We can inform the Evening Post why the had of gaining an insight into affairs here, and becoming acquainted with leading citizens—a common boast with this class of persons. The extent of his facilities can be estimated when it is known that he was in Salt Lake City one day. But then, if Anna Dickenson can obtain material enough during a stay in this city of one or two days to make a thrilling lecture about the "Mormons," a newspaper correspondent is no credit to his profession as the world goes now, who cannot in twelve hours, obtain material enough for a hours, obtain material enough for a two-column letter. Dr. Vincent was here a few hours a short time since, and gentleman that he saw a man who have a man that had killed thirty persons, because they were so stubborn because they were so sons, because they were so stubbern that they would not join the "Mormonal" The gentleman to whom he related this could scarcely credit at first that he was in earnest in saying that he believed such a transparent lie as this. But the Doctor assured him that he did believe it, for a "Federal officer" had told the story to him. After that who could dispute it? He had visited Utah without prejudice, but heleft convinced, after hearing this fabrication, that all the bad stories he had heard about the "Mornors".

The distribution of 1848 he was compared to seek refuge in exite, the people of the Pontifical States proclaiming a republic. The Catholic powers interfered in his behalf, and in 1850 he was re-installed in the possession of his temporal newer. IT will be remembered by many here, President Young made "a mighty poor land speculation." in his vindication. In his defense he said that individuals who were arrested as Prussian agents during his conduct of the military affairs of the capital, had reappeared as leaders of the insurrection, and instanced as one case that of Dombrowski. The insurrection, said the General, was merely a continuation of the war with Prussia. He concluded by condemning in vigorous terms, Bismarch's mild allusion to the Commune.

A motion was introduced in the Assembly for taxation on passports of persons entering France, as were also motions approving that the present assembly shall sit for two years and that it shall enact organic laws for the control of the finances of the country.

TREATMENT FOR POISON.—The instant a person is known to have swallowed poison by design or accident give water to drink, cold or warm, as fast as possible, a gallon or more at a time, and as fast as vomited drink more; tepid water is the best, as it opens the skin and promotes vomiting, and thus gives the speediest dure to the poisonous article. If pain begins to be felt in the bowels, it shows that part at least of the poison has passed downwards; then large and repeated injections of water should be given, the object in both cases being to dilute the poison as quickly as possible. Do not wait fer warm water—take that which is nearest at hand, cold or warm, for every second of time saved is of immense importance; at the same time send instantly for a physician, and as soon as he comes turn the case into his hands, telling him what you have done. This simple fact cannot be too widely published; it is not meant to say that drinking a gallon or two will cure every case of poisoning, but it will cure many, and benefits all by its rapidly-diluting quality. — Journal of Health. DIAMONDS.—Those of our readers who are possessed of the "gem of gems," and we hope they all are, may be interested in knowing how to estimate their value. They are invariably valued by the carat, which is four assayer's grains, and multiplying the result by the price of a single carat. The price it will thus be seen, increases in a multiple proportion to the weight. The actual price of a small rough diamond fit to be polished is about £2 per carat. One of two carats is worth, therefore, 2x2—4x2—£8; one of four carats, 4x4—16x8—£128. The value increases both by s ze and color, both for out and unout gems. A set diamond may be detected by placing wax on its back. The instre of a true gem will not be affected by this operation, while the spurious brillancy of pasta imitations will be totally destroyed by it—Ez.
