

THE EVENING NEWS.

PUBLISHED DAILY, SUNDAYS EXCEPTED AT FOUR O'CLOCK.

DAVID O. CALDER,
EDITOR AND PUBLISHER.

Thursday, Feb. 4, 1875.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

It is said that Bismarck is suffering from a nervous disease, and that he intends to retire to private life shortly.

It was expected in eastern financial circles that there would be a considerable advance to-day, in the rate of discount of the Bank of England, but a London telegram announces that no change has taken place.

The English and American residents of Rome gave a banquet to Garibaldi to-night.

Congressman Hersey, of Maine, is dead.

The trial of a libel suit, damages $50,000, against the editor of the New York Sun, was commenced yesterday.

The U. S. Senate has rejected the Canadian reciprocity treaty.

A severe wind and snow storm prevailed in part of the East yesterday, and to-day the thermometer is fifteen below zero at Omaha.

Great suffering is reported among the poor on the borders of Nebraska.

There was a serious railway accident near Bennett, Neb., on Tuesday night.

In the U. S. House of Representatives, yesterday, there was a lengthy discussion on the civil rights bill.

In the congressional investigation at New Orleans yesterday, important evidence was given against the fabrications of the carpet-baggers.

A British consular has been assaulted and a British subject imprisoned at Aspinwall, in consequence of which a British man-of-war has been sent thither to investigate.

From Canada news comes of the killing of several persons by the falling of a large rock, and of several others by an avalanche.

The constitutional bill was under consideration in the French Assembly yesterday, and several more clauses were adopted.

The Hawaiian reciprocity has been signed by the President of the United States.

Rail connection has been effected through the Hoosac tunnel.

Three men were killed by a railroad accident in Long Island, last night.

More than fifteen hundred thousand pounds have been drawn from the Bank of England, during the past week; during the same period the specie in the Bank of France has increased nearly thirty-four million francs.

Sixty thousand dollars damage by fire this morning.

It is said that official news has been received in Washington, to the effect that the Congressional committee at New Orleans entirely agree with the sub-committee, as regards the action of the late returning board.

The wreck of the brig Hattie Jackson, and of the schooner Emily K. Farnham, is announced in the San Francisco telegrams.

There was a meeting at Carson City last night to consider the manner in which Nevada shall be represented at the Centennial Exhibition.

Darfur, Africa, is annexed to Egypt.

The Chinese succession has been settled by royal proclamation.

A telegram announces a fire and loss of life, at Ellenbach, South Africa.

The House naval affairs committee will exonerate Stowell of Virginia, from the charge of selling a cadetship.

The money withdrawn from the Bank of England the past week has gone to France, to be invested in a new loan there.

The Senate committee on Territories have agreed on a report favoring the creation of the Territory of Pembina.

A serious accident was caused by a wind storm, at Montreal last night.

NEWS NOTES.

Colonel De Trobriand is a French noble, a native of New Orleans.

English writers are once more discussing the economy of close clothes, and they say they "burn the air."

Bismarck now thinks it necessary for a six-shooter to accompany the Chancellor of the German Empire wherever he goes.

Somebody tried to start the gift concert swindle in London, and came to grief and also to the police station. The concert has been indefinitely postponed.

By the expulsion of the Sisters of Charity from Mexico forty-three charitable establishments are closed, and 410 Sisters are sent out of the country.

Becher's jury consists of two Episcopalians, one Methodist, one Lutheran, two Catholics, three Presbyterians, and three ungodly men.

A house in London has deposited $10,000 as a security for the fulfillment of a contract with the President of Bolivia to establish steam navigation along the dyke of Carthage.

The Sioux City (La.) Journal was obliged to issue an explanatory and apologetic card the other day, owing to a blunder of the foreman in the composing room, by which an account of the marriage of two highly respectable citizens of Des Moines was published under the head of "Crime."

Witness this from the London Times: "It is desired to place two young ladies, aged twelve and fourteen, very strong and healthy, under a lady who approves of and will thoroughly and duly administer the birch rod. Terms most liberal. Address: G. Postoffice, Hampden, Middlesex."

