LOCAL NEWS.

Architectural Design.—A very fine design for the Brigham Young Academy's new building to be erected in Provo during the coming season, adorns the show-window of Dwyer's bookstore. It is a front elevation with grounds, constructed on the scale of 1/4 of an inch. It is the work of Don Carlos Young, architect, of this city, and does the gentleman credit.

Resolutions of Respect, etc.—A committee of the Y. M. C. A., of Nephi, Juab County, composed of the following: Israel Bale, Silas L. Jackson and Richard T. Schroeder, have drafted resolutions of respect and grateful recognition of the services of W. S. Connell, James Paxman and Isaac Gadd, in aid of the above named association. The young men last named, it seems, are about to leave home on missions.

An Interesting Meeting.—Last night there was quite a representation of the stockholders present during the deliberations of the Board of Directors of Zion's Benefit Building Society. The meeting was very interesting, a number of matters being discussed and disposed of, and a considerable amount of valuable information presented to the assembly in reference to the condition, modes of conducting, prospects and advantages of the Society. It is one of the soundest and most thoroughly co-operative enterprises in the Territory.

Come to the Jury.—The case of Joseph Biddecombe, charged with murder in the first degree, was closed so far as the arguments of counsel were concerned, this morning. After Judge Sprague had concluded speaking for the prosecution last evening, the case for the defense was argued by J. G. Sutherland and J. R. McBride, followed by W. H. Dickson for the prosecution. He concluded his argument this morning, and at 10:30 o'clock, both sides resting, the case went to the jury, who, having been instructed by Judge Hunter, retired to consider upon a verdict. Up to the hour of our going to press they had not returned.

The Patti Concert.—A dodger is in circulation to the following effect: Her Majesty's Opera Company and Madame Adeline Patti will positively appear in one grand concert, on a date to be shortly announced, at the Tabernacle in Salt Lake City, with the artists of the opera and the chorus and the Orchestra, Signor Ardi, conductor.

The concert will take place at about the time of the Conference, to give everyone coming to the city-reduced railroad fares and a chance to hear the world's greatest artists at the most popular prices, $1.00, $1.50 and $2.00.

Money sent for recovered seats, at $1.50 and $2.00, by registered letter of Post Office order, addressed to W. A. Rossiter, Salt Lake Theatre, will entitle the sender to the best choice.

Obsequies.—The funeral services over the remains of Elder James Shields, of South Jordan, took place there on the 5th inst., when the congregation which was large and sympathetic, was addressed by Bishop Gardiner, of West Jordan, (where the deceased formerly resided and was baptized at eight years), and by Bishop Holman of Sandy, Counselor John Y. Smith, of the Third Ward in this city, and by Bishop Bills, of South Jordan. The funeral cortege numbered 64 vehicles.

The deceased attained his 50th year on the 11th of October. He was the son of George and Jane Shields, and was born in Johnston, Renfrewshire, Scotland. He emigrated to Utah when he was but six years of age, and resided, since reaching his majority, at South Jordan. He leaves a family with thirteen children. He died on the 24 of March, of inflammation of the bowels.

"Our Strategists."—A number of ladies and gentlemen came from Provo, engaged in the public spirited occupation of selling tickets to Saturday's performance at the Salt Lake Theatre, when "Our Strategists" is to be presented by Haverly's Company for the benefit of the Brigham Young Academy. The Chicago Tribune says of the piece:

"Our Strategists" is one of the funniest and most amusing performances ever seen here. The end of the third act caused almost a panic in the house, as the audience, over their chairs on their neighbors' shoulders, doubled up and laughed at the absurd objects of their looked like so many epileptic strokes. The company was called before the curtain at the end of each act. No such success has ever been witnessed in the Academy."

But the above is rendered almost unnecessary from the fact that this same comedy has been produced here before, and won a lasting reputation as one of the funniest things ever seen upon the stage. This, with the beautiful object in view, should be sufficient to crowd the house, and it will.

ALARMING ACCIDENT.

A WAGON LOADED WITH ROCK DESCENDED THE MOUNTAIN SIDE—A HORSE KILLED AND TWO MEN NARROWLY ESCAPED.

A singular accident which might easily have had a more serious termination, happened yesterday morning about ten o'clock, on the slope of the bench south-west of English Peak. It appears that teams have been in the habit of loading up with rock on the bench, and then descending a "short cut" leading down the backbones of one of the narrow ridges in the vicinity of Red Hollow, to the wagon road the other side.

Several wagons accomplished the feat successfully on Tuesday, and yesterday morning, at the time above mentioned, there were two teams on the mountain side, one on the bench above belonging to Mr. Stanford, and another in the gulch below, owned by Mr. G. F. Atkins, both of whom were engaged in putting on their respective loads.

Mr. Stanford having finished that part of the job, started down the ridge, when the brakes of his wagon, being loose, the wheel on the axle was crowded the loaded vehicle upon the horses. The heavy weight was too much for the animals to keep back, and the momentum of the wagon, increasing every instant, they were speedily overpowered, and the vehicle being diverted from its course, was hurled down into the gulch and immediately opposite the wagon of Mr. Atkins.

