

One in ten of the desirable positions are secured without the aid of want ads—but your chances are as good as anyone's for securing one of the other nine.

DESERET EVENING NEWS.

TRUTH AND LIBERTY.

SATURDAY, JULY 1, 1905. SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH.

28 PAGES—LAST EDITION.

SECRETARY HAY DIES SUDDENLY.

All Day His Condition Had been Entirely Satisfactory to His Physicians.

BADE HIS WIFE GOOD NIGHT.

A Few Minutes after Midnight Called
His Nurse and Expired Very Soon After.

PRESIDENT GREATLY SHOCKED.

Appointed secretary of state Sept. 26, 1898.

ARRIVAL AT SUMMER HOME.

Last Saturday evening he arrived at his summer home here accompanied by his son, Clarence. Mrs. Hay had preceded him. The journey fatigued the secretary, however, and furthermore, while traveling he contracted a slight cold. When Mr. Hay suddenly collapsed on the afternoon of the following day his wife and son became greatly alarmed for the secretary seemed to remain in a dazed condition and not to respond to their efforts to revive him. A local practitioner, Dr. J. L. Cain, of Newport, was immediately summoned. Through his intervention, Mrs. Hay summoned a telegram from Boston, Dr. Charles L. Scudder and Dr. Fred T. Murphy, surgeons on the staff of the Massachusetts general hospital. A special train was chartered, the tracks of the Boston & Maine railroad were cleared and the physicians came to Newbury in almost record time. At 12:25 o'clock they passed through a sleep in a launch and arrived at "The Fells" to find Secy. Hay stronger but still gravely ill. At first an operation was determined upon. The illness was at first pronounced uremia resulting from the severe cold which Mr. Hay had contracted and which was believed to have developed from his somewhat hurried visits to different climates.

OPERATION AVOIDED.

With the administration of powerful medicine, some relief came and it was soon found that an operation could be avoided. Medicinal and other methods of treatment were continued and the patient continued to respond favorably.

By Monday the doctors were able to announce that Mr. Hay's condition was not at all serious and that with a few days absolute rest he would undoubtedly take to outdoor life. It was the ruling of the physicians, however, that the secretary should remain in bed for a period of time to afford all chances of augmenting the cold.

Dr. Scudder returned to Boston Monday evening leaving Dr. Murphy in charge of the patient.

The next day Secy. Hay was not so well. A nurse was summoned from Boston and Dr. Scudder returned. The nurse, the physician and the doctor were deemed so severe as to call for the members of the household. Mrs. Hay telephoned her son-in-law, Payne Whitney, in New York, that it would not be necessary for him to postpone his trip to Europe which he was to begin that day with Mr. Wilson.

Since Tuesday the secretary had been reported as steadily improving. On Sunday on returning to Boston, Tuesday evening, after his second visit to Newbury, said that "the case did not warrant at that time an official statement."

EVERYTHING FAVORABLE.

On Wednesday, Clarence Hay said: "Everything is favorable." Thursday's reports indicated continued satisfactory progress and yesterday Dr. Murphy who had been with the patient without intermission, except for a couple of hours, was advised to go out to dole the rest of the week.

An incident of yesterday brought out more clearly than anything which had developed previously the exact nature of the attack which he had experienced. He had been in bed for a week receiving a telegram from Prof. Groom of Brad Naumann who attended Mr. Hay while he was taking the bath recently at that resort. The message was one of inquiry as to the secretary's illness. Mr. Hay replied "mild cystitis," improving. Nothing complex."

He stated that it was impossible that the secretary could have uremia since Mr. Hay's kidneys were altogether healthy.

This entire information, including the cablegram was sent by Secy. Hay, was passed on to Dr. Scudder, who, after a hasty interview with the doctor, repeated the statement concerning the illness of Secy. Hay was entirely correct. The doctor observed that in its early stages Mr. Hay was taking the bath recently at that resort. The message was one of inquiry as to the secretary's illness. Mr. Hay replied "mild cystitis," improving. Nothing complex."