The Lord Mayor's juvenile ball in London during holiday week was a grand affair. Eleven hundred and sixteen ladies and gentlemen participated. The supper was fine. Next day all the fashionable physicians in the city were busily employed, and the sale of paragon was unprecedented.

Immerging hides twenty-four hours in a two per cent. solution of carbolic acid and then simply drying them, has been recently substituted for the tedious and expensive process of salting them for transportation from South America and Australia, and with most satisfactory results. Bones have been similarly treated for transportation.

The Comte de Waldeck is regarded as the oldest inhabitant of Paris, his friends claiming that he has attained the great age of 111 years. Three years ago he applied for the position of director of a new theatre going up near the Madeleine, because he occupied that position under the first Republic. He served for many years in the French army, and records there prove him to be over a century old, at least.

IRON MANUFACTURE.

COAL and iron are said to be the basis of England's greatness and strength among the nations. Of these two most useful staples Utah has a liberal share. In fact her resources in these particulars are in some others are very great, and it is thought practically inexhaustible. It is the development, however, of these opulent resources which will make this Territory great and comparatively wealthy.

In this view it is a matter for rejoicing to see the attention of the public and especially the capitalists and business men directed to the subject of the manufacture of iron in its various branches beginning with the crude ore in the mountain.

The organization of the Great Western Iron Works in Iron County and the iron works at Ogden was followed by the incorporation of the Utah Central Iron Company in this city on the first of this present February, with a capital stock of $250,000 in shares of $100 each, and with the following officers—President, Wm. Jennings; Vice President, Wm. H. Hooper; Secretary and Treasurer, James T. Little; Directors, William Jennings, W. H. Hooper, H. S. Eldredge, John Sharp, sen., James Sharp, Fernand Little and James T. Little.

The purpose of the company is the manufacture of iron from the ore and in as many different branches as may be thought best. The company own several beds of ore; and one of the first things the company propose to do is to erect a preliminary furnace in this city, in which to prove the different ores that are found in the Territory, and determine their quality and relative value and the most useful combinations of them for various purposes of manufacture. Then it is the design to erect furnaces at the ore beds to reduce the ore to pigs. Extensive rolling mills and other buildings for the manufacture of iron are to be erected in this city, as the central point of business and manufacture for this Territory, and the neighboring Territories.

We understand that the ore from Goshen, near Santaquin, City Creek, and the Weber, will be especially tested, and furnaces for converting the ore into crude iron will be erected at the most convenient points near the ore beds, or such of them as promise the best.

The people generally will have opportunity to subscribe to the stock of the company, and it is hoped that it will prove a great benefit to the community in increasing the business thereof, and in affording labor to a large number of people.

Local aid organizations, and especially of resident citizens, for the establishment of useful home industries and the development of local resources, are to be encouraged at all times, for on these must the Territory depend for continued material prosperity, and perhaps no one industry can conduce so greatly to the public welfare as the extensive manufacture of iron. Therefore we wish all these new enterprises in this direction to be successful and of course especially as regards this city, it being the chief city in this region, the capital of the Territory, and the Queen City of the Rocky Mountains.

BLOOD AND LONGEVITY.

"Blood" and longevity do not always go together. An exchange says—

"There is a great fallacy, in the royal family of 'Queens.' The 'Fourth Duchess of Osnieda' is now dead and her good name is stained by the fact that she leaves a child, the son of the 'Fourth Duke of Thordale.' The Duchess had strayed away into Kentucky, to hide her shame. She died at Paris, in that State, since mourned by her owners, who purchased her for $25,000, at the great sale of royal blood near Utica, New York, in 1853. The 'Fourth Duchess of Osnieda' was a cow. The cow that at the same sale brought $40,500 is also dead. So that it seems while 'blood' is in any form and capacity, it is no insurance of longevity."

Have they been killed with kindness?

A THOUSAND DOLLARS.

A thousand dollars reward is offered for the apprehension and conviction of the incendiary scoundrel or scoundrels infesting Oakland, Cal., and says the Transcript, "The reward is offered by responsible parties, and will be promptly paid upon information being given which shall lead to the conviction of the villain. In this connection we would urge our citizens to look up such shot-guns with a charge of buckshot, and do any prowlers about their premises. No quarter should be given to incendiaries."