Mr. Stanford had luckily jumped off some distance above, and Mr. Atkins, seeing what was coming, left his team just in time to escape the falling mass, which struck the bottom of the gulch about four feet away from his team, which was well peppered with the flying boulders and the horses so badly injured as to unfit them for immediate service.

But it fared far worse with the Stanford team. In their flight down the gulch, the wagon, which was broken, and a piece of it ran into and instantly killed one of the helpless beasts, as it lay struggling under the rock-laden vehicle to which it was attached. As soon as practicable, another team was obtained, and the two wagons, minus their loads, were dragged out of the gulch and down into the road below.

It was a narrow escape for the drivers, and the only thing surprising in the matter is that in view of an opportunity for a fearful catastrophe, the result was comparatively insignificant.

Our informant is Mr. J. H. Van Natta, of the 19th Ward, a resident in the vicinity where the accident occurred.

PERSONAL.

Major Y. S. Ward, Inspector for the Utah Association, arrived yesterday morning and is a guest at the Valley House.

Mrs. Susan Young Gates, ("Home-again") our valued Provo correspondent, is in the city and called in today.

Mrs. Zina Y. Williams is up from Provo and made the News office a pleasant call.

Mrs. W. H. Dusenberry, of Provo, is in the city on a visit to her sister, Mrs. Zina S. Whitney.

Leslie Gossin and seven others of the "Hoop of Gold Co." are registered at the Valley House.

A. Z. Chipman and wife, Mrs. Harry Coulson and Arthur Moulton of the "Hoop of Gold Co." are domiciled at the Metropolitan.

Jacob Gates, J. P., of Provo, is in the city.

"Hoop of Gold."—Notwithstanding the inclement state of the weather and the heavy competition of the Abbott Opera, a large audience assembled at the Theatre last evening to witness the opening performance of the "Hoop of Gold."

It is a sensational drama, the same high order as the "Silver King," "Flights of London," etc., and is played "right up to the hilt" by a company possessed of genuine ability.

Every part is in good hands, and the play glides along with a smoothness and finish which talent and practice can alone impart. The characters are mutually well balanced, the literature of the piece is above the average, and the situations striking and natural.

The Thames Embankment, with the dial-face of Westminster clock in the distance, was a familiar sight to those who have walked the streets of London, and the other settings were no less natural and effective.

Where all did so uniformly well, it would be difficult to enter into particulars, as we would have to say some thing good of every one, and the long cost renders this impracticable with our limited space. We can conscientiously speak in praise of this finished performance, however, which will be repeated to-night and to-morrow night, and must be seen in order to be appreciated.

Third District Court.—Proceedings before Chief Justice Hunter on Thursday, March 13th, 1884.

People, etc., vs. Joseph Biddecombe, murder in the first degree, attorneys, jury and defendant present. Argued by W. H. Dickson for prosecution. The Court instructs the jury and they retire in charge of a sworn officer of the Court.

United States vs. James Stewart, a felony; defendant withdraws plea of not guilty and pleads guilty. Sentence fixed for Monday the 17th.

Wm. H. Dickson takes the oath prescribed by law as United States Attorney for Utah Territory, and presents his commission from the President of the United States, before John A. Hunter, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the Territory of Utah, and Judge of the Third Judicial District in and for said Territory.

People, etc., vs. Rudolph Smith, robbery; motion for a new trial argued by S. W. Darke, for defendant, and by E. T. Sprague, for prosecution. Exception. Prosecution moves for sentence and judgment, and the sentence of the Court is that defendant be confined in the Utah Penitentiary for two years.

General Beauregard came out of the war a comparatively poor man, but he is now wealthy. The general is interested in a number of paying Southern enterprises.

Mr. Buskin said in a recent lecture: "If you want to show your country friends how the sun looks in a London fog throw a red hot iron into a basin of dirty water."

To think that we are able to almost to be so determined upon attainment is frequently attained itself. This earnest resolution has often seemed to have almost a savor of omnipotence.—Samuel Butler.

There are signs of renewed life in the pedestrian class. The latest talk is about Harry Vaughn's acceptance of William Edwards's challenge to walk six days against any man in the world. Vaughn and O'Leary have long been considered the finest and handsomest heel-and-toe walkers in the world. Edwards has beaten O'Leary several times in Australia. Vaughn has defeated him with the Spirit of the Times as forfeit money.

THE ABBOTT SEASON.

"BOHEMIAN GIRL" AND "LUCIA" AT THE OPERA HOUSE.

The Abbott Opera Company still retains its popularity, and the performance at the Opera House continues to draw good houses. Yesterday's matinee had a splendid audience and the presentation of Balfe's "Bohemian Girl" was thoroughly enjoyed. Neither Abbott nor Tagliapietra were the cast, but Roswell, Segura, Castle and Campobello were, and right successfully did they supply the absence of the other principals.

