FIFTIETH CONGRESS. BENATE. WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 .- Among the

oills reported and placed on the calendar were the following: Providing for the investment of certain funds in the Treasury with an amendment striking out the provision to allow national banks to issue a circulation to the amount of their bends

The resolution offered last week by Hoar to continue the investigation ato certain events alleged to have taken place in Texas, in a petition of Stephen Hackworth and others, was Among the bills introduced and re-ferred are the following:

By Sherman, authorizing the issue of producing notes to national banks to he par value of the bands deposited The Senate joint resolution in relation to the claims of John B. Read gainst the United States, for the alleged use of projectiles for rifle ord-nance passed.

The Senate bill for the purchase of a dite and the erection of a government building in New Orleans (not to exceed in cost $200,000) passed.
The following tills also passed: To authorize the Omaha, Hayes City & Southwestern Railway Company and the Chicago, Kansas & Western Rull-way Company to build their roads

vation. The Senate then sumed the con-sideration of the bill granting pensions to ex-soldiers and sailors who are incapacitated from the performance of manual labour, and providing for pen-sions to the dependent relatives of deceased soldiers and sallors, the ques-tion being on the adoption of Call's amendment making the bill apply also to others who served in the war of Mexico or for thirty days in any of the Indian wars. The amendment was Cullom, Manderson and others. Senator Plumb held that the bill die not have the endorsement of the grane army of the republic. Plumb asked Senator Faulkner if he believed the President would veto the bill, where-upon Presiding Officer Ingalis inter-fered, saying it had been always held to be a breach of order to refer in febate to the action of the executive.

ing. Presiding Officer-The chair had intended before this to say, and takes occasion now to say that it has never been held to be in order, in a debate in the Sena'e, to refer to the opinion of the executive or to the action of the executive as an argument for or against pending legislation. Teller protested against the Senat of the United States being

been, and there ought to be, an end to the American Senate. Beck hoped that the senator from olorado would tell the Senate what he thought of the speech of the senator from Nebraska (Manderson) as to the action of the Grand Army of the Re-public beneficiaries under the bill, as to what their posts had determined that the Senate should do. Manderson suggested that if the sen ator from Kentucky proposed to take away the right of petition from the Grand Army of the Republic, he would meet with no support, even on his own side of the chamber. He desied that the Grand Army of the Republic, as an organization, was to be benefited by Senator Beck denied having eve suggested that the Grand Army of the Republic should not exercise the right of petition, and said that nobody had suggested that the President had not the right to veto an OBNOXIOUS MEASURE. The senator from Nebraska had told the Senate that the action of the com-

was itself a beneficiary under the bill. The senator's speech, he said, was was more degrading to the Senate than any allusion to the President's action on the bill could be. Manderson said he was at a loss to conceive how the executive was so minaculate and mapproachable that its action was not to be criticized. He claimed the right, not only in his capacity as a senator, but as a cifizen, to pacity as a senator, but as a cifizen, to criticise even the acts of the President. He had not discussed the probable action of the President on the bill, except to suggest the desire to have a bill passed that would probably become a law. It was that which he felt to be a degradation to the Senate, and he thought that every senator ought to feel that it was a degradation. He did not mean to say that the president was responsible for that. If he was be ought to be imfor that. If he was he ought to be im-peached. The president had no business catching the ears of the renators before a bill was presented to him.

Senator Blackburn said he deprecated a violation of that very proper rule which prohibited a senator or representative from undertaking to influence legislative action by any reference to the presented of the one political organization in the country which was in perfect working order, ready to take the field with knapsacks packed and all things ready. It was not the democratic party. Finshed with its recent victory, it had lost something of its realization and of its appreciation of the necessity for it. It was not the republican party. Crushed by its long expected and well-carned defeat, its disintegration had made it anything but an efficient organization. anything but an efficient organization today. It was the Grand Army of the republic which presented the onl efficiently organized political system on the continent today. The senato on the continent today. The senator from Nebraska who so ably championed the bill, had told the Senate and the country the bill was a demand made by the Grand Army of the Republic, and had protesed substantially against any material amendment of it, because that organization had formulated—wha? Not its petition to the American Congress, but its demand in the American Congress. demand in the American Congress for legislation in which (as. his colleague had said) it was it-selt to be a benediciary. If the senator from Nebraska was to be accepted as authority, the bill was not a petition, BUT A DEMAND sent to Congress by a great, well-or-ganized and perfectly systematized po-litical agency, that proposed to remove the trouble which environed both ouses; to do away with the revenue fils and tariff revisions and abolitions try was involved. After some remarks by Manderson and Blair, Blackburn went on to say that it was not to be wondered at if those senators in their zeal should undertake to warn the super-loyal of the land against the disloyal policy of a loyal executive. If those senators were nawliing to submit the bill for the determination of an American Congress, but insisted that it should go inrough in a stereotyped form (af-mittee of the whole the House reduced that for the appraisers building at New York to cost $1,500,000, including the site, was passed.

