EASTERN-Washington, 1.—The sub-judiciary committee met again this a.m. and continued the examination of James Mulligan. Witness said he wanted to make a statement he wanted to make a statement before continuing his examination. He said that when he arrived here a note came down from Blaine requesting witness and Fisher to call at his house. Witness declined to go, but Fisher went after. Witness testified yesterday that Blaine called upon witness and asked him about some letters which were in his possession, and wanted witness to give them up to him, but witness declined to do so. Witness and Blaine almost got down on the wanted wanted a final report to-day, completely experient. said Blaine almost got down en his knees and plead for the letters, saying they would ruin him for life, and when witness further declined, Blaine asked him to think of his blaine asked him to think of his sembly Rooms to night. Cattell began to pay him back as was cavenient, and the secount was closed by their giving him a check for $2,500. The Secretary produced all the notes and checks, showing that his indebtedness to the firm of Jay Cook & Co. was settled. The Secretary also explained the item of $13,000, which appeared on Cattell's bonds, as the amount owing by him for a building lot and cottage at Long Branch. The property was not at fang. Branch but two miles off, at Meanmouth Beach. In 1871 a number of gentlemen formed a company and entered into a speculation by buying a farm on credit and dividing it into building lots. He went into the speculation believing, with the other gentlemen, that they could sell enough of the property to may them all. Back what they had all wanced and make a good deal of money besides. It was not, however, convenient for him at that time to go into the speculation and spend success.