TO BE MARRIED TO-DAY.—An exchange says—

"The marriage of the Princess Louise, daughter of the King of the Belgians, with Prince Philip, Duke of Saxony, is to take place on February 4th. The dowry of the bride amounts to $375,000.

If the royal lady is really married, we wish her joy.

By Telegraph.

Last Night's Dispatches

The Louisiana investigation. New Orleans, 3.—The congressional committee to-day examined Charles W. Barr, a merchant who came to Shreveport two years ago from New York. He testified to the cordial treatment he received from the representative residents of the city and country, and their desire to have representative northern capitalists there, and their loyalty to the general government; also to the peaceableness of the election last November and to the depression of business and the shrinkage of salaries, which he attributed to high taxation and misadministration. He said that opposition to the republican officers was due to their corruptness; were they honest and capable they would be as well liked as anybody. S. B. Steers, a Shreveport merchant, corroborated Barr's testimony.

J. C. Moncreux, of Shreveport, the conservative candidate for State treasurer at the last election, testified as to the condition of political affairs in the State since reconstruction. He stated that until last election the conservative ticket, a mixture of white and black tickets, but at the last election they believed it would have more effect on the negroes to run a straight white ticket, and the result proved the correctness of the theory, as the ticket received a larger black vote than ever before. He denied that there was any ill feeling between the whites and blacks, except when the latter were influenced by corrupt men.

A. Hall, a colored resident of Shreveport, testified to the fairness of the last election; he then said that many colored people voted the conservative ticket, being influenced by the failure of the Savings bank; he voted the conservative ticket in order to secure a good government. He also testified to the general good feeling between the whites and negroes, and said that well behaved negroes were treated as well as whites, and that intelligent negroes believe their interests to be identified with those of the whites. Witness was subjected to a severe examination by Frye, who recited various articles from the republican platform and proceedings, with the inquiry, "What do you think of the doctrine?"

R. H. Man was examined, his testimony being corroborative of the foregoing.

FOREIGN.

WEST INDIES.

A British Consul Assailed. KINGSTON, Jamaica, 3.—A disturbance is reported at Aspinwall, in consequence of the imprisonment of Dr. Pigott, a British subject; a man-of-war has been ordered from here to Aspinwall, to support the British consul, who has been assaulted.

CANADA.

Killed by Accident and Avalanche. QUEBEC, 3.—A large rock fell today at Cape Blanc, crushing a number of people; so far eight bodies have been found. No further particulars have been received of the snow avalanche from Cape Diamond. It crushed a two story house and buried a family of six persons named Gibson; the body of one has been recovered and the rest are supposed to be dead.

GREAT BRITAIN.

Meeting of Liberals. LONDON, 3.—At a meeting of the Liberal members of Parliament, held here this evening, 137 were present, including Childers, Cowper, Temple, Lewis, Dillinger, Gladstone, Goschen, Henry James, Gladstone, Mendell, Dr. Playfair, John Bright presided, and on taking the chair he said that although a parliamentary leader was necessary, still each member had the right to reserve such individual liberty as honorable men required. A resolution regretting Gladstone's retirement was adopted, and the Marquis of Hartington was unanimously elected leader of the party.

SPAIN.

Defeated and Captured. MADRID, 3.—General Loma has defeated and captured the Carlists under General Aguirre.

FRANCE.

The Constitution Progressing. PARIS, 3.—In the Assembly, to-day, the consideration of Venturini's bill was continued. Clause three, making members responsible for their general policy but holding the president responsible only in case of high treason, was passed, also the clause declaring Versailles the seat of the executive power. They also passed a clause providing that in the event of a vacancy in the presidency by death or otherwise, the chambers shall meet immediately, and that the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated that the power of revision was given to the Assembly extended to the form of government. The consideration of the bill in debate having been completed, the council of ministers shall exercise executive power ad interim. The amendment reported by De Favre yesterday, from the committee of thirty, making provision for the revision of the constitution by both chambers assembled in Congress, was passed, with a provision for taking the revision of the constitution by an absolute majority, and that during the term of revision, such revision could be entered upon only at his suggestion. Paris, a monarchist and member of the committee of thirty, stated