Bill for a New Mining Law.

The following bill was introduced into the House of Representatives, Dec. 15, by Hon. J. D. Ward of Chicago. It was referred to the Committee on Public Lands:

A bill supplemental to and amendatory to the Act entitled "An Act to promote the development of the mining resources of the United States," approved May 10, 1872.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That any person, association or corporation, qualified under existing laws to receive a patent from the United States for mineral land, who claim mining locations upon veins or lodes of quartz or other rock in place, bearing gold, silver, cinnabar, lead, tin, copper, or other valuable deposits, or placer claims, situate upon the public domain, upon which the sum of not less than $500 has been expended in labor or improvements, shall, within one year from the date of the passage of this Act, file with the Register and the Receiver of the proper Land District, in manner prescribed by the Act to which this is supplemental and amendatory, an application for a patent for the mine, mining ground, land and premises so claimed; and if no adverse claim be filed during the publication of the notice thereof, such claimant shall within three months from the date of such filing of his application, make the final proof required under said Act, and pay for the land included in his claim at the rate of ten dollars per acre.

Sec. 2. That in the case of mining claims which now are, or may hereafter be located, and upon which the sum of $500 has not been expended in labor or improvements, the claimants thereof shall make application for patent therefor, in manner prescribed by law, within one year from the time when such $500 shall have been expended in labor or improvements thereon, and shall make final proof and payment therefor, in manner and at the rate aforesaid, within three months from the date of such application, if no adverse claim be filed during the publication of the notice: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall be considered as releasing the holders or claimants of unpatented mining locations from the obligation to expend the amount in labor or improvements thereon during each year such mining claims remain unpatented, as now required by law.

Sec. 3. That where an adverse claim is filed, and the right of possession shall be determined by judicial decree, in manner provided by the seventh section of said Act of May 10, 1872, the party in whose favor such final judgment shall be rendered shall, within six months from the date of the rendition of such judgment, make the filing required in such cases by said seventh section, and pay for such claim at the rate of ten dollars per acre.

Sec. 4. That where, under existing laws, application for patents for mining claims have been made, and due notice thereof given, without the appearance of an adverse claimant, and in which cases no further proceedings have been had for the purpose of perfecting title, the applicant, his heirs, successors or assigns, shall make final proof and payment, at the rate herein fixed, within six months from the date of the passage of this Act.

Sec. 5. That all affidavits required to be made under this Act, or the Act to which this is supplemental or amendatory, and may be verified before any officer authorized to administer oaths, and all testimony and proofs may be taken before such officer, and, when duly certified by the officer taking the same, shall have the same force and effect as if taken before the Register or the Receiver of the District Land Office.

Sec. 6. That upon the failure of the claimants of any mine, mining ground, claim, or location, to comply with the provisions of this Act, the mine, claim, or location upon which such failure occurred, shall be open to relocation by other parties in the same manner as if no location of the same had ever been made: Provided, That the said claimants, their heirs, successors, assigns, or legal representatives, have not made application for a patent for such claim after such failure and before such relocation.

Sec. 7. That all Acts or parts of Acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

NASTY STORY-TELLERS.—A friend of Bret Harte thinks our criticism on his "Luck of Roaring Camp," the other day, was rather harsh, not to say savage. We guess not. That was substantially the argument of that famous story, which is nothing more than a compound of incredibilities, spoonishness, pathos, indecency and blasphemy. If Harte had first related that story viva voce, in refined society, he would have been in imminent danger of elimination, and the young lady critic who confiscated it in the Overland office, performed an act most creditable to her delicacy. If Harte's stories were believed at the East, half of the pioneers of California would be set down as clowns and howbucks, and nearly all the women as prostitutes, for it would seem that in all his travels, he never met with any other variety of the female population, and in nearly all his stories, he lugs in a seductive "social evil" as inevitably as the she-orator does at a spiritualistic or woman suffrage convention. Such disgusting and pernicious stuff ought to be discountenanced by society. It is poison to the eyes, inflammation to the blood, and corruption to the hearts of the young.

To tell a dirty story in men's society alone, is sometimes tolerated by gentlemen of refinement, especially if it be very funny, and we have heard that occasionally ladies of the same social grade listen to the like with more or less complacency, when by themselves. But to sit down deliberately and write one out in detail, study on it, elaborate it, revise the proof, print it in a magazine, and smuggle the abominable filthiness into pure and virtuous households, is a crime against society for which the author ought to be put into the stocks, and the publisher scourged under the criminal law.—Oakland, Cal., Transcript.

The January term of the District Court opens (for the first time in the history of the county) without a criminal calendar—not a case appears. This would seem to speak well for the godliness of our people, and almost would it persuade us that we are turning the cold shoulder to crime; yet we have now in our county jail fifteen prisoners, nine of whom are waiting the action of the Grand Jury of Storey county, and three who are to have an examination before the United States Grand Jury.—Virginia, Nev., Enterprise, Jan. 6.