He stated that it was impossible that the secretary could have uremia since Mr. Hay's kidneys were altogether healthy.

This entire information, including the cablegram was sent by Secy. Hay, was passed on to Dr. Scudder, who, after a hasty interview with the doctor, repeated the statement concerning the illness of Secy. Hay was entirely correct. The doctor observed that in its early stages Mr. Hay was taking the bath recently at that resort. The message was one of inquiry as to the secretary's illness. Mr. Hay replied "mild cystitis," improving. Nothing complex."

He stated that it was impossible that the secretary could have uremia since Mr. Hay's kidneys were altogether healthy.

This entire information, including the cablegram was sent by Secy. Hay, was passed on to Dr. Scudder, who, after a hasty interview with the doctor, repeated the statement concerning the illness of Secy. Hay was entirely correct. The doctor observed that in its early stages Mr. Hay was taking the bath recently at that resort. The message was one of inquiry as to the secretary's illness. Mr. Hay replied "mild cystitis," improving. Nothing complex."

He stated that it was impossible that the secretary could have uremia since Mr. Hay's kidneys were altogether healthy.

This entire information, including the cablegram was sent by Secy. Hay, was passed on to Dr. Scudder, who, after a hasty interview with the doctor, repeated the statement concerning the illness of Secy. Hay was entirely correct. The doctor observed that in its early stages Mr. Hay was taking the bath recently at that resort. The message was one of inquiry as to the secretary's illness. Mr. Hay replied "mild cystitis," improving. Nothing complex."

He stated that it was impossible that the secretary could have uremia since Mr. Hay's kidneys were altogether healthy.

This entire information, including the cablegram was sent by Secy. Hay, was passed on to Dr. Scudder, who, after a hasty interview with the doctor, repeated the statement concerning the illness of Secy. Hay was entirely correct. The doctor observed that in its early stages Mr. Hay was taking the bath recently at that resort. The message was one of inquiry as to the secretary's illness. Mr. Hay replied "mild cystitis," improving. Nothing complex."

He stated that it was impossible that the secretary could have uremia since Mr. Hay's kidneys were altogether healthy.

This entire information, including the cablegram was sent by Secy. Hay, was passed on to Dr. Scudder, who, after a hasty interview with the doctor, repeated the statement concerning the illness of Secy. Hay was entirely correct. The doctor observed that in its early stages Mr. Hay was taking the bath recently at that resort. The message was one of inquiry as to the secretary's illness. Mr. Hay replied "mild cystitis," improving. Nothing complex."

He stated that it was impossible that the secretary could have uremia since Mr. Hay's kidneys were altogether healthy.

This entire information, including the cablegram was sent by Secy. Hay, was passed on to Dr. Scudder, who, after a hasty interview with the doctor, repeated the statement concerning the illness of Secy. Hay was entirely correct. The doctor observed that in its early stages Mr. Hay was taking the bath recently at that resort. The message was one of inquiry as to the secretary's illness. Mr. Hay replied "mild cystitis," improving. Nothing complex."

He stated that it was impossible that the secretary could have uremia since Mr. Hay's kidneys were altogether healthy.

This entire information, including the cablegram was sent by Secy. Hay, was passed on to Dr. Scudder, who, after a hasty interview with the doctor, repeated the statement concerning the illness of Secy. Hay was entirely correct. The doctor observed that in its early stages Mr. Hay was taking the bath recently at that resort. The message was one of inquiry as to the secretary's illness. Mr. Hay replied "mild cystitis," improving. Nothing complex."

He stated that it was impossible that the secretary could have uremia since Mr. Hay's kidneys were altogether healthy.

This entire information, including the cablegram was sent by Secy. Hay, was passed on to Dr. Scudder, who, after a hasty interview with the doctor, repeated the statement concerning the illness of Secy. Hay was entirely correct. The doctor observed that in its early stages Mr. Hay was taking the bath recently at that resort. The message was one of inquiry as to the secretary's illness. Mr. Hay replied "mild cystitis," improving. Nothing complex."

