Its effects are immediate and so natural that no human being can detect its application. inson is Tilden. All over the State there are many anti-Tilden democrats who will probably avail themselves of this opportunity to pay offold scores by quietly voting for Kelly. The latter is personally honest and is bold and undaunted. He has the true qualities of leadership, and the democratic masses adore him. In Brooklyn there is a very strong faction of the democracy which will go for Kelly because the "Boss McLaughlin" wing is against him. It is estimated that unless Robinson and Kelly both withdraw, the former will fall fifty to seventy-five thousand short of the democratic vote of the State. Except for Robinson's Tilden proclivities, he would get a large vote from disease. would get a large vote from dissaffected republicans, who revolt at the tyrany of the machine, as well as their independent floating vote, but in view of the fact that Robinson's election would go far towards ensuring Tilden's control of the State in the next presidential can-vass, none but decided Tilden men feel like coming to his aid. The best impression now is that Robinsen will stubbornly refuse to withdraw and that consequently Cor-nell will carry the State by reason of the divisions and weakness of the opposition, and not by his own or his party's strength.

WASHINGTON, 13.—A letter from General Grant, dated August 7th, to Admiral Ammen, says: "I do not feel half as anxious to get home as I did 18 months ago. There is no country which I have visited this side of Europe, except Japan, where I would care to stay longer than to see the points of greatest interest. Japan is the most interesting country and the people are quite as much so. Changes that that have taken place here are more like a dream than a reality. They have a public school system, extending over the entire empire, and affording facilities for common school education to every child, male and female. They have a military and naval academy, which will compare with ours in the and attainments of the students. They have calleges at several places in the empire, on the same basis of instruction as our best institutions. They have a school of science which I do not believe can be surpassed in any country. Already a great majority of their professors, even these engaged in teaching the European languages.

European languages, are natives, most of them educated in the very institutions where they are now General News.

We soon ascertained, however, that these sounds did not according to the contract of the did not come from the organ, but from the piano which stood in our double parlors. It went through a chord of quite a number of the lower notes, giving somewhat the sound of the organ. Being myself rather skeptical in matters pertain-In counting the funds in the Country Treasury to-day, a deficit of nearly $24,000 was discovered, and ing to superhuman phenomena, I was touched profoundly by these

A later dispatch from Santa Cruz says: The absence of the treasurer was only temporary. The vault found contains some $3,000 lying around loosely. There was nothing to show that burglary had been committed. The treasurer advances no theory concerning the desappearance of funds. He is now under arrest and has turned over his property to his bondsman.

Some of the more timid neighbors declared they would not live in the house. Myself and family did not share these views. I stated to my friends that I expected to fidd some rational cause for this most extraordinary phenomenon. Paople wanted to come in droves to witness this new wonder, which I did not allow. Some apiritualists came from Boston, 10 miles, to hear for themselves, and declared it must be produced by spirits from the other world. To this I could not assent, never having believed not assent, never having believed in spiritualism.

The Rev. Eli Fay, Unitarian, and now settled at Sheffield, England, and the Rev. Dr. J. C. Bodwell, Orthodox, now dead, both able, discreet men, spent with me considerable time in investigating the cause of these wonderful sounds. They examined the house throughout, including the cellar, without success. On one occasion one of London, 13.—The St. Petersburg Gazette warns its readers against the treacherous assertion that it is necessary for England to conquer Afghanistan. It says England has always been the deadly-enemy of Russia. The policy of Russia in Asia can only consist of reprisals against England. It is necessary to expel the British from Central Asia. This can now be done by sending 20,000 Russians to defend Afghanistan. Now is the favorable moment to free Russia's eastern was both open and shut, and it seemed to proceed direct from the instrument. On further investigation, the sounds were traced to the gas meter, which was in the cellar, nearly under the piano. The sound, though diffused somewhat, had seemed to be in the piano.

After a short time my family became tired of these sounds, and I had the gas meter changed for another, and have never heard them

I could have made a great sensation of this matter, but did not. I have no doubt that many mysterious things have taken place which have been ascribed to some supernatural cause, when persistent intelligent investigation would have solved the whole affair in a rational way.
