The Army Worm.

MEMPHIS, 3.—The army worm has appeared in great numbers in Desoto County, Miss., Fayette County, Tenn., and Lee County, Ark., and serious damage to the cotton crop is anticipated.

A Terrible and Fatal Crash.

CINCINNATI, 3.—An excavation of Longworth Street, below the foundation of No. 74, a dwelling adjoining was undermined, and the walls of it fell about 4 o'clock this afternoon, with a tremendous crash' burying a number of people in the ruins; of four women buried in the wreck, Mrs. Kearn was killed, and three were released uninjured; five men were injured more or less severely, two thought to be fatally. It is stated that four persons are still in the ruins, and a large force of workmen are busy endeavoring to release them.

The scene of to-day's terrible disaster was Nos. 74 and 76, Longworth Street. At the latter place an excavation was in progress for a new building, and the digging had gone below the foundation of No. 74. One inmate of the latter states their landlord was notified last Friday that the building was unsafe, but had taken no precautionary measures. To-day the workmen had commenced to brace up the building, and were busy in a pit they had dug, when the wall fell completely demolishing No. 74 and carrying away the division between that and the house adjoining, rendering the latter unfit for habitation. No. 74 was a low boarding house for women, who rented the rooms from Mrs. Kean, and at the time the accident occurred contained seven women and two or three men. The exact number of the latter is unknown, as the uninjured failed to report. Mrs. Sue Kean, the landlady, was instantly killed. Jno. W. Dustin, a visitor at the same house, is injured internally, and thought to be fatally. Jno. Finnegan, foreman of the men at work in the excavation is dead and buried under the debris; Hugh Quigley, a laborer, was killed instantly; Louie Dowling was injured internally; Lottie Williams, back hurt. Other women were more or less bruised, one colored woman servant is missing, but it is thought possible that she escaped. Workmen were engaged up to a late hour, to-night, searching for Finnegan's body, but were unable to find it.

A Fraudulent Bond.

WASHINGTON, 3.—Upon investigation by a special agent of the Post Office Department, the bond of the postmaster at Baton Rouge, La., is found to be a fictitious one. no such persons as the pretended sureties being in existence. The postmaster and the United States commissioner who certified to its correctness and affixed their signatures thereto. have been arrested, and a new postmaster appointed.

An Editor Assaulted.

This afternoon the Hon. Kenneth Raynor, Solicitor of the Treasury, meeting Mr. Soteldo, the editor of the National Republican, on the Treasury steps, ordered him to move out of his way, and then assaulted him with his fist. Soteldo struck back; then followed a further exchange of blows, when the parties were separated. The provocation was the repeated publications in the Republican of satirical remarks reflecting on the solicitor's age and efficiency.

The Great New York Fire—How it Originated.

NEW YORK, 3.—The fire at Hall's piano factory originated through Nicholas Monk, a varnish rubber, who was heating some varnish over a stove, and while his back was turned it got ablaze, and the flames spread like a flash. He fled at once for his life, giving the alarm as he ran, but the windows being open the flames swept through the building, finding fresh fuel at every step. It is supposed that about 200 men were employed in the building at the time. On the seventh floor twenty-six, on the fourth thirty-one, and in the fifth, sixth, and other floors about 150. It cannot yet be ascertained how many have been burned in the building. The hatchways in one corner were open, and the flames rushed to the upper stories as if through a flue. Several firemen say that from the windows of the upper story of the factory men were calling for God's sake to give them help, but that the ladders were not long enough to reach them, and even if they were they could not be placed in position owing to the intense heat. Some fell to the pavement, and others, after wildly waving their arms, fell back into the burning mass behind them. The great eight-story wall on 36th Street fell almost without notice, and who are buried under it will not be known until the debris is moved away. The wildest excitement prevailed as the flames leaped to the adjoining buildings, mainly tenement houses, and men, women, and children fled for their lives. They saved nothing, and were fortunate to escape with their lives.

Over fifty buildings in all have been destroyed. The loss is very large, with insurances probably covering half the amount. Some of the most terrible scenes of the fire occurred in the tenement houses. One fireman rescued an infant and its helpless father from the fourth floor. Then went back at the peril of his life and found another child just expiring from suffocation. Annie Sweet, an occupant of a tenement house, died from fright. It is said that many of the employees live in Hoboken, and on escaping (if they did) went home at once. Dr. Tyng's gospel tent, which was destroyed, is to be replaced.

Hale's manufactory, in which the fire originated, was a large brick building, eight stories in height, having a front of 250 feet on 35th and about the same on 36th Street.

Strike Ended.

DAYTON, Ohio, 3.—The strike on the C. H. & D. road ended, to-day. All the firemen and brakemen went to work on terms offered by the company on Saturday.

Freight Advance.

CHICAGO, 3.—The general freight agents of the Western trunk lines made an advance on freights, today, by re-classifying articles which have been shipped at thirty cents per hundred; such as grain, meats, etc., putting them in the fourth class, of which the rate is thirty-five cents from Chicago.

The Hoodlum and Thieving Element—Address by the Committee of Safety.

