ROOM AT THE TOP, SAYS DR. JORDAN

Distinguished Educator Tells What The Century Demands of Young Men.

MUST BE EARNEST WORKERS.

Says Present Era Will be Strenuous, Complex and Democratic-Speaker Well Received.

The visit of a distinguished educator is always an event of interest in any community, and particularly in this city is the visit of the president of Stanford university an occurrence of special moment. There are many graduates and undergraduates of that institution resident in this city and vicinity, and their respect for Dr. Jordan, as well as the high esteem in which this noted college president is held, was well and courteously evidenced last night, by the fine turnout of the admirers and friends of Stanford and its executive, in Barratt Hall, President Jordan is peaker, made more impressive by his speaker, made more impressive by his heroic stature and pleasing style of address. As an expert in the knowledge of the philosophy of life, and the ins and outs of human experience and the more striking features of the strenuous in the American character, Dr. Jordan probably has no superior in this country, and consequently anything he may say may with profit be carefully listened to. His theme last night was, "The Call of the Twentieth Century," and he gave it with all the night was, "The Call of the Twentleth Century," and he gave it with all the force and power of a bugle call from the heights of Progress to come up out of the crowded depths below, to the roomier and more agreeable heights above. "Exelcior!" was echoed and re-echoed all through the address.

The speaker emphasized that not only is the work of the century strenuous, complex and democratic, but the kind of men who are to do the work will be the ones whose force of character is commensurate to the achievement called for. The young man of clean life, the young man who can "carry the message to Garcia," need have no no matter in what special field life may have been spent, his life may have been spent.
Dr. Jordan was introduced by Isaac Russell of the Deseret News in a few fitly, well worded remarks; and in the course of his address, the speaker said;

DR. JORDAN'S REMARKS.

"In many respects the twentieth century wil be just like the centuries that have preceded, but it will have three special qualities. It is going to be strenuous, complex, democratic. Strenuous of course it will be. We have so many things to do in this century, with less than 100 years to do them, that we are going to have a very strenuous life. It will be a very complex century. The world has been changed very much by the discoveries of science, by much by the discoveries of science, by the application of our knowledge, and we have made what was once a very large world very small. All the people of the world are now acquaintances of curs. Every caravan of the world goes through our front yards eventually in the world. Whenever anything ens in the world that hurts any mappens in the world that states any one, it in a measure hurts us.

"In the old days in Utah, in the old days in New England people said yes and no a few times in their lives; accepted their religious and political faith, settled a few little things as to when they would plant corn, and then it was all over New every man year offer. all over. Now, every man very often says yes or no. We have to decide po-Hiteal questions; we cannot go along the old religious lines without asking some questions. All this means that life has grown more complex.

"And because the twentieth century "And because the twentieth century is strenuous, because it is complex, it must be democratic. The great discovery of the nineteenth century was the reality of external things. The great discovery of the twentieth century will be the discovery of social geometry, that a straight line is the shortest distance between two points. What I mean by this is that we have so many things to do that have to be done so rapidly and economically that if we want to have a message carried to Garwant to have a message carried to Gar-cla we must send that man, must find that man that can do the thing that has to be done, and we do not care whether he is a son of a lord, a duke or a sewer cleaner. We don't care where he was educated, what degrees he has, what letters he writes after his name or what ribbons he wears in his coat, so long as he does his work.

DEMOCRACY IS OPPORTUNITY. "What we mean by democracy is op-portunity. Emerson said that Ameri-ca means opportunity. It means at the same time a chance for a man who can, do something to find something to do. We sometimes say that democracy means equality, and we sometimes we sometimes complain that we don't get quality. equality. It means equality at the

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL

Few People Know How Useful it is in Preserving Health and Beauty.

Preserving Health and Beauty.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose. Charcoal is a remedy that the mere you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartie.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it dis infects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form on another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are coppered of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form or rather in the form of large ploasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with noney.

The delly use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician in speaking of the benefits of charcoal says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent preparation yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box start, equality before the law. It means that every child shall have a fair start and that every man shall have fair play; that we shall not trip It means the oppor tunity for each kind of man to find the work for which he is best suited and to do that kind of work well. "Now, what is there in this twentieth century for young men to do? Every-thing. There was never such demand for engineers, and if every young man in this state of Utah has the brains and honesty and courage to become a mining engineer, there is room in the United States, in South America, for every one of them. So with electrical engineers; so with civil engineers, naval engineers, social engineers, engineers of commerce. If every young man in this state and in California went into com-merce to deal honestly with foreign countries, there would be no danger of the business being overcrowded.

