scratching" done, most votes being cast "straight." The election resulted in electing the city officers, mayor, attorney and recorder, on the Conservative ticket, while the board and board of public works will be appointed at the first council meeting, as also the first council meeting. The city officers are: Mayor, Menzies MacIntyre; recorder, Estella Spilbury; attorney, John M. Foster.

The citizens also voted to adopt a proposed amendment to the city charter, relative to the qualifications of those who hold office.

The students gave an inaugural ball last Friday evening, after the election. Although the hall was not crowded, all working in competition on a charcoal drawing of the Venus de Milo. A prize will be awarded the pupil doing the most meritorious work.

Red and Black made its appearance Monday.

The English division of the junior class have been making a special study of Robert Burns, with a view to giving a program on Thursday or Friday of next week. Miss Dukes has charge of the work.

Principal Gallagher of Park City was a visitor Friday.

BEAVER BRANCH.

Friday evening Prof. Partridge gave a lecture on "Mathematical Catches." A string band is now being organized. There are at present about a thousand people (the majority women) succeeded in squeezing in. Never before was seen such "a sound of revelry by night" in that locality.

There is not one case of sickness here at present and we have had very little sickness during the winter.

The vocal class is taking up the elements of harmony one day each week. Next Friday evening Classes 1903 and 1904 will entertain us.

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.

Last Saturday Mrs. Goodwin entertained at lunch in the college dining room. Messrs. Chase and Hill and Misses Baker and Sander. Next Saturday Mrs. Cotey will entertain the senior class with some of their instructor class with some of their instructor class.

Professor Close was called to Salt Lake City on Sunday, to help formulate some matters in connection with bills affecting the agricultural and horticultural interests of the State Thursday, in company with Professor Lindfield, he left the college for a tour of farmers' institutes.

Dr. Gowans, who with Professor Merrill has been absent some time attending farmers' institutes, has been appointed on the board of medical examiners.

The "living picture" entertainment which was arranged for March 16, has been put off for one week and will be given in the Thatcher opera house.

All the members of the faculty who have been off duty with a gripe and vaccination, are again in their class rooms.

Students are beginning to leave their classes, to begin spring work on the farms.

On Thursday the Woman's Sewing Society of the city had lunch with Mrs. Cotey.

The eleventh annual report of the experiment station, prepared by Director Foster, and Bulletin 11, prepared by Professor Fortier, are now being sent out together.

The sophomores and the freshmen have just organized a new literary society. So far this year there has been no literary society for young men.

BRIGHAM YOUNG ACADEMY.

Provo City, March 13.—The Polytechnic Society will give a ball Friday evening.

President Brimhall was in Morgan county last week on educational business. He spoke to the people in the afternoon and also in the evening.

Mr. F. Warren Smith, who established the Marie Leland Library in the academy, has lately sent in a large consignment of books.

Mrs. Lillian H. Cannon lectured in the Utah County Teachers' Institute last Saturday. Her subject was, "Number Work in the Primary Grades." Prof. Hickman also continued his series of lectures on "Physics" before the convention.

Very few students are discontinuing school. In all there have been but thirty. The absence of spring fever is an evidence that work is being done thoroughly.

Owing to a drizzling rain the audience at Parents' Class last Wednesday night was not very large, but those present thoroughly appreciated Prof. Mutch's excellent talk.

Eleven missionary students have received calls for missions, four to Germany, one to the Southern States, and the rest to Samoa, New Zealand, and Australia. The class is in suspense for they know not how soon other calls may be made.

The librarian reports 2,943 books in use by the students last month. Only thirty cases of delinquency in returning books on time occurred and not any new books were lost.

At faculty meeting the other night it was decided to offer a stormy five weeks' summer school to begin the first Monday in June. The details have not yet been worked out.

Dr. E. G. Gowans and Prof. Merrill of the Agricultural College spoke to the students last Wednesday. Prof. Gowans was both a student and a teacher in our school at one time. The gentlemen were on their way to lecture before the Farmers' Institute.

One of the most interesting classes in school is Petalography, or "Parent's Class." A large number of students take this course and seem to appreciate it. The class is not taking up the home, and its conditions and surroundings; the last subject being "Tattling and Teasing."

A petition asking that the academy be connected with the city sewer system was recently presented to the city council by the faculty. The academy proposes to spend one thousand dollars in the completion of this system, and asks that as a return a rebate be made in water taxes. The system will be completed whether the rebate is made or not.

Mr. Ellis' lecture Sunday evening drew a very large and enthusiastic audience. College hall was packed and still many had to be turned away. This is the first opportunity the school has had of hearing the brilliant author and lecturer, and the students were far from being disappointed in their expectations.

The debate between the 1902's and the 1903's, concerning the justice of the attitude of the powers towards China, was one of the best that has been given in the academy. Messrs. D. D. Houtz, W. E. Rydahl and E. S. Hinckley were the judges and awarded the victory to the affirmative side, which means that the 1903's are on top.

L. D. S. COLLEGE.

Miss Gertrude Musser, a former student of the college, was a visitor to the business department on Thursday.

The names of instructors Bird and Evans have been put on the Salt Lake Stake Missionary list.

Next Monday there will be no Book of Mormon lecture; the Sunday School Union meeting will be held instead. Last Monday evening Prof. Mills delivered an unusually interesting lecture on the subject "Christ Among the Nephties."

The Church history class is now studying succession in the presidency.

A new class in shorthand, consisting of about twenty members, was organized this week.

The typewriting department is now one of the most attractive in the school. Visitors from all parts of the country, and many who visit the city from the East, call at the college, and linger with no little astonishment in this part of the school. They have remarked that few typewriting departments of eastern cities are so well equipped. The students vary in speed from 29 to 102 words per minute.

On Wednesday morning sad news came to the college to the effect that Elinor Hultstrom, a former student of the college, was dead. This news cast a heavy gloom over the entire school, for Mr. Hultstrom was among its most honored and respected names. On Thursday morning memorial services were held, at which all the faculty and students were present. Several teachers and students spoke of his high standard of character. A delegation of boys and girls volunteered to attend the funeral exercises at the Seventeenth ward on Friday at 1 o'clock. In the death of Mr. Hultstrom the college loses one of its very best students and staunchest friends.

EXHIBIT OF SPRING MILLINERY

Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Mar. 18, 19, 20.

Fashion opens her book of style for Spring headwear here in the Walker Store Monday. And a most patrician assemblage of hats it is—touched into shape and color harmony by the surpassing skill of expert modistes of Paris and New York and the almost equally artistic skill of our own milliners, who go twice each year to the fashion centers for style study. We feel this is our supremest effort, and no doubt some of you can recall many notable gatherings of millinery here, but the hats themselves must tell their story—as no written word can—of refinement, elegance and style, so we hope to have you view the display Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, while it is fresh, full and beautiful.

TWO GOOD KID GLOVE CHANCES.

MONDAY AND TUESDAY.

A few very fine black kidskin gloves for women, the real French article, excellent in every way—kid quality, fit and making, 3 and 4 clasps, but black only and sizes 5½ and 6; gloves that sell regularly for $1.50 and $2.00 a pair, while they last ..... 98c