SAN FRANCISCO, 3.—The executive committee of the committee of safety held a final meeting this afternoon. W. T. Coleman, in brief reviewing the organization and work of the committee, attributing the recent disturbances to hoodlums, thieves and a few communists, and not to the laboring classes, who held aloof. He then read a long letter from Gov. Irwin. The letter, after reviewing the causes which led to the formation of the safety committee, the strong anti-Chinese feeling which had rendered the disturbance possible, and might lead to a repetition, and the expediency of seeking to remove the cause after putting down the disorderly effect, suggested that further steps be taken to obtain such modification of the Burlingame treaty as will prevent the Chinese influx; that the committee, from its non-partisan character and the high standing of its members, was, of all other organizations, that which would have the most weight with Congress. Such action would tend to convince the laboring classes that earnest efforts were being made to free them from the burden of Chinese competition, and would do more than anything else to secure peace and order. An address was then read on behalf of the committee, recounting the work it had performed. It went on to express the hope that the late strikes and riots throughout the country might have the good effect of awakening the public mind to a clearer conception of the mutual rights and duties of capital and labor. He combatted the idea that any relief from the existing evils can be secured permanently by government patronage or labor combinations. The law of supply and demand must rule, and the knowledge of the principles underlying that law should form part of the common school instruction; thus far labor had been well paid in California. The laboring classes were to a great extent the owners of houses, and were enlisted on the side of law and order, but under the keen competition of Chinese cheap labor the time would come when the crse would be reversed and then deplorable consequences would follow. The experience of a quarter of a century showed nothing to hope of the elevation of Chinese to the American standpoint. What they are they will remain. It desired to call the attention of eastern people and the press to the subject of Chinese immigration, with a view of enlisting their support in counteracting it; called to mind the fact that the committee that issued this address was composed of men who had faced danger to protect the Chinese and were ready to do so again, and hoped that this fact would lend weight to their advocacy of the suppression of Chinese immigration. In conclusion, it held that it had become the duty of government to effect a modification of the treaty with China, and also; if necessary, of treaties with England and Portugal to secure the desired end. The committee then adjourned sine die.

Another Russian Defeat.

CONSTANTINOPLE, 3.—The command of Rustchuk has made a sortie with seven battalions, defeating the Russians.

GREAT BRITAIN.

Eastern War News.

LONDON, 3.—A correspondent describing a visit to the Schipka Pass on Friday last, says, Sulleman Pasha has abandoned an attempt on the Russian position and marched away from the neighborhood of Schipka. Some say he is still at Kanlik; others that he is searching for another pass. I believe he is engaged in trying to reorganize his shattered force. There remain still confronting the Russians a few battalions of Egyptians, with some cannon on the heights, and a few more miscellaneous battalions in the village of Schipka. Several Russian reinforcements have been marched back, and General Nepokoitschitsky, the Grand Duke Nicholas' Chief of Staff, was returning from his visit to the Pass.

Sulleman Pasha telegraphs from the Schipka Pass that cannonading began again on Saturday, and was continued on Sunday. A prisoner states that the effective strength of most of the Russian battalions has been reduced by one-half. The Bulgarians also suffered cruelly.

HEROIC.—Mr. William J. Florence, the actor, has been turning his vacation to advantage by rescuing a lady and her two children from drowning at Coney Island. This really heroic achievement occurred during the recent terrific gale, and an account of it says:—"Mr. Elias Hulitt's wife and two children were in the water when the storm burst upon the beach. They were whelmed in the waves and overpowered by the wind. Mr. Florence was on shore. Hastily throwing off his clothing he plunged in and rushed with difficulty to their assistance. Seising them he almost brought them to the land, but the blinding waves and the fierce wind pulled them back. Twice he came in: twice they were carried off again. The third plunge was a desperate effort, but again he grasped, and this time saved them. Mrs. Hulitt has written a note of public recognition of Mr. Florence's bravery, and desires that her gratitude should be known."

A clergyman of poor abilities asked for a license to preach. "I grant you permission," said his bishop, "but nature refuses it."

Three Bashi-Bazouks, the other day, in their wanderings, came across the body a of Russian soldier. They determined to bury it, and were on the point of placing it in a hurriedly-dug grave, when the Russian came to his senses, and observing their intention, remarked that he was not dead. They looked at him for a few seconds, when one of them remarked, "Really, you Russians are such horried liars that it is impossible to believe anything you say. We found you here dead, so you must be buried;" and they buried him.

SCENE IN A COLORADO DANCE CELLAR.—A dispatch dated Pueblo, Colorado, August 11th, gives the following which shows what a lovely place Pueblo must be for a regular residence: West Las Animas has two rival dance houses, owned by a Mexican and an American respectively. There was a private dance at the Mexican house last night, and Jack Williams, the keeper of the American dance-house, collected a gang and went in to break it up. A fellow named King and a Mexican stabbed him. All hands then began shooting. About thirty shots were fired. Antelope Jack, a desperado, was instantly killed. Jack Williams was shot in the back. The ball is still inside of him, but he is still alive. William Mullin was shot in both hips and dangerously wounded. Stewart, a colored barber, was shot in the spine dangerously. Antonio Sandonville was hit in the hip and hand dangerously. King received a deep cut in the neck, a dangerous wound. It is thought most of the wounded will die.

"COULDN'T LIE FOR THAT MONEY."—A story is told of a young Waterville (Maine) lawyer, who was of a convivial turn, who had in his hands a number of unsettled accounts against an old settler in the vicinity, who never paid any debts until he was sued, and then only after loud outcries against the lawyers for "grinding the face of the poor." One day he came to settle a bill, when the lawyer offered to discount him a dollar and a half if he would go into the street, mingle with all the groups of people he might meet, and lead the conversation up to a certain point where he could accidentally remark that he (the lawyer) was a sharp and worthy fellow. The old man wanted the money, but finally he said impressively: "Squire, I'm a very old man, and have done many wicked things in my life; but with my views of eternity, I can't lie like that for money." The dollar and a half was discounted without extorting any recompense therefor.