PROFESSIONS NOT CROWDED.

"We say in America that all the professions are crowded, but you will notice that the crowd is always around the bottom of the ladder. There are lenty of lawyers starving to death. But they ought to starve to death; they ought to go to the penitentiary and be fed at public expense. But every once in a while there is a man who realizes that the law is the science of equality, an expression of justice among men, who has brains and courage, and he is very much wanted. And now, what kind of young men does the century want for the work that it has to do? If you will go through your streets—and this is, no doubt, a very temperate town—you will see hanging out at the saloons the kind of young men that the century does not wante-the kind of young men that will, by and by, be thrown into the gutter. I am not going to preach a temperance ecture, but I think that strength of this twentieth century is going to be destroyed by the vices that come from liquor. I think that the great crime and sin of this world of ours is the waste of young life through the influence of the saloon.

"The century is going to want trained young men. Wisdom is knowknow how to do it. If a man is going to be a hero in great things, he has to practise to be a hero in little things.

MEN MUST BE LOYAL.

"The world is going to demand devoted men. The world is going to demand men who, like Abraham Lincoln, are too simply great to scheme for their own interests. That is what makes Theodore Roosevelt so universally popular. The century is going to demand loyal men. Half the value of any man's service lies in his loyalty. You have no right to work for a man You have no right to work for a man and kick against him. Give loyal service or get out. If I were going to say some one thing that was worth while I would say to the young men here something like this: 'Far off in the twentieth century, 1920 or 1930, away off there, the man that you ought to be is waiting for you. Now, while this man is waiting for you, will you live in such a way that this man who is the man you ought to be shall be strong in your strength, wise in your strong in your strength, wise in your experience, happy in your joys, or will you live in such a way as to destroy your patrimony and the man you ought to be shall never exist."

AT STATE I NIVERSITY.

Dr. Jordan Refers to Educational Advancement in Utah.

President David Starr Jordan of Stanford university arrived from the east over the Rio Grunde yesterday afternoon, and was escorted from the depot to the State University by Mr. Isaac Russell of the Deseret News, where the distinguished visitor found are estimated as a contraction of the contracti an enthusiastic student body waiting to receive him. an enthusiastic student body waiting to receive him. As he entered the assembly room, the entire audience arose to do him honor, and then greeted him with the "yell" of the institution. Dr. Jordan was introduced by President Hopkins of the senior class. The speaker said in part:

"It is about five years ago since I last had the privilege of addressing University of Utah students," said Dr. Jordan, "and as none of you students were even freshmen then, I suppose there is little danger of my remarks seeming like a chestnut. To visit these western universities I have always considered a pleasure. Perhaps the Texas rancher partly expressed it when he told me that the best steers are always on the outside of the bunch. Utah, California, Idaho and Colorado are states sort of on the outside of the bunch.

When I was here 25 years ago as a representative of the government, I re-member walking up the streets of Provo with a young man who teld me member walking up the streets of Provo with a young man who told me that Utah boys were rough, that they had no chance of an education, and that consequently Utah girls didn't like them. At that time the Brigham Young acadeny was just starting, and I know that you had few large educational institutions in the state. But conditions have changed. Your university is now as big as Harvard was when I first saw it, and I know from the work that Utah boys have done and are doing at Stauford, that you have good schools in Utah; that your boys are no longer rough, and that some girls do like Utah boys."

Dr. Jordan then made a comparison between American and European colleges and concluded thus: "Happiness in life does not consist in getting a routine job, an easy job. It consists rather in doing the thing you want, the thing you like to do and getting paid for it. Happiness is associated with doing, it is in working, fighting struggling and moving on toward the ideal. There is always room for the man of force, and as Emerson has said he makes room for more.' Twenty-five years ago our universities were talked about and attended as mere matters of

And so, students, I congratulate you, first on being in college, and secondly for being in this State of Utah, where the finest steers are on the outside of the bunch."

President Jordan was entertained after the University lecture and before repairing to Barratt hall, at the University club where an informal dinner was given in his honor. The doctor met there many Stanford men, as well as graduates from many other legiate institutions, and enjoyed him-self very much.
