MILWAUKEE, 14.—The propeller Lac La Belle, one of the largest boats on the lakes, heavily laden with flour, grain and pork, and with a number of passengers on board, foundered, about 20 miles off Kenosha, about two o'clock this morning, having sprung a leak about midnight. The news reached Racine this afternoon. One of the Lac La Belle's boats has arrived there with eleven of her crew. They state that four or five boats and one raft were all filled with people, who left the propeller a short time before she went down. They think all the boats are safe as the lake is comparatively smooth, the weather being calm, and that few, if any, of the passengers are lost.

LATER.—Another boat load of people from the Lac La Belle has arrived at Kenosha, including the Captain and purser.

The Nautical Magazine, Liverpool, announces an ocean race from Liverpool to Callao, 11,000 miles, between the White Star steamer Republic and the Pacific Co's steamer Tacora. The latter is to sail on the 4th inst. and the Republic next day.

AUBURN, N. Y.—The streets were thronged. People arrived by trains and private conveyances. The storm continued, but the streets along the line of procession were filled with spectators. No less than 6,000 persons formed in procession, but no one was present at the funeral services of Mr. Seward, which were held at the house, except the family and relatives. After these services were over the bells of all churches tolled mournfully. The remains were carried by the servants of the deceased to St. Peter's Episcopal Church, which was already filled, except the seats reserved for the family and pall bearers, and thousands unable to gain admittance, were obliged to stand in the rain outside. The church was tastefully draped in mourning. On the altar was a beautiful cross, formed of autumn leaves. The family pew of the deceased was heavily draped in black, and sable. The altar cloth hung in festoons, gathered with miniature sheaves of wheat. In front of the altar some fifty clergymen of various denominations were seated. The Rev. Dr. Brainard, the rector of St. Peter's was assisted by Wm. Doty, St. Paul's, Waterloo; Chas. R. Hale, St. John's, Auburn; and Rev. Thos. G. Reed, Geneva. The assisting clergymen met the procession with the remains of deceased at the entrance of the church, and accompanied it up the aisle to the altar, the congregation rising to their feet as the cortege entered. The following were pall bearers: Thurlow Weed, E. D. Morgan, Richard Schell, E. W. Leavenworth, E. B. Morgan, Henry Welles, Samuel B. Ruggles, Geo. W. Patterson, formerly Lieut. Governor with Governor Seward; James Bowen, Michaels Myer, James Seymour, Richard Steele, Nelson Beardsley, former law partner of Seward; Daniel Hewson, Enos T. Throop, John Porter and General J. H. Chidell. After the body was placed on the catafalque of the altar and the mourners and pall bearers were seated the choir sang the anthem, "Lord let me know my end, and number of my days." Dr. Potter then read the lesson, commencing, "Now is Christ risen from the dead, &c." The hymn, "I would not live away" was then sung and the Lord's prayer repeated, in unison, by all the clergy. Dr. Brainard then read a prayer for persons in affliction and other prayers in the burial service, and pronounced the benediction. The lid of the casket was then raised and the entire assemblage filed slowly by the altar and took a last look of the features of the dead statesman. The procession then formed in the following order and marched to Fort Hill cemetery—Attending physicians, officiating clergy, pall bearers, hearse of the family, the clergy, the common council, board of education, distinguished strangers, foreign delegations, military in citizens' dress, firemen in citizens' dress, civic associations and citizens. On reaching the cemetery the remainder of the Episcopal burial service was read by Rev. Dr. Brainard, finishing obsequies, the most simple and impressive ever performed over the remains of a man so great in life, so universally respected, so mourned in death. The lot in which the remains of the deceased are buried is situated on gradually sloping ground, surrounded by noble old trees. The grave lies between two beautiful sarcophagi, one on the left containing the remains of his former wife, and the one on the right those of his daughter. All the military, firemen and civic societies were in citizens' dress, and no music was in line.

SAN FRANCISCO, 14.—The U. S. Commissioner, to-day, after hearing the evidence of the prosecution against Capt. Ingram, of the Colorado, charged with causing the death of Miss Shipman, on the high seas, dismissed the defendant.

The U. S. Branch Mint, Treasury and Custom House were closed throughout the day, in respect to the memory of the late Wm. H. Seward. Flags were also at half mast in different parts of the city.