He stated that it was impossible that the secretary could have uremia since Mr. Hay's kidneys were altogether healthy.

This entire information, including the cablegram was sent by Secy. Hay, was passed on to Dr. Scudder, who, after a hasty interview with the doctor, repeated the statement concerning the illness of Secy. Hay was entirely correct. The doctor observed that in its early stages Mr. Hay was taking the bath recently at that resort. The message was one of inquiry as to the secretary's illness. Mr. Hay replied "mild cystitis," improving. Nothing complex."

He stated that it was impossible that the secretary could have uremia since Mr. Hay's kidneys were altogether healthy.

This entire information, including the cablegram was sent by Secy. Hay, was passed on to Dr. Scudder, who, after a hasty interview with the doctor, repeated the statement concerning the illness of Secy. Hay was entirely correct. The doctor observed that in its early stages Mr. Hay was taking the bath recently at that resort. The message was one of inquiry as to the secretary's illness. Mr. Hay replied "mild cystitis," improving. Nothing complex."

He stated that it was impossible that the secretary could have uremia since Mr. Hay's kidneys were altogether healthy.

This entire information, including the cablegram was sent by Secy. Hay, was passed on to Dr. Scudder, who, after a hasty interview with the doctor, repeated the statement concerning the illness of Secy. Hay was entirely correct. The doctor observed that in its early stages Mr. Hay was taking the bath recently at that resort. The message was one of inquiry as to the secretary's illness. Mr. Hay replied "mild cystitis," improving. Nothing complex."

He stated that it was impossible that the secretary could have uremia since Mr. Hay's kidneys were altogether healthy.

This entire information, including the cablegram was sent by Secy. Hay, was passed on to Dr. Scudder, who, after a hasty interview with the doctor, repeated the statement concerning the illness of Secy. Hay was entirely correct. The doctor observed that in its early stages Mr. Hay was taking the bath recently at that resort. The message was one of inquiry as to the secretary's illness. Mr. Hay replied "mild cystitis," improving. Nothing complex."

He stated that it was impossible that the secretary could have uremia since Mr. Hay's kidneys were altogether healthy.

This entire information, including the cablegram was sent by Secy. Hay, was passed on to Dr. Scudder, who, after a hasty interview with the doctor, repeated the statement concerning the illness of Secy. Hay was entirely correct. The doctor observed that in its early stages Mr. Hay was taking the bath recently at that resort. The message was one of inquiry as to the secretary's illness. Mr. Hay replied "mild cystitis," improving. Nothing complex."

He stated that it was impossible that the secretary could have uremia since Mr. Hay's kidneys were altogether healthy.

This entire information, including the cablegram was sent by Secy. Hay, was passed on to Dr. Scudder, who, after a hasty interview with the doctor, repeated the statement concerning the illness of Secy. Hay was entirely correct. The doctor observed that in its early stages Mr. Hay was taking the bath recently at that resort. The message was one of inquiry as to the secretary's illness. Mr. Hay replied "mild cystitis," improving. Nothing complex."

He stated that it was impossible that the secretary could have uremia since Mr. Hay's kidneys were altogether healthy.

This entire information, including the cablegram was sent by Secy. Hay, was passed on to Dr. Scudder, who, after a hasty interview with the doctor, repeated the statement concerning the illness of Secy. Hay was entirely correct. The doctor observed that in its early stages Mr. Hay was taking the bath recently at that resort. The message was one of inquiry as to the secretary's illness. Mr. Hay replied "mild cystitis," improving. Nothing complex."

He stated that it was impossible that the secretary could have uremia since Mr. Hay's kidneys were altogether healthy.

This entire information, including the cablegram was sent by Secy. Hay, was passed on to Dr. Scudder, who, after a hasty interview with the doctor, repeated the statement concerning the illness of Secy. Hay was entirely correct. The doctor observed that in its early stages Mr. Hay was taking the bath recently at that resort. The message was one of inquiry as to the secretary's illness. Mr. Hay replied "mild cystitis," improving. Nothing complex."

