BREVITIES.

St. Joe claims a population of thirty thousand.

In all the great harbors of New York last month only one ship was building.

A New York milliner has built a bonnet which is a marvel of cheapness at $125.

A machine has been invented which sorts potatoes at the rate of a bushel per minute.

During the last twenty-five years the Odd Fellows have educated 45,000 children in this country.

Two dioceses in France have given the Pope six twelve-ton guns and a quantity of ammunition.

Pittsburg sends to Philadelphia three tons of grapes a day. The crop west of the Alleghanies is enormous.

The privileges of Oxford University are now free to any student who pays an entrance fee of £5, and an annual fee of £3 10s.

A California paper speaks of a murderer as having "a wonderful talent for bereaving any family he does not happen to like."

"I am astonished, my dear young lady, at your sentiments; you make me start." "Well, Sir, I've been wanting you to start for the last hour."

Good humor is the clear sky of the soul, in which every star of talent will shine more clearly, and the sun of genius encounter no vapors in his passage.

At a ball at a German watering place, a stylish young fellow recently appeared in a dull suit of light brown, deep blue shirt, scarlet necktie, green gloves and yellow shoes.

Two Scotch bachelors, Alexander McLaughlin and David Patullo, lately died in New York, each worth $500,000. Both came to New York poor. One made his fortune by brewing, the other by retailing Scotch whisky.

A little Swedish girl was walking with her father, under the starry sky, intently meditating on the glories of the heavens. At last, looking up to the sky, she said: "Father, I have been thinking if the wrong side of heaven is so beautiful, what will the right side be?"

A cockney baronet sat near a gentleman at a civic dinner, who alluded to the excellence of the knives, adding that articles manufactured from cast-steel were of a very superior quality, such as razors, forks, etc. "Ay," replied the cockney baronet, "and soap, too—there's no soap like the Castile soap!"

Pious and well-meaning, but ill-judging ladies, are not always successful in their attempts to give spiritual consolation to the poor. "Ah, Betsey," said a sick woman to a wealthy sister the other day, "it's of some use to be well-off; you won't be obliged when you die to have a district lady worreting you with a chapter."

It is claimed by the Palmyra Courier that Colonel James S. Stoddard, residing in that place, is the oldest printer in the United States. He is in his 85th year, and it is 73 years since he began his apprenticeship with Samuel Green, in New London, Connecticut. He is still in the enjoyment of remarkable mental and physical strength.

The will of Edwin A. Stevens was opened on Thursday, September 17. His entire property is estimated at $50,000,000, $26,000,000 of which is in Hoboken and Jersey City. He bequeaths $150,000 for the erection of an educational institution, and an endowment of $500,000 for its support. He further bequeaths $1,000,000 for the completion of the Stevens' Battery.

Berezowski, who fired on the Czar when the latter was in Paris, has reached Nouvelle Caledonia. He was cordially greeted, and the people looked upon him rather as a martyr than a criminal. He was offered clerkships in merchants' offices, but he soon proved himself too stupid to fulfil any but the merest mechanical duties, and he was necessarily abandoned to them.

Abbe Liszt is again at Rome. When he informed the Pope of his return to the Eternal City, Pius IX. exclaimed, "Ah, my dear son, I have often longed for you. No one plays as you do; no one knows how to exhilarate me by sweet music as you!" Liszt now spends two hours every day in the Pope's rooms and plays to His Holiness.

A country editor thus silences the tongue of scandal: "There are rumors going about to the effect that one of our highly respectable citizens has lately left town in company with a young lady twenty-two years of age. It is said that they went to Boston. There has been quite a considerable amount of gossip about the affair, which we deem entirely out of place, as we learn from an authentic source that the gentleman was an undertaker, and the young lady was dead.

The first locomotive on the Western Hemisphere was run by Major Horatio Allen, the engineer of the New York and Erie Railroad, in 1828, on the banks of the Lackawaxen, in Pennsylvania. The structure was of hemlock timber and the rails of large dimensions, notched, on caps placed far apart. As there was much doubt regarding the experimental trip, Major Allen made it alone, and to the satisfaction of all.

A promising young student recently lost his life through carelessness in one of the hospitals of Paris. One of the patients died of a most infectious disease, and in the dissecting room special orders were given to the students to use all necessary precautions. The young man in question had a slight eruption on the lip, and during the operation, happened to touch it with his hand. Perceiving the consequences, he quietly retired to his room and died without uttering one word of regret, or telling any one of his inadvertence.