The trial of private detective Ansbro, on a charge of libeling Edith O'Gorman, "the escaped nun," occupied most of the day in the municipal court. The case was given to the jury at a quarter past five, and in less than three minutes they returned a verdict of "guilty." It will be recollected that the alleged libel consisted of statements made to the reporter of the Post by him, published in that paper, charging O'Gorman with buying whisky in bar rooms. The sentence will be pronounced on Saturday. O'Gorman and her husband were on the stand during the trial, and appeared to receive the verdict with great satisfaction.

Some people felt a slight shock of earthquake a few minutes after midnight, but it was not general.

TRUCKEE, 14.—Last night, as the east bound passenger train arrived about a quarter of a mile west of this place, the tender jumped the track, throwing the mail, baggage and express cars down an embankment, totally demolishing them, and instantly killing Van Wormer, the messenger of W. F. & Co., Captain Taylor, the guard, and Mr. Houk, the postal agent. D. G. Marshall, conductor, was caught between the baggage car and the sleepers, and his body nearly severed in two. The bodies were taken to Sacramento for burial. Mr. Miner, the brakeman, was fatally injured. The wreck is a fearful sight.

SAN DIEGO.—A private correspondence dated Tucson 8th, says that on Sept. 30th, the Apaches attacked Hughes' ranch, near Camp Crittenden, killed a Mexican and stole a number of animals. Word was sent to the post and Lieut. Hall, of the 5th cavalry, took 15 men to the house on the ranch where Mrs. Gabreas and children were besieged by Indians about 100 strong, with breech loading guns. They retired to the mountains near by, and defied the troops to attack them. The disparity being so great, no fight was attempted. Lieut. Hall then dispatched a sergeant and seven men to warn the farmers further down the valley of the danger, and on the return of this party when near Hughes' ranch, the Indians attacked them and killed sergeant Geo. Steward, corporal Wm. Nation, and privates Ed. Carr and Jno. Wilson, all of the 5th cavalry. The bodies of all the men were found and buried. Just as this was done an order was received by Lieut. Hall from Gen. O. O. Howard, directing that the Indians on the road and in the mountains should not be fired on unless engaged in actual outrages. The same order was sent to all the posts south of the Gila river. Howard was at that time in the Dragon mountains with the noted Cochise, trying to induce him and 90 of his band to go on the reservation.

On the 6th of October a large band of Apaches, from the Santa Rita mountains, with a herd of stolen cattle, attacked a party of American and Mexican miners, 30 miles south of Tucson, and robbed them of all their animals. The Indians were armed with the best guns, and fixed ammunition.

BALTIMORE.—The Archbishop of New York, and all the Bishops attending the ceremonies at the installation of Archbishop Bayley, were in Conference yesterday several hours. It is understood that a provincial council will be summoned early in the administration of the new Archbishop in the interest of the colored people. The subject of secular education will be a prominent topic of consideration. At a banquet given to Archbishop Bayley, that dignitary, in his remarks, said he never did believe in opposing liberty of conscience, and he was an earnest advocate of its fullest exercise. He believed he was appointed to his present trust because he was known to be opposed to the materialistic spirit of the age, and an enemy of intemperance.

CHICAGO.—Two boats from the propeller Lac La Belle, which foundered in Lake Michigan, yesterday morning, landed at Racine last night, one containing twelve persons, the other seven. This, with the four in the Captain's boat, a very small skiff, which reached Kenosha last night, makes twenty-three in all known to be saved. The clerk of the Lac La Belle, who commanded one of the boats which has arrived at Racine, says there were in all fifty-two persons on board, twenty-one of whom were passengers, including two children. Five or six men refused to leave the vessel, and when she went down they were seen struggling in the waves, and the sea running too high to admit of assistance reaching them, and it is thought they were drowned. Two boats with 23 people are still missing, but it is thought both are safe, as one of them with ten persons aboard was seen by the clerk's boat yesterday p.m., steering north, and he thinks they were picked up by a passing schooner. The cause of the disaster was shipping heavy sea amidsthips, which put out fires, stopped the engines and allowed the vessel to swing into the trough of the sea, where she started her seams open. She kept afloat about six hours—from midnight Sunday, till near six o'clock yesterday morning. Her cargo, which was valuable, is a total loss, a great part being thrown overboard by the crew in the attempt to lighten her and keep her afloat.

Speaker Blaine addressed an immense Republican meeting here last night.

NEW YORK.—A Paris special says there was great excitement in Paris last night, consequent upon the reception by President Thiers of a box of bombs, with an anonymous letter stating that a thousand bombs had been sent to Paris. Troops were placed in suspected quarters. The imperialists are closely watched. Thiers and Marshal McMahon had a conference last night.