He stated that it was impossible that the secretary could have uremia since Mr. Hay's kidneys were altogether healthy.

This entire information, including the cablegram was sent by Secy. Hay, was passed on to Dr. Scudder, who, after a hasty interview with the doctor, repeated the statement concerning the illness of Secy. Hay was entirely correct. The doctor observed that in its early stages Mr. Hay was taking the bath recently at that resort. The message was one of inquiry as to the secretary's illness. Mr. Hay replied "mild cystitis," improving. Nothing complex."

He stated that it was impossible that the secretary could have uremia since Mr. Hay's kidneys were altogether healthy.

This entire information, including the cablegram was sent by Secy. Hay, was passed on to Dr. Scudder, who, after a hasty interview with the doctor, repeated the statement concerning the illness of Secy. Hay was entirely correct. The doctor observed that in its early stages Mr. Hay was taking the bath recently at that resort. The message was one of inquiry as to the secretary's illness. Mr. Hay replied "mild cystitis," improving. Nothing complex."

He stated that it was impossible that the secretary could have uremia since Mr. Hay's kidneys were altogether healthy.

This entire information, including the cablegram was sent by Secy. Hay, was passed on to Dr. Scudder, who, after a hasty interview with the doctor, repeated the statement concerning the illness of Secy. Hay was entirely correct. The doctor observed that in its early stages Mr. Hay was taking the bath recently at that resort. The message was one of inquiry as to the secretary's illness. Mr. Hay replied "mild cystitis," improving. Nothing complex."

He stated that it was impossible that the secretary could have uremia since Mr. Hay's kidneys were altogether healthy.

This entire information, including the cablegram was sent by Secy. Hay, was passed on to Dr. Scudder, who, after a hasty interview with the doctor, repeated the statement concerning the illness of Secy. Hay was entirely correct. The doctor observed that in its early stages Mr. Hay was taking the bath recently at that resort. The message was one of inquiry as to the secretary's illness. Mr. Hay replied "mild cystitis," improving. Nothing complex."

He stated that it was impossible that the secretary could have uremia since Mr. Hay's kidneys were altogether healthy.

This entire information, including the cablegram was sent by Secy. Hay, was passed on to Dr. Scudder, who, after a hasty interview with the doctor, repeated the statement concerning the illness of Secy. Hay was entirely correct. The doctor observed that in its early stages Mr. Hay was taking the bath recently at that resort. The message was one of inquiry as to the secretary's illness. Mr. Hay replied "mild cystitis," improving. Nothing complex."

He stated that it was impossible that the secretary could have uremia since Mr. Hay's kidneys were altogether healthy.

This entire information, including the cablegram was sent by Secy. Hay, was passed on to Dr. Scudder, who, after a hasty interview with the doctor, repeated the statement concerning the illness of Secy. Hay was entirely correct. The doctor observed that in its early stages Mr. Hay was taking the bath recently at that resort. The message was one of inquiry as to the secretary's illness. Mr. Hay replied "mild cystitis," improving. Nothing complex."

He stated that it was impossible that the secretary could have uremia since Mr. Hay's kidneys were altogether healthy.

This entire information, including the cablegram was sent by Secy. Hay, was passed on to Dr. Scudder, who, after a hasty interview with the doctor, repeated the statement concerning the illness of Secy. Hay was entirely correct. The doctor observed that in its early stages Mr. Hay was taking the bath recently at that resort. The message was one of inquiry as to the secretary's illness. Mr. Hay replied "mild cystitis," improving. Nothing complex."

He stated that it was impossible that the secretary could have uremia since Mr. Hay's kidneys were altogether healthy.

This entire information, including the cablegram was sent by Secy. Hay, was passed on to Dr. Scudder, who, after a hasty interview with the doctor, repeated the statement concerning the illness of Secy. Hay was entirely correct. The doctor observed that in its early stages Mr. Hay was taking the bath recently at that resort. The message was one of inquiry as to the secretary's illness. Mr. Hay replied "mild cystitis," improving. Nothing complex."

