Morrill, in opposition to the bill, said the evil of which holders of spirits now complain would be ag-gravated by the pending measure.

Windom, the mover of the im-mending investigation into the alleged corruption in connection with the bill, replied to Beck's reference to that muter. He regarded the statement in the communication read by that Senator, that $600,000 had been raised by parti s affected by the bill, as to some extent justi-fying an investigation, especially when taken in connection with the ing the lives of white settlers reafact that this sum was raised about the time the projectors of the bill came to Congress. He proposed to go on with the investigation, and give those gentlemen an opp rtuni-ty to explain. He disclaimed havng ever intimated that any mem
