

PRESIDENCY VISITS CHOIR

Tabernacle Singers Honored and Instructed by Pres. Smith And Counselors.

THE ATTENDANCE WAS LARGE.

Unfailing Presence of All Members Enjoined Upon Everyone—Stirring Selections Rendered.

The tabernacle choir had an unusually interesting meeting last night, being visited by the first presidency. Over 400 members crowded the choir platform and ranged well up towards the ceiling. The singers greeted their distinguished visitors with a hearty round of applause as they entered. At their request the choir sang a few stirring selections, including the "Hallelujah" (Handels), Stephens and Whitney's "Glad and Mellow," "Peace be Still" and the "Soldiers' Chorus" from "Faust," after which President Joseph F. Smith took the conductor's stand, and in a feeling and earnest address told the singers how much their efforts were appreciated; how important their services were to the church; how the fame of the tabernacle choir and organ have spread the world over, and how necessary it was that this good name be preserved and lived up to, that the thousands of strangers who visit us yearly and come with great anticipations be not disappointed, nor think our good reputation not well earned.

Continuing, he said in part: "People of intelligence and learning travel, and they hear and see you here, and when they compare what they see and hear, when this glorious choir is present in goodly numbers and in goodly singing, with the evil reports and calumnies spread over the world relative to our people, they say in their hearts, 'A people who are professed in the fine arts, and who sing like that, can neither be bad nor ignorant,' and their hearts are softened to the truth."

"We realize the sacrifices you make in giving your labors here, and appreciate, and commend you for it. But when we consider that we live to do good to the human race and that our time is usually freely given to spread and promulgate the truth, we feel that you, too, feel well repaid for all your time and labors in the knowledge that you are in a most effective way doing this. Your labors here are indeed those of effective missionaries. The songs of praise to our Heavenly Father are truly sermons that reach the honest hearts of many listeners."

President Smith then admonished them that this duty could only be performed through constant punctual, regular attendance to both rehearsals and meetings, and assured them that it was expected of them to consider this duty of tabernacle choir labor first and foremost on the nights or days when the choir was in session, and that no other local church duty should be permitted to stand in their way to perform properly this duty. In case of any such conflict the members should at once consult the local authorities and have the matter adjusted so that this service which was asked of the musically gifted of our people in the interest of the church at large should not be interfered with or crippled through attendance of duties which either might be performed at other times, or transferred to other hands not needed in the choir. Thursday nights and Sabbath afternoons the choir members were urged to be diligent in their duty to the choir wholly to their labors.
He said the stake and ward authorities would again be appealed to aid in such arrangements.

After giving his heartfelt blessing to the officers and members of the choir, and exhorting its leader and organist, he called upon President John R. Winder to say a few words, the veteran president did so in a happy vein illustrating the condition of the choir leader when members were absent with an anecdote of the organ blower who threatened to shut off the organ's sight wind if he was not included as part performer, and "We" used instead of "I" in future by the organist.

He said to the great amusement of all present "When you remain away from your places, you virtually shut off Director Stephens' wind, and he is helpless to bring forth from the choir the grand musical effects he has trained you to produce."

President Anthon H. Lund then made a few kindly remarks urging all to a faithful attendance to this duty, and commenting on the beautiful sight the vast body of singers before him presented.

The choir then stood up and sang as perhaps never before Stephens' "Let the Mountains Sing," "Joy," "Dance-ing with the Doves," and "Benediction" by Pres. Smith. It was an evening long to be remembered by the choir and every singer felt in his heart to say,
"God bless you to come again."