Miss Roswell's "Arlene" was a very good rendition and though a trifle too light and pleasant in parts, made up in vocalism what it wanted in dramatic property. Miss Segura's "Gypsy Queen" was a splendid piece of acting and her singing, as usual, excellent. Mr. Castle as "Thaddeus" was the same finished actor he is always in, and his practical solo "Then You'll Remember Me," reached the highest point of his excellence during this engagement.

Signor Campobello made a similar telling hit in the "Heart Bowed Down," equal to himself as a singer. He has a very fine stage presence though, and this covers up much that is deficient in a dramatic way.

Mr. Allen made a very good "Devil-shoot" and played and sang with becoming vim and energy. The rest of the characters filled in well, and barring a few points of defect, which can be found in nearly any performance under the sun, the whole thing passed off well.

At night another fine house greeted "Lucia," with Miss Abbott in the title role, and had the interesting opportunity of comparing the performance to the one given of the same opera, a short time ago, by Her Majesty's Company. Of course the comparison resulted in a contrast, as it was not to be supposed for an instant that the Abbott Company could reach the height in public estimation attained by Genet, Galassi and their satellites.

An exception might be made in the case of Tagliapietra, who in some opinions is the full equal of Galassi, and with respect to some of the lesser characters as well, but we prefer to leave this to the public to decide, when they select their favorites and yield homage where they think it is due, who shall say them nay? "Lucia" by the Abbott Company was a nice performance at any rate, and as such was appreciated and applauded.

To-night "Parasol" with the following splendid cast will be given: Marguerite, Emma Abbott; Siebel, Valente Segura; Martha, Marie Hinde; Valentine, Signor Tagliapietra; Mephisto, Signor Campobello; Wagner, Walter Allen; Faust, Valentine Fabrit. This is the strongest attraction yet offered by the Abbott Company.

A MAGIC POWER.

A Secret Agent at Work.

We were surprised the other day to learn that certain individuals in this city, who had for many years yielded to what was apparently an inevitable fate, were startled from their torpid condition of somnolence, into asserting their right to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." These persons were victims of a political disease as powerful as it was incomprehensible. They knew not the cause, yet they were victims to the result. They were enchained, but they could not discern by what means they had been manacled. They had sought deliverance in vain. Their appeals to science and the knowledge contained in books were equally unavailing. At last, relief came! It was not through any action of the President, or of Congress, for the traitor was not a political character. Neither did the Governor's Message relieve them, nor any action of the new Legislature, for it was out of their jurisdiction. Yet they were suddenly freed from their bondage by the equal scale of human happiness. "Why was this miracle?" is a question readers will ask. They had been rendered helpless by that universal enemy—rheumatism. They had not walked or even moved without pain for years, and on the strong recommendations of friends "who had been there," they tried Britannia, and were at once relieved and radically cured. Britannia is what did it. It acted like a magic power. This secret agent quietly coursed through their veins, removed the cause of the trouble, liberated the captives from their doomed condition, and now they congratulate each other on the accomplishment of such a triumph, and the acquisition of the knowledge, by which they can save anything else at extremely low figures. Remember the place, Salt Lake Tea store, No. 53 W. First South opposite Market Row.

For Throat Diseases and Coughs. Brown's Bronchial Troches, like all really good remedies, are sold in bottles. The genuine are sold only in boxes.

VARIOUS QUACKS.

Who—Each with his own Pat Scheme—Cultivate the Field of Human Nature.

There have always been quacks—legal quacks, theological quacks, medical quacks, and medical quacks. Some of them are blind, only fellows who argue and smile the world into believing in their favorite bit of humbug. Others are pompous and pretentious parasites. But they make it pay. Men seem to love to be swindled, stipulating only that it shall be neatly done.

The dear public are equally liberal to the electric and magnetic quack. This fellow is a genius in his line. He will put a magnetic belt around your waist, a magnetic necklace around your chin, or fit you out with an entire suit of magnetic clothes, warranted to serve the purpose of ordinary garments, and at the same time to cure all diseases, from whooping-cough to hasty consumption.

Most of these have no more electric or magnetic power about them than reeds in woolen blankets or in girdles of sackcloth. Only when applied by an expert is electricity of the slightest use as a medicinal agent, and even then its value is grossly overestimated. What is the strongest possible presumptive evidence in favor of a particular remedy? Clearly that it should have been prepared by responsible persons of acknowledged skill in the treatment of disease.

Squarely on this foundation stands BENSON'S CAPSICUM POROUS PLASTER. Prepared by J. W. Benson, pharmacist, druggist and chemist, it needs no further apology nor introduction. It is the one and only true and tried external application. Quacks of all kinds say the Capsicum Plaster is the only true and tried external application. Look in the middle of the plaster for the word "CAPSICUM." Price 25 cts. per box. Seabury & Johnson, Chemists, New York.