A Washington special says that a prominent government officer, traveling in Europe, writes from Rome to a friend in this city, as follows: "Speaking of the Pope, I must confess that I was greatly astonished to find his authority here so completely ignored. The people here hate the priests, and have seconded all the movements of the King of Italy against the papal power. I can tell you, as a matter of personal knowledge, that the Vatican is all that the Pope has left. The Quirinal and his other palaces have been taken from him. Many of the churches have been seized and converted into offices, or military barracks. The monasteries and convents have been broken up and other church buildings closed. The papal troops have been disbanded and the household guard who are not permitted outside the Vatican in uniform, I learn will also be broken up. Of 72 Cardinals, the number has been reduced to about 45. Politically, Europe is in a critical condition. The meeting of the Emperors at Berlin is considered a hypocritical thing, gotten up for effect to quiet the political and social fermentation going on among the masses."

BALTIMORE, 14.—The ceremony of the installation of the new Archbishop, Bayley, at the Cathedral yesterday, was the most brilliant religious pageant ever witnessed at Baltimore. None were allowed but those holding tickets, notwithstanding which at least five thousand people were crowded within the building, while fully as many more assembled in the streets and around the church, all were anxious to see the new prelate and witness the imposing ceremonies. Arrangements were all made under the direction of the Young Catholic Friends Society, who were present to the number of several hundred. In the procession following, were bishops Becker, of Wilmington, Delaware; Gibbons, of Richmond, Va.; Muller, of Erie, Pa.; Wood, of Philadelphia, Pa.; Dominic, of Pittsburg; Persico, of Savannah, Ga.; O'Hara, of Scranton, Pa.; all the bishops of prominence being present, except those of Wheeling and St. Augustine; archbishop McClosky, of New York, came next in religious state, and was followed by the new archbishop Bayley, and Fathers Manus and Lee, who were deacons of honor.

The interior of the cathedral was grand beyond description. The steps of the main altar were adorned with massive vases of flowers. The tabernacle was surrounded with wreaths of flowers and evergreens and lighted up brilliantly with wax tapers. The side altars were also beautified in a similar manner. One great feature was the arch of the bishop's throne, the canopy being nearly all of beautiful flowers, while within the covering was a mass of roses. Among the floral decorations was a crown and cross, composed of rare flowers, presented by President Grant for the occasion. Bishop Wood, in the absence of Wheeler, senior Bishop, delivered the pallium, with brief and merely formal remarks, and after receiving it the archbishop delivered his sermon, which was in a familiar paternal vein, the archbishop modestly deprecating his fitness for the office and expressing the wish that the honor might have fallen on one more worthy, at the same time expressing a pressing sense of the new and responsible duties conferred upon him. Referring to the responsibilities of Catholics, he said:

"It cannot be denied that a terrible tempest has been borne on the Sea of Peter. A violent storm has assailed it and beat against its strong walls with furious menace and fierce blowing, but like him in the sea of Galilee, we must be firm in all that concerns the protection of the Holy See. The old vessel has stood out the blasts of too many storms to go down in this age of the Christian world. Nothing can take away our obligations to the church. It is a guide to us in every thing. Catholics always avoid wrong. Who ever saw good Catholics join the Internationals, become Mormons or make Women's rights speeches?"

At the close of the discourse the Archbishop took the prescribed oath of office, after which the Te Deum was sung and the ceremonies were over.

NEW YORK, 15.—A very pleasant banquet was given this evening to Mr. Froude. There were present the Rev. Doctors Bellows, Potter, Beecher, Chaplin and Schenck. R. W. Emerson, George W. Curtis, William Cullen Bryant, Professor Wolsey, of Yale, Professor Guyot, of Princetown, Park Goodwin, George Childs and Robert Hoe, who made short addresses. Mr. Curtis presided. Froude explained that the object of his visit was to contribute to the formation of public opinion in this country regarding the relations between England and Ireland.

Frederick Fraley, of St. Louis, was elected permanent chairman. A delegation was also present from the Dominion board of trade, headed by the Hon. John Young, and were, on motion, admitted to seats. Young, returning thanks for the courtesy, spoke of the disadvantage to both countries for want of reciprocity. He said the Canadians wanted all barriers to trade thrown down. Several vice-presidents were elected, and some committees appointed, when an adjournment took place till tomorrow at 10 o'clock.

Dr. Monnier, resident physician of the Brooklyn Homeopathic Hospital has been discharged by the lady managers, on the ground that he is a Roman Catholic.