He stated that it was impossible that the secretary could have uremia since Mr. Hay's kidneys were altogether healthy.

This entire information, including the cablegram was sent by Secy. Hay, was passed on to Dr. Scudder, who, after a hasty interview with the doctor, repeated the statement concerning the illness of Secy. Hay was entirely correct. The doctor observed that in its early stages Mr. Hay was taking the bath recently at that resort. The message was one of inquiry as to the secretary's illness. Mr. Hay replied "mild cystitis," improving. Nothing complex."

He stated that it was impossible that the secretary could have uremia since Mr. Hay's kidneys were altogether healthy.

This entire information, including the cablegram was sent by Secy. Hay, was passed on to Dr. Scudder, who, after a hasty interview with the doctor, repeated the statement concerning the illness of Secy. Hay was entirely correct. The doctor observed that in its early stages Mr. Hay was taking the bath recently at that resort. The message was one of inquiry as to the secretary's illness. Mr. Hay replied "mild cystitis," improving. Nothing complex."

He stated that it was impossible that the secretary could have uremia since Mr. Hay's kidneys were altogether healthy.

This entire information, including the cablegram was sent by Secy. Hay, was passed on to Dr. Scudder, who, after a hasty interview with the doctor, repeated the statement concerning the illness of Secy. Hay was entirely correct. The doctor observed that in its early stages Mr. Hay was taking the bath recently at that resort. The message was one of inquiry as to the secretary's illness. Mr. Hay replied "mild cystitis," improving. Nothing complex."

He stated that it was impossible that the secretary could have uremia since Mr. Hay's kidneys were altogether healthy.

This entire information, including the cablegram was sent by Secy. Hay, was passed on to Dr. Scudder, who, after a hasty interview with the doctor, repeated the statement concerning the illness of Secy. Hay was entirely correct. The doctor observed that in its early stages Mr. Hay was taking the bath recently at that resort. The message was one of inquiry as to the secretary's illness. Mr. Hay replied "mild cystitis," improving. Nothing complex."

He stated that it was impossible that the secretary could have uremia since Mr. Hay's kidneys were altogether healthy.

This entire information, including the cablegram was sent by Secy. Hay, was passed on to Dr. Scudder, who, after a hasty interview with the doctor, repeated the statement concerning the illness of Secy. Hay was entirely correct. The doctor observed that in its early stages Mr. Hay was taking the bath recently at that resort. The message was one of inquiry as to the secretary's illness. Mr. Hay replied "mild cystitis," improving. Nothing complex."

He stated that it was impossible that the secretary could have uremia since Mr. Hay's kidneys were altogether healthy.

This entire information, including the cablegram was sent by Secy. Hay, was passed on to Dr. Scudder, who, after a hasty interview with the doctor, repeated the statement concerning the illness of Secy. Hay was entirely correct. The doctor observed that in its early stages Mr. Hay was taking the bath recently at that resort. The message was one of inquiry as to the secretary's illness. Mr. Hay replied "mild cystitis," improving. Nothing complex."

He stated that it was impossible that the secretary could have uremia since Mr. Hay's kidneys were altogether healthy.

This entire information, including the cablegram was sent by Secy. Hay, was passed on to Dr. Scudder, who, after a hasty interview with the doctor, repeated the statement concerning the illness of Secy. Hay was entirely correct. The doctor observed that in its early stages Mr. Hay was taking the bath recently at that resort. The message was one of inquiry as to the secretary's illness. Mr. Hay replied "mild cystitis," improving. Nothing complex."

He stated that it was impossible that the secretary could have uremia since Mr. Hay's kidneys were altogether healthy.

This entire information, including the cablegram was sent by Secy. Hay, was passed on to Dr. Scudder, who, after a hasty interview with the doctor, repeated the statement concerning the illness of Secy. Hay was entirely correct. The doctor observed that in its early stages Mr. Hay was taking the bath recently at that resort. The message was one of inquiry as to the secretary's illness. Mr. Hay replied "mild