[Special to the Deseret Evening News.]

By Telegraph.

Washington, 13.—Gen. Sherman was called.—Stanberry asked if the witness, after the resolution of Stanton, formed a good opinion of the service required of another secretary of war, and expressed such an opinion to the President. Butler objected. After a lengthy discussion a vote was taken on the question when it was not admitted, yeas, 15, nays 35.

(Question by Senator Johnson) Did you at any time advise the President to appoint another person as Secretary of War in place of Stanton. An objection was made to the question and it was not admitted, yeas 18, nays 32. A consultation then took place among the President's counsel the result of which was that they gave up Gen. Sherman as a witness; Butler declined to cross examine. A recess of fifteen minutes was then taken.

Upon reassembling R. J. Meigs, Clerk of the Supreme Court for the district was called and testified that he affixed the seal to the warrant for the arrest of Gen. Thomas, about two o'clock in the morning upon the affidavit of Secretary Stanton. Stanberry offered these papers as evidence, but Butler objected on the ground that it did not bear upon the case. The Chief Justice decided that the papers were competent evidence. Conness appealed from the decision but the Senate sustained the Chief Justice, 34 to 17.

Gen. Sherman was called to answer the question put by Senator Johnson—whether, when the President tendered him the office of Secretary of War ad interim, he told him for what purpose he was doing this. An objection was made to the question, but it was decided to be admissible. While Sherman was answering, Butler stopped him and objected to him proceeding further. Johnson then offered an additional question—"What did the President tell you his purpose was?" This was objected to, but the Senate sustained the question by 26 yeas to 25 nays. Sherman said the President told me the relations between Stanton and himself and other members of the Cabinet were such that he must fill Stanton's place with another ad interim, and that the appointment must be in the interests of the country at large and of the army. He did not say his purpose was to take the matter into court, though he said he was satisfied that, if it went into court, it would not stand half an hour.

Stanberry asked the witness to relate what the President said at other interviews. The managers objected on the ground that the court had dismissed the witness, who was recalled, simply to answer one question and the counsel had no right to examine him further. The question was finally admitted, when the witness said that nothing definite was said by either himself or the President at their first interview. At the second the President expressed a desire to have the constitutionality of the tenure of office law tested; he also said if the witness accepted the position of secretary ad interim, Stanton would make no resistance, he was too cowardly. Witness gave no positive answer at the time.

Henderson asked if the witness gave the President any advice on the subject.

The Senate refused to admit the question, when Gen. Sherman retired, the managers informing him that they would recall him to-morrow. The court then adjourned.

On the court assembling Sumner offered an order that such other of the managers and counsel as chose may print and file their remarks on the closing argument. Conness objected. The Chief Justice directed that the order should lie over.

Evarts stated that Stanberry is ill, but would possibly be able to resume his duties to-morrow.

Washburne offered the following preamble and resolution, reciting: That whereas it is reported that efforts are being made to induce the government to transfer to a private company, without consideration with Congress, the island of St. Paul, being a portion of the territory embraced in the treaty with Russia; and whereas the said island is believed to be very valuable, being the only home of the fur seal in the world; Be it resolved that the committee on foreign affairs be directed to inquire into the subject and report to the House: agreed to. There being no quorum present no business of importance was transacted.

Trenton, 13.—The city election, today, resulted in the choice of the whole democratic ticket, with about two hundred majority and with a majority of the Common Council.
