Lee was very taciturn, but appar-ently resigned. He would hold no conversation with anyone upon any subject whatever, to all questions observing a monotonous silence. The officers and soldiers and part of the reporters arrived at the Monument about 8 p.m. yesterday. The remainder cause on early this morning.

Les broke silence this morning and conversed with the utmost freedom with the Marshal and re-porters. He spoke of his connec-tion with the massacre, but made conflicting statements, at times ad-mitting the wilful killing of five persons to athere denying his guilt persons, to others denying his guilt altogether.