The House ratified this action.

Richardson of Tennessee, reported back adversely the resolution offered this morning by Anderson of lows, calling on the Public Printer for the cause of his failure to comply with the order of the House for 10,000 copies of the reports of the Pacific Railroad Commission.

Richardson stated that no such order had ever been made. The House had passed a concurrent resolution ordering printing, which still slopt in the Senate committee on pringing. The resolution was laid on the fable and the House adjourned.

Contagious Blood Poison.

Mr. D. B. Adams, Union, South Carolina, writes: "I was afflicted with a terrible case of blood poison for about thirteen months. I was treated by the best physicians, and used various kinds of remedies, but received no substantial relief. I finally tried the Swift Specific, and about four bottles cured me sound and well."

Col. B. H. Kleser, editor and proprietor of the Opelian, Ala., Tômes, under date of the Opelian, Ala., Tômes, under date of the Opelian, Ala., Tômes, under date of the Opelian, Sound indiscretion, I contracted a disease which has stuck to me for years. Some five or six years since I was troubled with pains, so as to make it diffiguit for me to walk. Having advertised the S. S. S. in my paper for several years, I concluded I would try it to see if there was any efficacy in the medicine. I commenced using it necording to directions and used half dozen bottles. I was once at a way station and, getting left, I walked the seven miles and have nover felt any return of the old malady. After experiencing the good effects I must say I am satisfied with the result. I am sixty-eight years of age and lifeel now like a young man and can go to the case when necessary and set up from six to eight thousand ems without any inconvenience. Mr. F. Woehl, 211 North Avenue, Chicago, under date of June 12, 1857, writes: "I decin it my duty to thank you for the cure I received from your excellent medicine. I contracted a very severo case of blood pedsoning about two years ago. Hearing of your medicine, I went to a drug store, the proprietor of which persuaded me to buy a preparation of his own, which he said was a sure cure. I used six bottles of his stuff and grew worse all the time. At last I got disgusted and despaired of a cure. I met a friend who told me that your medicine had cured him. I went to the same druggist again and demanded your medicine. Rerelectantly sold me twelve bottles, and I am now perfectly cured. I write this for the benefit of sufferers, to prevent their being deceived by false representations. I thank you again for the benefit derived from your medicine."

Dr. J. N. Cheney, a prominent physician.

you again for the benefit derived from your medicine."

Dr. J. N. Chenev, a prominent physician, residing in Elasville, Schley County, Georgia, in a letter recounting the infallible success he has in curing contagious dood poison cases in his extensive practice, writes: "Those who know the almost inevitable, permanently dangerons effects of mercury will welcome your discovery of 8. S. as a boon to humanity. The medical profession, always wary of proprietary medicines, is coming slowly, and in some cases secretly, to the use of 8. S. in cases of blood disorder. Of course a medicine that cures poisoning in its worst form must purify the blood of every disorder."

A long political debate followed,

Plumb expressed his regret that the chair had not thought so when the Senator from West Virginia was speak-fore in the Senate, and he hoped he never would hear it again. It seemed o blm to be a great degradation to the esate for a Senator to stand up and say that he proposed to be governed in his vote by what the Executive thought, or felt or wanted. The President was a co-ordinate branch of th government, but was not the legislative department of the government. If the great and high body which had maintained for a hundred years a decent and dignified position among the peo-ple, was to be threatened with Execu-mittee on pensions, in reporting the bill, had grown out of the action of the Grand Army of the Republic, which ference to the presumed course of the executive. He had heard that rule VIOLATED BY THREE SENATORS, Davis, Manderson and Blair. These senators had all said that a bill had to be framed and fashioned to avoid a veto message at the hands of the executive. He did not know what authority they had for the statements, but he did know that there was but one political organization in the coun-of internal revenue taxation, and to dispose of the treasury surplus by such bills as this, and that was to be the only practical solution to be of fered by the republican party for the financial difficulties in which the coun-go (hrough in a stereotyped form (after a procrustean fashion) because the Grand Army of the Republic so decreed it, and if they meant to dispose of the surplus in the Treasury in that way and no other, they should be frank enough to face the issue and go to the country upon it.

After further debate by Teller, Hoar, Biacaburn, Blair and Manderson, the hill wentover without action and the Senate proceeded to executive busidess, and from adjourned.
